MIDWEST SWEPT BY BITTER COLD; BLIZZARD EAST

73 Below in Canada; 50 in Wisconsin.

23 Drown in Flood

At least 23 persons drown as rivers in Mississippi and Tennessee reach flood stage in midst of intense cold wave. Thousands marooned or homeless. Towns feverishly working on levees to hold back new floods as streams rise. Details on page 2.

(Pictures on Back Page.)

After sending the mercury to 8 below zero in Chicago at midnight last night, with still lower temperatures forecast before morning, Old Man Winter is expected to relent this afternoon. The temperature [unofficial] remained at 8 below at 3 o'clock this morning. A shift in the wind to the southward was forecast, which, the forecaster said, should bring a maximum temperature this afternoon and evening of 15 degrees above zero.

Most of the North American continent yesterday was in the grip of sub-zero cold, floods or blizzards. From the Mississippi river westward the cold wave raged for its fifth day.

Through the northern prairies of the United States weather records of many years' standing tumbled in the onslaught of the bitter cold. There was some relief during the day, but by nightfall the mercury again was sliding.

73 Below Zero Recorded.

As the McKenzie river basin in the subarctic poured its masses of arctic air over western Canada's steppes the all time Canadian low record of 78 was approached at Iroquois Falls, Ont., where 73 below was reported. Other low temperatures were:

White River, Ont.	—62	Winnipeg, Man.	—44
Ft. M'M'rray, Alta.	—60	Williston, N. D.	—40
Frederick, Wis.	—55	Duluth, Minn.	—38

Following are unofficial suburban temperatures at midnight:

Blizzard on East Coast.

A blizzard was raging along the eastern seaboard from the Virginia capes to Maine last night and New York City was struggling to keep trafic open through 16 inches of snow which at midnight was still falling, driven by a 40 mile gale.

Dixie was beset by swollen rivers, widespread floods, below freezing temperatures in winter resort towns, and snow in the far south.

The Pacific northwest was in the grip of gales and heavy rains which flooded rivers and caused landslides. Vancouver, B. C., was cut off from the outside world by all but radio.

By way of contrast with North American cold, Buenos Aires sweltered in a heat wave which reached 105 degrees during the day.

Chicago's Frigid Temperatures.

Chicago's temperatures were not far from zero all day. At 9:40 a. m. it dropped to 1 below, climbed up to 4 above at 1 p. m., and then began skidding. When the thermometer atop the United States courthouse recorded an official 3 below at 9 p. m. it was 6 below on the official government thermometer at the airport. At midnight and thereafter until 3 a. m. the airport recorded 8 below.

The eastern blizzard paralyzed transportation from New England down the eastern seaboard cities. The heavy snowfall driven by high winds, extended westward into Pennsylvania and the Ohio valley.

Municipal lodging houses and armories were thrown open to the poor and unemployed for shelter in New York City as the mercury dropped near zero. It was the heaviest fall there in fifteen years.

At Boston with the temperature near zero heavy drifting snow tied up all

GREEN TREE INN BURNS; FAMOUS OLD LANDMARK

The Green Tree inn, 1101 South Waukegan road, famous Lake Forest landmark, burned to the ground last night. Sparks from an overheated furnace are believed to have caused the fire, which resulted in damage estimated at $25,000. Despite the 10 below zero temperature a number of Lake Forest society people turned out to watch the fire.

The inn was built 80 years ago as a farmhouse, one of the first in Lake county. In recent years it was remodeled and at the time of the fire was being operated as an inn by Ambrose Montavan, who had leased it from Louis Swift.

Montavan and his wife, who is a cripple, had been out with friends for the evening and knew nothing of the fire until they returned about 2 a. m., to discover they had lost everything but the clothing they were wearing. Earlier, when they could not be found, it was feared they might have perished in the fire.

BATTLE WAVES TO TOW FLAMING TANKER TO PORT

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Heavy weather today blocked efforts to get the flaming oil tanker Valverda started toward port from the spot in mid-Atlantic where she has been afire since Sunday.

Last messages from the rescuing British net layer Guardian picked up here today said the two craft were still rolling in heavy seas 900 miles off Bermuda after one towline had snapped.

The Guardian's messages said the fire was still burning around the Valverda's stern after claiming the life of Third Engineer G. S. Taylor. There was no explanation to supplement the terse report of Taylor's death wirelessed yesterday to the ship's owners in Glasgow.

So his honor told the sherif to take the entire jury panel and help Ramey with the milking. One of the jurors is a business man who never milked a cow in his life. The rest are old hands.

John B. Payne, Ex-Member of Cabinet, Dead

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24 [Thursday].—(AP)—John Barton Payne, former secretary of the interior and chairman of the American Red Cross under four Presidents, died at 1:06 a. m. today of pneumonia.

Mr. Payne was taken to the George Washington hospital recently for treatment for influenza. He developed appendicitis and underwent an operation last Saturday. Pneumonia developed subsequently.

Long widowed and childless, Mr. Payne's closest survivors were numerous nephews and nieces. His old Chicago law partner, Silas Strawn, was at his bedside during his last illness, which was attended by Dr. Cary T. Grayson, physician to ex-President Woodrow Wilson.

80 Years Old Jan. 26.

Mr. Payne, a former member of President Wilson's cabinet, would have been 80 years old Jan. 26.

Throughout most of his long career as a lawyer Mr. Payne had served in public life. He was secretary of the interior for President Wilson after the war. During the war he served the administration in various capacities. He had been director of the Red Cross since Oct. 1, 1921.

Born in Pruntytown, in what is now West Virginia, in 1855, Mr. Payne received his education and was admitted to the bar in that state in 1876. For the next five years he practiced law in West Virginia, entering politics as chairman of the Preston county Democratic committee.

Resigns Bench in 1898.

He moved to Chicago in 1883 and ten years later was elected Superior judge of Cook county, from which position he resigned in 1898. Until 1918 he was a senior partner in the law firm of Winston, Payne, Strawn, and Shaw. He was president of the South park board from 1911 to 1924.

In 1913 Mr. Payne was married to Jennie Byrd, who died in 1919.

Soon after war broke out Mr. Payne was called to Washington by President Wilson as general counsel for the Emergency Fleet corporation and for the railroad administration. From 1919 until his appointment to the cabinet in February, 1920, he was chairman of the United States shipping board. He was director general of railroads from May, 1920, until April, 1921, the month after his cabinet term expired.

Mr. Payne received numerous decorations for his international Red Cross activities. He was chairman of the board of governors of the League of Red Cross societies of Paris, in which 58 nations were represented. Countries which thus honored him included France, Belgium, Greece, Japan, China, Poland, and Austria.

ROBBER LEAVES STORE LOOTLESS AS GIRL ARGUES

Miss Dorothy Hatton, 5518 Emerald avenue, induced a young robber to depart empty handed last night from a candy store at 12 South Wabash avenue, where she is employed as a clerk.

While in the rear of the store Miss Hatton heard a man enter and order Miss Mary Keating, 6331 South Fairfield avenue, the other clerk, to give him the contents of the cash register. Miss Hatton stepped into the front and the robber repeated his demand to her.

"No, indeed," replied Miss Hatton. "We would lose our jobs if we gave you the money."

The robber hesitated a moment, shook his head, and walked out.

BUS VANDALISM PLANNED LIKE A WAR, JURY TOLD

Witness Links Taber to Strike Terrorism.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

The campaign of strike violence against the Chicago Motor Coach company last summer and fall was as carefully planned and carried out as any military maneuver or legitimate commercial enterprise, a jury in the Criminal court of Judge William V. Brothers was told yesterday.

Lloyd Slee, confessed leader of a gang of south side sluggers and bus window smashers, did the telling. In a precise, businesslike manner he related the startling story of the tactics he employed to coerce bus drivers and to "bring the strike to the public's notice."

One of State's Witnesses.

He was one of the state's witnesses against Joseph Kehoe and William Taber, officials of the street car men's union, who are on trial on charges of abetting the murder of James J. Kelly, a bus dispatcher. Kelly was slugged and shot to death early in the morning of Sept. 26, while the terrorism was at its height. The murder occurred on a street car at Cicero and Grand avenues.

Slee's testimony linked Taber to the alleged murder conspiracy for the first time. Previously the force of the state's evidence had been directed against Kehoe.

Although Slee and his crew of vandals did not participate in the murder of Kelly, it is the state's contention that Kehoe and Taber authorized and financed the violence and are responsible for all crimes arising out of it.

He Brings In Stoltzmann.

The testimony also brought in Ralph Stoltzmann, head of the union that called the strike. This union is affiliated with the street car men's organization.

The witness said he received $200 from Stoltzmann and $500 from Kehoe and Taber to carry on the terrorism. Stoltzmann, Slee, and 27 other men have been indicted for the violence and have been granted trials separate from this one.

Slee and a confederate, Wayne Hoover, are charged specifically with another murder during the strike. This was the slaying of Mrs. Mary Kennard, 65 years old, of the Hyde Park hotel. Mrs. Kennard was struck by a steel ball bearing hurled through the window of a south side bus. She died on the same morning that Kelly was killed.

Slee's Story to Jury.

Slee, who lives at 822 East 46th street, took the witness stand during the afternoon session. He gave his age as 32 years, although he looks much older. Tall, blond, dressed in a dark blue suit and wearing glasses, he appeared more like a business executive than a slugger. His faultless diction and calm attitude were in striking contrast to the story he told.

Questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, Slee said that he had been a street car motorman for nine years. Before that he had worked for the bus company and had met Stoltzmann.

"Do you know Taber?" Coghlan asked.

"I knew of him for several years," replied Slee. "Just prior to last Sept. 1 I dropped into his office at the street car union headquarters [328 South Ashland avenue, where the bus union office is also situated].

First Talk with Taber.

"I asked him if he knew what I was there for. He said he had heard about the violence campaign [against the bus company], but said he had no opportunity to give me financial assistance and his union could not become involved. He said the officials were afraid of becoming involved in a conspiracy and being taken to the state's attorney's office.

"I said I expected to be paid for any assistance. He said he would take it up at some other time. On Sept. 3 I went to the office with Hoover. I had heard there had been a meeting of the street car union and they had voted $5,000 to aid the bus union in the strike.

Tells of Receiving $300.

"I saw Taber and Kehoe and asked them if they were ready to give us money to help our work. I told him that the work involved hiring street car men, paying them $3 a day, and then having them break bus windows. Taber asked Kehoe how much he

Strange Case of 'Poisoning' Baffles Clinic

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

A strange problem in medical science is presented in the case of Stephen S. Kasony, a young draftsman of East Chicago, Ind., who has been a patient at the University of Chicago clinics since last June.

A victim of aplastic anemia, he has been kept alive by 30 blood transfusions. He is supposed to be suffering from the effects of an unknown poison which may have been taken in through a shoe dye.

Dye Poisoning Is Suspected.

"With every other known possibility eliminated, such as occupational poisoning, there is a strong suspicion that this man was poisoned through a yellow dye which he used on his shoes months ago," said Dr. Arthur C. Bachmeyer, dean of the clinics, yesterday.

Kasony is 27 years old and his home is at 4753 Melville avenue, East Chicago. He was employed by the Shell Petroleum company. He entered Billings hospital at the university in June after three months of peculiar symptoms of palpitation and weakness, abdominal pain and bleeding teeth. His skin had turned yellow.

A Bottle of Yellow Dye.

His health history previous to this time had been good. Various examinations were made and he was given liver extract and other treatments for anemia, but he did not improve. In July the staf physicians in probing his history got from him the following story:

He had an Austrian uncle who was a shoemaker in a small way and had a repair shop. This uncle died last spring and left his effects to the family.

In the shop one day Kasony found a bottle of yellow dye which his uncle had used in putting new soles on shoes. He polished his shoes with it twice, with the shoes on his feet, he told the doctors. The only thing he could tell about it was that it smelled like peach seeds.

Blood Elements Decreased.

A search was made for the bottle in order to analyze the contents, but it had been thrown away. The suspicion remains with the doctors that this was the cause of Kasony's illness, although it can not be proved. The effect has been to decrease all the blood producing cellular elements in the blood, both white and red corpuscles and hemoglobin.

As Kasony did not respond to any treatment, blood transfusion was resorted to on July 14. It has been found necessary to continue this ever since, until his blood has had thirty "meals" of this sort. His wife, his brother, other relatives, and friends have furnished the blood. Still he does not improve.

Other Cases Are Recalled.

There have been more than sixty cases of "shoe dye" poisoning reported in medical literature. The majority of these, however, respond more or less quickly to treatment. After several cases had been reported in Chicago in 1926 the department of health banished all leather dyes containing toxic solvents from sale after March 1, 1927.

In Amsterdam in 1915 several cases of poisoning were reported and the supply of shoe dye was confiscated. In an army camp in 1919 soldiers became ill after dyeing their shoes brown to match their puttees.

HIS TOOLS MADE KIDNAP LADDER, AVERS EXPERT

Part of Wood Traced to Attic Floor.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The state rounded out its case against Bruno Hauptmann today with the tale of an amazing piece of detective work—the tracing of the lumber used in construction of the kidnap ladder by Arthur Koehler, head of the United States forestry laboratory at Madison, Wis.

Koehler gave it as his opinion, based upon a thorough investigation, that one of the uprights of the ladder had been fashioned from a board taken from the plank flooring of the attic of Hauptmann's house. He told the jury, moreover, that Hauptmann's plane, found in his garage, had been used in building the ladder.

The ladder was found on the Lindbergh estate after the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been abducted on March 1, 1932. Koehler's testimony was regarded by the state as climaxing its circumstantial evidence that Hauptmann kidnaped and murdered the baby.

Bruno on Stand Today.

Defense Attorney Reilly announced tonight that the cross-examination of Koehler and the opening statement by Defense Attorney C. Lloyd Fisher would be completed by noon tomorrow and that Hauptmann would take the stand immediately.

"I am going to take Hauptmann from the day he was born up to the time of his arrest," declared Reilly. "Everything will be brought out, including his criminal record, his association with Isador Fisch, and every detail of his life."

He declared the defense would not take more than two weeks to complete its case.

A bald-headed, mild-mannered man is Mr. Koehler, but his story revealed him as a hard working, plugging detective with astonishing qualities of perseverance. His investigation of the ladder led him to a Bronx lumber yard where Hauptmann worked more than a year before the carpenter was trapped passing a $10 ransom bill.

The trail stopped there, because it was found impossible to trace all the purchasers of lumber at the yard.

PART OF LADDER

He began his testimony with the definite statement that a board from Hauptmann's attic and one of the ladder uprights had originally been one continuous board which had been cut in two.

With the aid of photographs he showed the open mouthed jurors how the two matched. The ladder upright was narrower than the floor plank, but Koehler testified that it had been planed down. It did not fit exactly into the gap left in the attic floor by the sawing out of a plank, but the witness proceeded to demonstrate how the grain of the wood corresponded.

"There are a number of points of similarity," he asserted. "The nail holes in the ladder board correspond with the nail holes in joists in the attic to which the boards had originally been attached. Nail holes in the attic joists matched perfectly in distance, angle, and position with holes in the ladder upright.

"It is inconceivable that the nail holes should be in those positions by coincidence," he remarked. "But there are other reasons."

Objections Keep Interrupting.

He was continually interrupted during his testimony by objections from Defense Attorney Frederick A. Pope, who made lengthy speeches of protest. Prosecutor Wilentz finally remarked:

"After all, we ought not to be too technical here; this is a court of justice. These photographs and diagrams being used by the witness are not prejudicial to the defendant and they help to make the case clearer to the jury."

All the objections were overruled by the judge and the witness proceeded with his explanation of the nature of rings and markings in wood. His testimony was not unlike that of the handwriting experts in pointing out similarities; and again and again he pointed his remarks with the statement:

"That to my mind proves conclusively that these two pieces were once the same piece."

The defense made much of the fact that about one inch of the plank had been sawed off.

The judge referred to it as "the missing link," but refused to bar the evidence because of this fact.

The plane found in Hauptmann's tool chest was shown to the witness.

"That plane was used in building the kidnap ladder," he asserted. There followed a remarkable courtroom scene to which the jurors were fascinated witnesses.

"Take a piece of wood," ordered Prosecutor Wilentz. "Plane it with that plane and show the jury the marks it leaves."

Strangely, there were no objections from the defense. The technologist in a businesslike manner produced a vise. Looking around for a suitable workbench he eyed the judge's desk longingly and the jurist invited him to use it.

The Defense Comes To.

Koehler mounted the vise on the judge's bench. He produced a piece of white pine and fixed it in the vise. He seized the plane. Attorney Pope seemed to awake from a daze and jumped to his feet.

"I object to this demonstration," he said. "This is another piece of wood entirely and has no connection with this case."

"It's the same kind of wood, Ponderosa pine, as the rungs of the ladder," the witness remarked.

"I object unless you can show us it came from the same forest," said the defense lawyer.

"There's no trick about this," said Wilentz, angrily. "I must protest against these constant interruptions which are slowing us up." [The prosecutor had hoped to rest the state's case today.]

Judge Trenchard was interested. He ordered the witness to proceed with his act.

Hauptmann Is Interested.

Hauptmann, known as a clever carpenter himself, watched with interest as the expert grabbed the plane and shoved it over the surface of the piece of white pine. A long curling ribbon of pine came from the plane.

"Now that plane was and is in pretty bad condition," the witness explained to the jury. "There were nicks in the knife. It left distinct and individual marks on the wood upon which it was used."

Just as school children cover a coin with paper and then rub the paper with a pencil to bring out the impression of the coin, so the witness covered the planed surface with paper and used a pencil to bring out the irregularities of the surface. Then he repeated the operation with one of the ladder rungs and compared the two.

"They are identical," he declared, passing the two pieces of paper to the jurors, who studied them closely. "The plane which I have just used was the plane which was used in fashioning that ladder."

Hauptmann, who had laughed uneasily when the witness used the plane, was obviously irritated as the testimony continued.

A wooden shaft support taken from Hauptmann's house was also offered in evidence. It too had been fashioned with Hauptmann's plane, the witness said.

CHISEL IS BROUGHT IN

The chisel found by the kidnap ladder was produced. It was a three-quarter inch chisel, Koehler declared. He was shown Hauptmann's tool chest.

"Every good carpenter has five chisels," he declared. "A one-quarter inch, a one-half inch, a three-quarters inch, an inch, and an inch and a half. The three-quarter inch is missing from this set, and the chisels are of the same type as the one found with the ladder."

When the witness added that a three-quarter inch chisel had been used in making the ladder, the defense attorneys wanted to know the relevancy of the testimony inasmuch as there was no direct evidence that the chisel missing from Hauptmann's chest was the one found on the Lindberg's estate.

"Well, all these are pieces of circumstance which must be given to the jury for their consideration," remarked the judge.

Koehler then proceeded to tell the story of how he investigated the wood used in the building of the kidnap ladder.

Traces Lumber to Yard.

"I came into the case in 1932," he said. "By Nov. 29, 1933, I had traced the lumber to the National Millwork and Lumber company in the Bronx."

"Now how did you trace that?" the attorney general asked.

"It's a long story," warned Koehler.

"We want to hear it," insisted the lawyer.

"A dressed piece of lumber shows many markings under the microscope," began Koehler. "I determined from a study of the kidnap ladder that it has been planed by machine. There were certain flaws every 33-100 of an inch which indicated that one of the knives of the planing machine had a nick in it. Other calculations determined for me that the machine had eight blades trimming the top of the board and six blades trimming the bottom when the board went through the machine. Moreover, one of the blades was slightly out of line, markings showed."

Checks Up on 1,598 Mills.

Casually Koehler testified that he had undertaken the Herculean task of investigating the 1,598 planing mills in the east. His job was made easier by discovering that comparatively few of the mills used planing machines of the type described.

"I cut the list down to 25 mills," he testified. "I got samples from all of them. Only one mill had markings on its lumber similar to the marks I wanted."

That mill was the J. J. & M. G. Dorn company of McCormick, S. C. Koehler traveled to the mill, had lumber run through the machine and satisfied himself that he at least was at the start of the trail.

"I found that the planing machine had been purchased in September, 1929," he continued. "It was apparent that the wood which eventually became the kidnap ladder was shipped out between that date and the date of the kidnaping. I studied the records of the mill and found that forty-five carloads of one by four inch boards had been shipped out in that period to twenty-five firms in all parts of the country."

Only One Carload So Marked.

But in questioning officials, Koehler discovered that the faulty blades on the planing machine had been fixed after a short time, so that only one carload of the boards carried the distinguishing marks for which he was searching.

Patiently, Koehler began searching in the twenty-five lumber yards for the wood he wanted.

He was finally rewarded in November, 1933, when he visited the Bronx Lumber yard and found the marked timber for which he was looking. He directed that an investigation be conducted of all the purchases of lumber from the yard, but the company's records were defective and no clews were gathered. Not until a year later was it to be learned that Bruno Hauptmann had worked at periods in the yard and in December of 1931, two months before the kidnaping, had purchased for $9.32, a quantity of lumber.

Wife of Democratic Chieftain Attends H auptmann Trial

CROWD BRAVES SNOW

The announcement that the state's case was near an end brought out one of the largest crowds thus far seen at the trial despite the fact that the steadily falling snow was making trafic increasingly difficult.

The morning session started off quietly enough with the recalling of Trooper Frank Kelly of the New Jersey state police to the witness stand for cross-examination by Defense Attorney Reilly.

Kelly was the fingerprint expert who failed to find any fingerprints on the ransom note left in the nursery on the night of the kidnaping.

Finds Paper That Matches.

Inspector John A. Lyons of the New York police testified that he had found a sheet of writing paper in Hauptmann's house the day of his arrest. Attorney Reilly objected to the introduction of the paper as an exhibit, but Judge Trenchard overruled him.

The paper resembled that on which the ransom notes were written.

The witness admitted under cross-examination that it was a type purchasable in 5 and 10 cent and other stores.

Detective Sergeant Lewis J. Bornman told the jury of searching Hauptmann's attic for money and noticing that one floor plank about eight feet long had been removed. There were plaintive protests from the defense attorneys about this testimony, but the judge allowed the witness to explain to the jury, with the aid of a phototograph of the attic, where the board was missing.

Not only did one upright of the kidnap ladder correspond exactly to the floor planks in the attic, but the nails and nail holes indicated that the plank in the ladder was taken from the attic, the witness testified. The kidnap plank was separated from the ladder and fitted perfectly in the gap left by the missing board in the attic floor, Inspector Lyons asserted. A photograph showing how the plank fitted into the aperture was admitted into evidence over the objections of the defense counsel.

Shelves Barred Attic Entrance.

Policeman Charles W. Enkler corroborated his superior's testimony and added the detail that shelves had been erected, presumably by Hauptmann, barring the entrance into the attic. These were removed by the police in order to enter the attic.

"There was sawdust under where a board had been taken out of the attic," he testified.

There was another long cross-examination by Attorney Pope which finally caused the judge to remark:

"We seem to be wasting a lot of time here on immaterial things."

Anselin Cramer, a police carpenter, added his testimony concerning the fitting of the ladder upright into the gap in the attic floor.

There was a buzz of excitement when Dr. Koehler was called to the stand. He qualified himself as an expert, stating that he examined two or three thousand samples of wood yearly and had testified in many cases regarding the identification of various types of lumber.

Brought In by U. S.

Q.—How did you come into the Lindbergh case? A.—At the request of the government and the state of New Jersey.

Q.—You have examined both the kidnap ladder and this board taken from the attic? A.—Many times.

Q.—Is there a relationship between the two?

Attorney Pope objected.

"Do you say this witness is not an expert?" the judge asked.

"I say there is no such animal as a wood expert," returned the attorney.

"Well, as a veteran examiner of wood, he may answer," ruled the judge.

SIDELIGHTS OF THE TRIAL

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—In the sixteen court days of the trial the state has placed 87 witnesses on the stand and has put 247 exhibits in evidence. Those exhibits range all the way from an innocent appearing piece of note paper found in a desk in the Hauptmann home to the crudely put together telescope ladder which, it is charged, Hauptmann used in accomplishing the kidnaping.

The jury has received lessons at the hands of expert teachers in handwriting delineation, in finger printing, its limitations and its efficacy, and in the unique science of wood technology.

Among the 87 the state has called to the stand seven stand out in interest and importance, according to one lawyer not attached to either side who has been a daily spectator. These are Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Col. Lindbergh, Betty Gow, Albert S. Osborn, dean of the corps of handwriting experts; Dr. John F. Condon, William E. Frank of the bureau of internal revenue, and Arthur Koehler, United States forestry service wood technologist.

The trial is "all booked up weeks in advance," Sherif John H. Curtiss declared today.

"I've got 5,000 applications for seats from all over the country and twelve foreign countries that I can't do anything about," he said. "We're doing everything we can to get everybody we can inside, but the courtroom isn't big enough for them all. It should have been held in Madison Square Garden."

Hauptmann wants to be known as a house builder, it became known today. Mrs. Hauptmann has complained about news services' calling her husband a cabinetmaker.

With ten witnesses and a request for acquittal, the defense expects to free Hauptmann without the case ever going to the jury. Asked today how many he expected to put on the stand, Reilly replied:

"We have about fifty in mind, but I don't think we shall need them all. The chances are we shall question about ten of them, ask for acquittal, and get it!"

Twenty more minutes is all that New Jersey asks to complete its evidence against Hauptmann. It has been pounding along for 16 days, building up a trail which it believes leads to Hauptmann as the baby's kidnaper-slayer. Tomorrow Koehler, the expert who has given the most damaging testimony thus far against Hauptmann, will be on the stand for the state only about a third of an hour, Prosecutor Wilentz indicated tonight, and then it will be the defense's turn. Unless a last minute decision is made to put a few minor witnesses on the stand, the final action will be the defense's opening statement before Bruno himself takes the chair to be examined on his entire life history.

The much disputed automobile of Hauptmann's is likely to be introduced to the jury after all. Some doubts were entertained yesterday as to the advisability of taking the jury out to look at the car. Tomorrow, however, it seems likely that the twelve good men [and women] and true will have to take a look at the vehicle, because it is part of the state's plan to have the expert, Koehler, demonstrate that the ladder will go inside it. There has been considerable conjecture on this point and to settle it is expected to be one of the state's last efforts.

The state was very well satisfied with its case tonight. "We think Koehler was a pretty good witness," said one of the prosecution's staf. "It looks like we are nearing the end of a long trail."

Among those at the trial today were Mrs. James A. Farley, wife of the postmaster general, Mrs. William Collier Jr., wife of the actor, and Ford Madox Ford, the novelist. Mrs. Farley ate a box lunch, for fear her seat would be taken away if she went out, and watched proceedings all day with her arms resting on the back of the bench in front of her.

"What drama! What grand theater," said Lynn Fontanne, one of today's spectators, as she powdered her nose. "This Hauptmann is a handsome young man in a dreadful predicament." Hauptmann would be the first to agree as to the predicament.

Ford decided, after hearing a great part of Koehler's testimony, that the expert "is going to send Hauptmann to the chair."

Mrs. Hauptmann left the morning session for a few minutes and couldn't get back through the crowd of mink-coated New York women for an hour and a half. Some one knocked her hat awry as she worked her way back through the jam.

LADDER WORK OF NO EXPERT, SAYS WITNESS LATER

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Arthur J. Koehler, the bald, slow spoken expert who tracked the Lindbergh kidnap ladder to the workshop of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, said tonight it was not built "by an expert carpenter."

The government wood technologist, who held the court, jury, and spectators completely absorbed today during his long recital, gave his opinion after court adjourned.

He speculated on the "possibility" that some one besides Hauptmann might have gone into his home, taken the wood and tools of the German alien, and constructed the ladder.

Then, with a twinkle in his eye, he observed: "That would be physically possible."

He was asked what he thought, as a former carpenter himself, of the handiwork in the ladder.

"It was not the work of an expert carpenter," he remarked and walked out.

ROBBED OF JEWELRY, CASH.

Miss Okla Belle Malone of the Commonwealth hotel, 2755 Pine Grove avenue, was robbed of $20 and jewelry she valued at $400, by two men who followed her from a drug store at Diversey parkway and North Clark street, into a dress shop at 517 Diversey parkway, last night. Although there were several other women in the shop, they were not molested.

Murphy Leaves Manila for Report to Roosevelt

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Prepared to present a generally optimistic picture of Philippine affairs to President Roosevelt, Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy sailed today on the liner President Hoover en route to Washington, D. C. He will be accompanied as far as Hongkong by Manuel Quezon, president of the insular senate. They will study a draft of the constitution for the commonwealth government, which Filipinos hope to inaugurate within a year.

THOUSANDS ARE HOMELESS FROM SOUTHERN FLOOD

At Least 23 Drowned; Ask Food and Boats.

BULLETIN.

Clarksdale, Miss., Jan. 23.—(AP)—At least 23 persons were reported tonight to have drowned in the Coldwater river and other flood areas in freezing northwest Mississippi and southwest Tennesse.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Cries of the marooned echoed over the northern Mississippi river country tonight as rescuers pressed every available motorboat into service to pull them from housetops, trees, box cars and railroad fills in the face of the second cold wave of the week in the south.

The turbulent Coldwater river, riding the crest of its greatest flood spree in years, roared steadily southward, threatening the lives and property of hundreds of additional lowland dwellers in its mad march to the Tallahatchie basin below.

Fear for More Residents.

With thousands already temporarily homeless, fear was expressed for residents in the neighborhood of Darling and Marks, Miss., south of the already flooded Sledge and the flood surrounded territory of Crenshaw and Pritchard.

Tom Smith, Darling, Miss., merchant, reported the Coldwater rising fast at that point, and said every able-bodied man in town was working on the levee with sand bags. A drainage ditch break west of Sledge was causing trouble. Residents of the neighboring territory were warned to evacuate their homes.

Mayor C. P. Smith of Marks, where the Coldwater runs through the town, said all low places were being sacked and every effort was being made to hold the stream in its banks. Evacuations there were believed imminent.

Speedboats Take Off Marooned.

Speedboats were busy all day operating from Sledge, picking up the marooned, and there was need for additional boats, blankets and food.

As telephone communication with Sledge was stopped about noon, Mayor H. G. Prysock broadcast an appeal for help.

"We have 250 families housed in our depot," the mayor said, standing in water up to his hips at the last telephone left in town. "There must be 1,000 families marooned in the Sledge area. There is ice in the backwater two inches thick."

Boats with searchlights were being used near Dubbs tonight. They brought a number of refugees to Crenshaw. Late today they rescued a number of refugees from the top of a barn, where water had risen to the roof's edge. They had been exposed to the cold for two nights and days.

It was reported from Crenshaw, in northwest Panola county, that a 1,000 foot section of the Pompey canal levee, auxiliary to the Coldwater river, had collapsed. Quitman county lowlanders were warned to "hit for the hill country."

Weather bureaus warned of a cold wave over the flood territory from Memphis far southward, with temperatures possibly as low as six degrees during the night.

Need for Boats Acute.

Sam Lapidus, Crenshaw meerchant [the vicinity of Crenshaw is surrounded with water although the town is dry] said the need for additional boats there was acute, and Deputy Sherif C. R. Terry said there were about 200 persons marooned in that vicinity.

"We can hear the people crying from their rooftops for help," he said, "and we are thankful the Red Cross is at work."

A soup kitchen was set up in a vacant store to feed 65 refugees at Crenshaw.

The Mississippi river is rising steadily. It stood at 24.2 feet here today, more than ten feet below flood level on the gauge. A stage of 23 feet is seen for Saturday.

transportation. Philadelphia struggled in the midst of its two days' storm, with all airplane trafic suspended. All trains were late.

As the snow spread southward, Delaware was engulfed. The state legislature was adjourned when members were unable to get through the deep snow to Dover. Baltimore, Md., had eight to fifteen inches of snow.

Snow carried through the Carolinas, the Virginias, into Georgia, Alabama, Florida, and Louisiana. Arkansas and Texas had freezing weather, as livestock continued to succumb from the cold.

Snow In Northern Florida.

With snow general throughout northern Florida, the forecast today was for cold down through the center of the peninsula and to Miami.

Only California appeared to have escaped from blizzards or cold, although two days ago, freezing weather extended down into the Imperial valley, damaging crops.

Transcontinental travel with the northwest states of Washington and Oregon was suspended with roads washed out, landslides of mud almost hourly, and bridge heads threatened by roaring rivers, filled with melting snow and a steady rain. Calls for help were sent out from small valley towns as the deluge rolled through.

TEACHERS TO GET $1,930,000 PAY IN FULL TOMORROW

School teacher salaries will be paid tomorrow and the salary payments will be made regularly for the rest of the school year, according to an announcement yesterday by President James B. McCahey. To meet educational pay rolls tomorrow $1,930,000 has been set aside. A like amount will be required to meet each of the school pay days on Feb. 8, Feb. 21, March 8, March 22, April 5, April 18, May 6, May 24, June 7. On June 14 the final salary appropriation has been set at $200,000. Office employés of the board of education will be paid about the same time as the teachers. The engineers, janitors, carpenters and laborers will be paid in most cases about a week earlier.

Turnips Sell for Dollar a Dozen in Texas Freeze

Houston, Tex., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Freezing weather gave the lowly turnip a place in the sun here today. Hucksters sold turnips for $1 a dozen bunches, the highest price they have ever brought on the Houston market. Spinach and other vegetables jumped from 300 to 600 per cent in price here because of the freeze, which virtually wiped out the fresh vegetable crop in this area.

Cold Wave Delays Start of Street Improvement

The cold wave has delayed the start of a project to employ 3,564 relief laborers in improving 73 miles of unsurfaced streets, according to Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works. The improvement program, initiated by Mayor Kelly, was to begin yesterday. It will cost $912,350, with the Illinois Emergency Relief commission supplying most of the funds.

Costs N. Y. $135,000 an Inch to Remove Snow

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—For every inch of New York snow, $135,000. That's the removal cost figured by the city street department. For the families of 20,000 laborers registered for snow removal the storm was described by Welfare Commissioner William Hodson as "manna from the heavens."

TRIBUNE TOWER'S WINDOWS TELL A STORY OF HEALTH

Frosted with Moisture of Conditioned Air.

Windows of the Tribune Tower, etched by frost, tell why the air conditioning system installed last summer is now serving an even more important purpose during Chicago's winter months, with the thermometer at zero or below, than it did during midsummer's heat when the mercury registered 100 degrees.

The frost on the windows, explained Holmes Onderdonk, building manager, is proof that there is a high percentage of moisture in the air inside the Tower. Physicians agree, he pointed out, that a large percentage of moisture is essential in air breathed by office workers during winter months when they are confined inside heated buildings if they would retain their health.

Drier Than the Desert.

"The average office building or dwelling which is not air conditioned actually is drier during the winter months than the Sahara desert," said Mr. Onderdonk. "Tests have shown that the relative humidity in buildings with ordinary heating systems ranges from 12 to 15 per cent of saturation.

"That is a lower figure than found in tests made on the desert sands. In the Tribune Tower, however, the percentage of humidity has ranged constantly from 30 to 45. This makes for perfect comfort when coupled with the temperature of 70 degrees we have maintained since early in October."

Health Expert Tells Problem.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, THE TRIBUNE'S health advisor, said yesterday that absence of moisture in air causes the mucous membranes of the nose and throat to dry out and crack, thus leaving these organs particularly susceptible to cold and flu. TRIBUNE workers, he said, should be healthier this winter than during any of the past, because they breathe air containing a proper amount of humidity.

The humidifying apparatus is a part of the "radiators" through which washed and filtered air is projected into each room and corridor of the Tower, Mr. Onderdonk said.

Use Less Coal Than in Past.

Because the air has a proper balance of moisture, he added, slightly less coal is being used than was necessary in past winters.

With outside temperatures a few degrees either above or below zero, approximately the same amount of fuel is used to heat the Tower to 70 degrees as was used to cool it to that temperature last August on days when thermometers registered 100 degrees in the shade.

All Bridges Rise Every 8 Hours to Clear Ice

Motorists and pedestrians were surprised last night to find the city's fifty-four bridges lifting, though no river trafic was passing. Harbormaster William J. Lynch ordered all bridges be lifted once every eight hours during the cold wave to make sure that the gears are not clogged with ice.

SUMMER HEAT WAVE HITS SOUTH AMERICA; 105 IN ARGENTINE CITY

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A wide section of South America sweltered in midsummer heat today. Buenos Aires' heat wave was broken by winds from cold southern seas, temperatures here dropping to 68, but elsewhere high temperatures prevailed. Cordoba, Argentina, reported 105 degrees.

ASK ASSEMBLY TO ALLOW BONDS FOR NEW JAIL

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Illinois has one county without a county jail. Henderson county, the county seat of which is Oquawka, today asked the legislature, through Representative Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island], to validate a $12,000 bond issue which it proposes to augment with a $6,000 PWA loan and erect a jail.

Twelve years ago the jail burned, but it never has been rebuilt and whenever there were county prisoners they were boarded in the neighboring Warren county jail at Monmouth.

At the last election, as Sinnett tells the story, several vote frauds were detected and a few jail sentences were imposed. But there was no place for the prisoners to serve so the county decided to fill the gap. Today's bill was the result.

HOUSE TO PASS 4 BILLION BILL TODAY, IT'S SAID

Ickes Is Left Out as the President Rules.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Under a gag rule that stifled Republican arguments and squashed insurgent Democrats, the house of representatives launched into a bitter debate today over the granting of 4 billion 800 million dollars to the President to spend as he sees fit.

Passage tomorrow of the big spending measure, with only minor amendments, seemed a certainty as the house adjourned.

That the revolt within the majority ranks had been quelled was demonstrated when 246 Democrats voted for the gage rule holding general debate to three hours. Only 147 negative votes were cast.

Ickes Not to Control.

The insurgent Democrats were held in line only by a definite promise from the White House that Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, would not handle the new funds. After a conference with the President, Speaker Byrns told the Democratic caucus last night Ickes was out of the new setup, that the President would assume personal control over the spending of the money.

The feeling against Ickes was widespread on the Democratic side. The congressmen charged that as head of the public works administration Ickes had failed to put men to work during the emergency because of the admixture of politics and the PWA.

Although the Democrats kept quiet on the Ickes matter during the open debate this afternoon the minority was outspoken. Representative John Taber [Rep., N. Y.] declared that eventually the appropriations would fall into the hands of "such incompetents" as Ickes and Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins.

"Unemployment has increased because of these incompetents," asserted Taber. "They have no program now. They cannot tell us what this money will be used for specifically, but this bill means the regimentation and socialization of the United States, the end of progress and development in this country."

Goes to Ickes Defense.

Ickes was defended by Representative Edward T. Taylor [Dem., Colo.], who declared that he was a most honest and courageous secretary of the interior.

The main attack on the bill was on the grounds that it was an unconstitutional delegation of congressional powers to the President and the huge outlay was merely a political war chest for the party in power.

Representative Dewey Short, lone Republican congressman from Missouri, remarked that the measure had "all the earmarks and smell of the brain trust."

"You would have us cowardly abdicate our powers to another branch of the government," he shouted. "The house has become a mere shell, an echo for the professorial nincompoops who call themselves a brain trust."

Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach [Rep., N. J.] declared that the bill's purpose was to take advantage of distress in the country in order to reformulate the social and economic structure of the American people.

In defense of the appropriation Representative James Buchanan [Dem., Tex.] said that the administration would expend less money in 1935 and 1936 than it had in the two previous years.

"At the last election the people selected Roosevelt to lead them out of bondage and out of the wilderness," asserted Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex].

The people preferred, Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [Dem., Va.] declared, "the humane dictatorship of Roosevelt to the spineless former administration."

Democrat Attacks Bill.

One Democrat who spoke against the bill as an unconstitutional measure was Representative Alfred L. Bulwinkle [Dem., N. C.].

"I do not yield my admiration for the President to any man," said Bulwinkle, "but I do not yield my rights in this congress to any man."

Representative William P. Connory [Dem., Mass.], chairman of the house labor committee, announced that tomorrow he would introduce amendments for a 30 hour week and prevailing wages in communities where the new projects were to be undertaken.

New French Warcraft Sets Speed Mark for Destroyers

LORIENT, France, Jan. 23.—(AP)—France's newest destroyer the Terrible, made more than 43 knots in official trials today, breaking the world's speed record for destroyers made by the French craft Cassard in September, 1932. The new ship, of 2,480 tons, carries nine torpedo tubes and six 5½ inch guns.

ROOSEVELT WILL DELAY NAMING WORKS BOARDS

Federal Projects Only in Planning Stage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today said he does not contemplate setting up regional authorities similar to the Tennessee Valley authority throughout the country in the near future.

The President stated that work outside of the TVA has gone such a small distance and is relatively in the planning stage, so that it would be premature to set up expensive, permanent regional authorities at this time. Two projects on the upper Missouri river and two others on the Columbia river have gone beyond the planning stage, but are not ready for designation as authorities, he said.

Plans Advisory Board.

The President revealed that he is contemplating setting up during the summer an advisory commission, probably to serve without pay, to aid in regional developments. These might be taken over when it becomes necessary by paid authorities, he added.

Clark Howell, chairman of the federal aviation commission, presented the commission's report on an aviation development survey. This includes a recommendation for the building of a lighter-than-air ship for trans-Atlantic commercial service and a program for building the army and navy air forces to a combined strength of 4,000 effective planes.

Air Commission Sought.

The report urges appointment of a temporary commission to handle all civil aviation, subject to transfer of its function later to an enlarged interstate commerce commission which the President plans to have control transportation by land, water, and air. The report would abolish the distinction between primary and secondary air routes.

The President said he will transmit a report of the aviation commission to congress next week, but has not decided whether he will send a separate message to congress on the report or include it in a general message on communication and transportation.

6 Dead, Seventh Ill from Drinking Poison Alcohol

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Six men died in Brooklyn today and a seventh is in a critical condition after drinking alcohol from a can labeled "poison" at a party at an unemployment emergency shelter. Police are searching for an eighth man who was reported to have drunk some of the poison.

ATTACK ON TWO COLLEAGUES GETS ICKES' SUPPORT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Official Washington puzzled today over the circulation in one government department of an article in the Nation assailing two other cabinet officials and a leading Democratic senator.

Secretary Ickes, already a touchy subject on Capitol hill, Attorney General Cummings, Postmaster General Farley and Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] were the personalities involved.

A reprint of the magazine article was distributed in Ickes' interior department. Cummings, Farley and Harrison came in for the attack.

Given out first as a "memorandum for the press" and "for the information of correspondents," the article later was recalled. But the only explanation for the recall was that it had been intended solely "for officials."

2 Youths Admit Holding Up 3 North Side Hotels

Two young men, arrested in a stolen automobile, confessed last night at the detective bureau, that they robbed three north side hotels last Friday and Saturday. The prisoners are George Kennedy, 21 years old, and Bernard Kutok, 20 years old, both living at the Sinton hotel, 4953 Sheridan road.

ILLINOIS HOUSE VOTES PROTEST ON WORLD COURT

Urges U. S. Senate Not to Vote Entrance.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Entrance of the United States into the world court was a resounding issue in the Illinois house today. Republicans, aided by a handful of Democrats, were successful in putting the house on record against it. The vote was 71 to 25. Most of the Democratic leaders wanted to delay passage of the resolution, but they could not hold all their colleagues in line.

The house feels, it decided, that "Europe is in a turmoil with the ever existing danger of war" and that the people of America have no interest in that situation and should keep out of it.

This conviction will be made known to President Roosevelt with copies also addressed to Vice President Garner, Senators Lewis and Dieterich and the other members of the United States senate.

Democrats Join Opposition.

Although the representatives taking part in today's debate were thousands of miles from Geneva, their arguments made the best fight so far this session. For a time it appeared that the vote would be strictly partisan, but Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, the Democratic floor leader, spoke for it and, while being careful to state that he advocated it as an individual, his lead was followed by 18 other Democrats.

Republicans Reed F. Cutler of Lewiston and Edward P. Saltiel of Chicago introduced the resolution and were supported by Minority Leader L. M. Green of Rockford. James P. Boyle of Chicago, a leading Democrat, opposed its immediate consideration and argued that it should be sent to the proper committee when appointed. Hasty action, Mr. Boyle said, might put somebody "on a spot."

Cutler thundered in reply that "the people of Illinois will put any one on the spot who dares to stick his head up for the world court or the league of nations."

Green added emphatically that congress "has lately been a rubber stamp," and said that the entry of this country into a foreign entente reminded him of a man who sat down to a poker game where everybody around the table owed him money. "The poor fellow could never come out with a whole hide," said the Republican leader.

Adamowski Adds Protest.

Adamowski then changed the course of what had seemed a partisan fight by declaring that while he knew nothing done in the Illinois assembly would have much chance of changing a vote in Washington on the court issue, nevertheless the country would make an unwise move by joining the alliance.

The roll call on immediate consideration followed, and during its course another Democratic leader, F. W. Lewis of Robinson, backed Boyle's stand against quick action.

But the house felt differently and the resolution passed. It must now go to the senate, which yesterday turned thumbs down on a similar document. That fight will take place next week.

ROOSEVELT EXPECTED TO URGE EXTENSION OF NRA; SPEED PLANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Simple extension of the NRA in its present form, with perhaps a few strengthening amendments on wage, working hours and child labor control, may be recommended to congress by President Roosevelt within a fortnight, inquiry disclosed today.

The President himself is "putting on the steam" for speedy action to continue the NRA. He revealed at his semi-weekly press conference today that at a special midnight meeting of his advisers last night plans were laid for getting the proposed new recovery administration laws into final shape within a week or two.

Demoralization and uncertainty over the future among coded industries has caused the sudden rush to revise or continue the NRA, a high official spokesman for the national industrial recovery board admitted today. Compliance and code administration generally are sagging because business does not know what to expect after the present NRA expires on June 16, he said.

PWA TO ENLARGE SANITARY BOARD GRANT $1,695,134

Lloyd H. Landau, general solicitor for the Public Works administration, will work with sanitary district officials this week to complete a supplemental agreement which will increase the PWA grant to the district by $1,695,134.

Under the law the district is entitled to an outright grant from the government of 30 per cent of the cost of labor and material on the $41,985,000 projects financed by a sale of bonds to the government.

Previously the amount of the outright grant had been figured at $10,304,866. This is to be increased to $12,000,000, it is said, as a result of adjustments growing out of conferences with Mr. Landau here.

Ross A. Woodhull, president of the sanitary district, announced yesterday that $355,000, representing every bill owed by the district up to Jan. 1, was being paid. Interest due on bonds in the amount of $506,000 was also paid, and it was announced that the district would be able to pay the interest of $383,000 which falls due Feb. 1.

Cautious Studio Picks New Title for Mae West Film

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Fearful that some exception might be taken to the title of Mae West's current motion picture story, which has been known under the working title of "Now I'm a Lady," the Paramount studio has retitled the film, "How'm I Doing?" The "Now I'm a Lady" title might have been taken as indication Mae wasn't a lady in some of her prior films, the studio feared.

PRESIDENT HITS NORRIS LIMIT ON COURT ENTRANCE

Opposes Senate Control of Questions.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today injected himself for the second time in the world court contest, speaking out against the Norris reservation to give the senate control over questions to be submitted to the tribunal by the United States.

Shortly afterward, Senator Robinson, leading the effort for American adherence to the court, predicted for the first time that he had sufficient votes to ratify the pending protocols and said a final vote might be reached this week.

Opponents, however, also claimed they were gaining strength and said while they were willing to cooperate to shorten debate they did not believe a vote could be had before next week.

Objects to Limitation.

The President's opposition to the reservation of Senator Norris [Rep., Neb.], requiring a two-thirds affirmative vote of the senate for submission of all questions to the court by this country, was expressed at a White House press conference.

He said this was a definite limitation on the constitutional prerogatives of the President in his conduct of the government's foreign affairs.

He made no comment on the reservation of Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], declaring adherence would not mean our interference in internal affairs of other nations and barring others from taking a hand in purely domestic questions.

May Accept Reservation.

This noncommittal attitude of the White House gave strength to the belief the administration would accept this reservation. The reservation is merely a restatement of the senate's position of nine years ago and a condition which court proponents claim has been accepted by other signatories.

Ex-Night Club Girl Sues to Divorce Manufacturer

Mary Ann Kaufman, 25 years old, a former night club entertainer, who had her first marriage annulled when she was 13 years old, sued yesterday to divorce Marie Sidney Kaufman, 27 years old, of the Burton hotel, 1429 North Clark street, a perfume manufacturer. She charged mental cruelty in the bill, filed by Attorney Nathan Schwartz, detailing that her husband filled their home with the odors of cheap perfumes. Mrs. Kaufman now lives at 1829 Blue Island avenue.

BUS VANDALISM PLANNED LIKE A WAR, JURY TOLD

Gang Leader Links Taber to Strike Terrorism.

ought to give me. Then Kehoe took $300 from his wallet, gave it to Taber, and Taber passed it to me."

On the night of Sept. 7, Slee said, he called a meeting of the prospective sluggers at his home. These men were Ralph Layton, Larry Stevens, Henry Kohl and Barney Butler, all street car conductors who are under indictment. Hoover also was present.

"I told the four street car men that we were going out to cause disturbances on the buses," Slee testified. "I told them they would have to break windows. Now was the time to back out if they wanted to."

He Equips His Forces.

None of them "backed out," Slee said. Then, as meticulously as if he were charting a military offensive, he told of the instructions and equipment given the men.

"I passed out two sling shots that night," the witness declared, "and told the others I would furnish them with the same weapons later. They were given three-fourths inch ball bearings of nickel steel for the sling shots. They were instructed that all six of us would ride in three automobiles, two in each car.

"Hoover and I rode in the last car to cover up and aid the men ahead. There was one sling shot in each of the first two cars.

"They were to travel at about forty miles an hour and only fling the pellets at buses going in the opposite direction." [This strategy was believed to be for the purpose of making identification of the terrorists more difficult and to aid in their getaway.]

The route of the three cars on the night of Sept. 7 was in Drexel boulevard to Oakwood boulevard, then to the outer drive at 16th street, then back to Jackson park, and finally to 61st street and Cottage Grove avenue.

"Then we called it a night," Slee said. Windows in seven buses were broken that night and similar expeditions were undertaken on succeeding nights, he testified.

Asks Protection for Men.

His next visit to the union headquarters, Slee said, was "about Sept. 13." He went there to see Kehoe about arranging protection for his vandal gang, to whom he referred on the stand as "my men."

"What was said?" asked Prosecutor Coghlan.

"I told Kehoe that sluggers were after us and that the cops were beginning to bother us," Slee replied. "I told him of Hoover's being stopped by a motor coach man, who had three carloads of men with him. I told Kehoe we had been marked and they were out to get us. Kehoe said to come back the next day, that he had in mind a man who could help me out."

Slee said he returned on the following day and saw both Kehoe and Taber. Earl Renner, leader of a north side gang of vandals, was also present, he testified. He went on:

"Kehoe introduced me to Renner and said: 'You two fellows get together.' I told Renner that sluggers were following us around and we needed some protection on the south side. Renner agreed to meet me that night."

Guarded by Renner Gang.

The meeting took place, Slee testified, and Renner and his crew watched the cars of the Slee gang to see that they were not molested. The combined gangs even went hunting for the motor coach men, Slee said, but did not find them.

On Sept. 15, Slee said, he saw Taber in the union offices and got a second payment. The conversation ran as follows, Slee testified:

"I said I needed more money. Taber said: 'What have you fellows been doing?' I said: 'We've been breaking windows.' He asked if we were getting along all right. I said: 'Yes, at least we're staying out of trouble.'

"I then received $200. Taber counted out the money and gave it to me. He asked me if that would do for the time being and I said it would."

"Now, going back to the original payment of $300 by Kehoe and Taber, was anything said at that time?" Prosecutor Coghlan asked.

"Yes," Slee replied, "I told them I was broke and needed money to keep up my flat. Kehoe told me to take $75 out for myself and to give the same to Hoover."

Gets New "Bullet" Supply.

Slee testified that his original supply of 30 ball bearings did not last long and that he later purchased 400 bearings of ⅝ inch size for $8.

Q.—What did you do with them? A.—Each night I gave each man 10 or 15 bearings to shoot.

Q.—What did you pay these men? A.—I paid my men $8 a day.

Q.—What else did you do with the money? A.—I bought their gas, oil and lunches, and paid for the beer we drank.

As the strike progressed, Slee said, the gang became more brazen in its attacks on buses. On Sunday, Sept. 16, he testified, the vandals made their first daylight appearance. On the following day, Constitution day, they started out early in the morning because, Slee said, they knew the buses would be crowded with passengers going to the World's Fair.

$200 from Stoltzmann.

Earlier Slee told of the $200 which he said he got from Stoltzmann. He went to Stoltzmann's office on Aug. 22, six days after the strike was called, he testified.

"I asked Stoltzmann if he needed any help in the strike," Slee said. "He said he did, and I told him if I were paid I would assist him. I informed him I could hire five men, cause trouble on the buses, and bring the strike to the public's notice. It would cost him about $25 a day. Stoltzmann said he didn't have the money but would try to get it.

"When I returned three days later he said arrangements had been made to get the money. He went out and returned in twenty minutes with $100 in cash, which he gave me. He told me to be sure and get started right away on my campaign.

"On Aug. 29 he gave me another $100 after I told him I needed more money. He asked me what I had done so far and I said I had broken some bus windows and caused disturbances.

Hint of Later Contacts.

"Stoltzmann said he understood I was going to work for some one else later. I remarked that was O. K. with me." [This was believed to be a reference to Slee's later contacts with Taber and Kehoe.]

"You told Stoltzmann you had broken windows. Had you really done so?" Prosecutor Coghlan inquired.

"No," Slee replied evenly, "but I told him I had."

The day's session of court ended with an indication by Judge Brothers, given in sustaining a defense objection, that he would not permit Slee or any member of his gang to tell about the murder of Mrs. Kennard. Slee will resume the witness stand when court opens today.

Tells of Terrorism

SEMPLE FINISHES STORY

At the morning session Albert Semple, a member of Renner's north side vandal gang who has confessed that he shot Dispatcher Kelly to death, concluded the testimony that he began on Tuesday.

The attorneys argued for an hour and a half in Judge Brothers' chambers before Semple took the stand. The state at last won permission, over defense objections, to question the witness on redirect examination about his conversations with others of the gang a few hours before the murder of Kelly. At the time of the killing Semple was accompanied by his brother, William, John Bretschneider, and Joseph White, all members of Renner's gang, and Edward Nacki, a street car employé.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley conducted the redirect examination.

Names the "Some One" Else.

"You said on cross-examination Tuesday that Renner had not consented to your 'getting' Kelly and that some one else had asked you to do so," Crowley began. "Who was that some one else?"

"Joe White," Semple answered. "He said somebody had been looking for us and it would be a good idea to get a gun and blackjack and be prepared. I got the weapons.

"White said we were going to look for the bus dispatcher [Kelly]. Nacki asked to come along. White informed me there were also four bus drivers to 'get' at Crawford and Montrose avenues.

"White told me: 'Renner doesn't seem to want anything to do with this, but Kett [John Kett, street car union steward at the north side car barns who is now under indictment] wants that fellow Kelly and the four drivers "got."'

"We drove to Crawford and Montrose avenues and White said it was too late to 'get' the four drivers and we had better hurry to Cicero avenue before we missed Kelly. He told me he had followed Kelly a few nights before and knew where he lived."

"Did you know what you were supposed to do when you got on the street car at Cicero and Grand avenues?" Crowley asked. [Kelly was a passenger on the street car. He was beaten by White and Nacki before Semple shot him.]

"No," Semple replied, "except that we were to watch out for the police and any bus company sluggers who might be on the street car."

Defense Attacks Testimony.

Semple also testified that after his arrest he had heard Stoltzmann declare in the state's attorney's office that he [Stoltzman] had not financed Renner in the campaign of violence. Renner admitted on the stand last Monday that he had perjured himself before the grand jury to protect Kehoe when he declared that he received money from Stoltzmann, instead of from Kehoe.

On cross-examination Semple had denied hearing Stoltzmann's statement in the prosecutor's office. Defense Attorney Michael Ahern seized on Semple's conflicting answers on this point in an effort to impeach his entire story on recross-examination.

Q. (By Ahern)—Why did you lie to me Tuesday when you said you were not present in the state's attorney's office when Stoltzmann denied giving Renner the money? A.—I thought you meant if I had been in the office alone with Stoltzmann. There were others there.

Q.—My question had nothing to do with whether anybody else was there. Didn't I ask only if you were there when Stoltzmann made his denial? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Hadn't Renner told you he got the money from Kehoe? A.—I was not sure where he got it. He said it came from "Joe."

Q.—But didn't you know Joe was Kehoe? A.—Yes.

Q.—Why didn't you tell the state's attorney that Renner had told you the money came from Kehoe? A.—I think I did.

Q.—You think you did? Are you sure? A.—No.

GANG STEALS $129,000 FROM A U. S. MAIL TRUCK

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—A federal reserve bank shipment of approximately $129,000 was taken in a daring daylight robbery today by four men who held up a United States mail truck and escaped with several pouches of registered mail.

Authorities said a fifth bandit probably participated in the holdup. It also was believed the gang had other accomplices. The precision with which the crime was carried out indicated the receipt of exact information.

The shipment of bank notes and silver arrived by train this morning from the federal reserve bank in Boston and was being hauled by truck from the depot to a Fall River bank.

Two men with revolvers intercepted Herbert B. Reid, 43, driver and only occupant of the truck, in the northern section of Fall River. With one robber on each running board, Reid was forced to drive the truck down a street to a place where two more robbers waited in an automobile.

Reid was placed in the tonneau of the robbers' car. One of the gunmen drove the truck across the Taunton river into Swansea, convoyed by their sedan. Along the Providence-Fall River road one of the outlaws sorted out the mail and retained the registered parcels of letters.

Reid was tied hand and foot with adhesive tape and blindfolded. The mailman, who has been in the employ of the postal department for more than 20 years, said he attempted to catch a glimpse of the robbers from beneath his blindfold.

"Don't look at me or I'll let you have it," one of the gunmen ordered.

Taking the mail pouches from the truck's rear compartment, in which they had gained admission by using Reid's keys, the thieves left the mailman in the back of their sedan.

FREED CONVICT, RECAPTURED, IS FACING RETRIAL

Milton Panateles, Chicago robber who was captured on Tuesday after he had been released from Joliet prison last Friday on a habeas corpus writ issued in Wheaton by Circuit Judge Max Allaben of Du Page county, will be retried soon on the original holdup charge. Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday sent Panateles to a cell in the Cook county jail and said that he would set a trial date early next week.

Attorney Joseph B. Lofton, who represented Panateles before Judge Allaben, is preparing an answer to the contempt of court citation which Chief Justice Sullivan ordered filed against him. This hearing will be next Thursday, Jan. 31.

Lofton first sought a habeas corpus writ for Panateles from Chief Justice Sullivan, but was refused. The chief justice, however, had a record of the case prepared without charge, so that Lofton could make an appeal to the State Supreme court in Panateles' behalf. Lofton is charged in the contempt citation with having used this record in the habeas corpus hearing before Judge Allaben after Chief Justice Sullivan told him that the appeal was his proper procedure.

Ethel Barrymore Sued for Loans and Wages

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Ethel Barrymore, the actress, has been sued by Lewis Newman, Hollywood theatrical manager, for $10,918 representing loans and wages, it was disclosed today when he filed a motion in a Supreme court asking Miss Barrymore for a bill of particulars to her answer. Newman's motion asked for particulars of the actress' claims that he collected $43,576 of her wages and used $11,423 improperly. The suit concerns transactions in 1932 and 1933.

U. of C. Divinity Student Vanishes While on Visit

Chicago police were requested last night to search for Peter Hayes, 23 years old, a divinity student at the Meadville Theological seminary, 5659 Woodlawn avenue, on the University of Chicago campus. Hayes left his room at the school Tuesday to visit friends and failed to return. A friend, Prof. Robert J. Hutcheon, discovered that Hayes had left the home he was visiting and had not been heard from, so he called the Hyde Park police. Hayes' home is in Cambridge, Mass.

PUSH PLANS FOR FOUR AIRDROMES IN MID-ATLANTIC

Would Serve as Bases on N. Y.-Paris Route.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Convinced that the progress of aviation makes the dream of a regular trans-Atlantic air service a possibility of the very near future, French aviation interests fear British, German or Dutch competitors will get there first.

The French think Paris is the logical terminus of the future trans-Atlantic air line. In the first place, they point out that Paris, being on the continent, is more centrally situated than London.

This is only a secondary reason, however. The main one is that, in the opinion of French experts, the only practical route across the Atlantic is the southern one by the Azores and Bermuda, and obviously Paris, being south of London, is the more logical terminus of such a line. The northern great circle route French air experts consider impractical because of uncertain weather conditions.

Eye British Plan.

Nonetheless, they are distinctly nervous over the British project of an empire line between London and Montreal, with a landing in Ireland.

The air ministry takes a much more conservative view of the whole question of trans-Atlantic service than do private aviation interests, which believe that it is really near.

In the opinion of the air ministry, the only immediate possibilities are the proposed German and American dirigibles, which represent an intermediary stage and are bound one day to be replaced by the swifter planes, and a Dutch project for a line to the West Indies with a branch up to the United States. This project is said to be near realization, but naturally cannot have the importance of a line connecting the United States directly with the old continent.

French Favor Fuel Islands.

The French feel fairly confident that they have the only sound solution to the problem—that is, a series of floating islands for refueling between the Azores and Bermuda. It is really an American idea and it is reported that an American syndicate is trying to raise capital to start the line. One of the most ardent champions of it is Louis Bleriot, French pioneer of the air, who is trying to sell the idea to the air ministry and to raise capital for the French end of the project.

Bleriot, who became the godfather of French aviation by his epic making flight across the English channel on July 25, 1909, today is devoting all his energy to persuade his government to join the United States, England and Canada in the construction of four seadromes, or floating islands, for this trans-Atlantic service.

"In working for the realization of the seadrome project," he says, "I am really destroying my original idea of building machines which would cross the ocean in one hop. I built the Joseph le Brix, which crossed the North Atlantic, and the Santos-Dumont, which flew the South Atlantic. But everybody realizes now that a practical trans-Atlantic airplane service without seadromes is impossible."

Pictures Floating Airfields.

Bleriot drew a vivid picture of what trans-Atlantic air service soon will be like. The seadromes will have hangars and repair shops, hotels and restaurants. Planes carrying twenty passengers will leave several times daily from New York and Paris. It is estimated that the fare will be 5,000 francs—about $333 at the present rate of exchange. Bleriot believes that eventually the ocean liner will be out of date. It is pointed out that the air lines between Paris and London already take away 10,000 clients yearly from the regular train and boat route between these two capitals.

It is predicted here that within five years, granted that airplanes will steadily increase their speed, the trip from New York to Paris will be made in ten hours.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. @1931 C. M. Co.

POLICE TELL NEW SECRETS OF 1929 GANG MASSACRE

Pick Flaws in Reported Bolton Confession.

New evidence uncovered in the investigation of the St. Valentine's day massacre of seven north side gangsters came to light last night on the heels of published reports that Byron Bolton, now a federal prisoner, has made a full confession, naming himself as one of the killers.

Despite the fact of emphatic denials from department of justice agents that Bolton made a confession, either written or oral, and despite the fact that the new evidence tended to disprove many details of the purported confession, the reports persisted that it had been made.

Reveal New Fugitives.

The new stories of the investigation of the massacre of the George [Bugs] Moran gangsters, brought to light the fact that Bolton's brother, John, also had been sought for participation in the crime, as had John Conroy, who was found dead in a New York flat two years ago.

Accordings to the reported Bolton confession, those named in addition to Bolton himself were Fred [Killer] Burke, Gus Winkler, Murray Humphreys, Claude Maddox and Fred Goetz.

Of these, Burke is serving a life term in the Michigan state penitentiary; Humphreys is serving a term for income tax violations, and Goetz and Winkler are dead. Only Maddox is now at large.

Hunted Since Massacre.

Since shortly after Feb. 14, 1929, Byron Bolton had been sought as one of two men who rented a room across the street from the garage headquarters of the Moran gang at 2122 North Clark street.

There he is supposed to have watched for an opportunity to catch Moran and his entire gang in the garage at one time, then call for the gangland executioners.

Bolton was linked with this rôle when a letter addressed to him and postmarked from Thayer, Ill., was found in the room. At that time Policeman Frank Morrell, assigned to the investigation, made a trip to Thayer. He found Bolton's parents, obtained a picture, and discovered that Bolton had been in the navy during the war.

Linked to "Death Watch."

The picture later was identified as that of the man who rented the room where the death watch was kept.

Bolton's trail led next to St. Louis, the town where both he and Burke got their starts with the Egan's Rats gang. It was in St. Louis, apparently that Bolton became associated with the Arthur Barker-Alvin Karpis gang, now blamed for the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer.

Bolton was finally captured in an apartment at 3820 Pine Grove avenue, where a companion, Russell Gibson, wanted in the Bremer kidnaping, was killed attempting to shoot his way out of the government trap.

According to the purported confession, Bolton admitted renting the "death watch" room and occupying it as police had suspected, but he did not mention his brother. In addition, the report had it, Bolton joined the actual slayers when they entered the garage, and fired one of the machine guns.

Burke and Goetz the "Police."

Burke and Goetz, according to the reputed confession, were the two men dressed as policemen. They were chosen, Bolton is reported to have said, because they were not known to the Moran gang. Believing them real officers on a routine raid, the Moran men calmly allowed themselves to be disarmed and lined up against the wall.

Then came the blast from machine guns and shot guns that left dead on the floor Pete Gusenberg, Adam Heyer, James Clark, John May, Albert Weinshank, and Dr. Einhardt H. Schwimmer. Frank Gusenberg was alive when police came, but died within a few hours.

The motive for the slaying, as Bolton is reported to have told it, involved the hiring of Frankie Uale, New York gang leader, by the north siders to aid in the war against Al Capone over operations of a dog track in Lyons, Ill.

Point Flaw in Story.

There police found the first main flaw in the reputed Bolton confession. It was pointed out that Uale was slain in New York on July 1, 1928, nearly eight months before the massacre took place.

In addition, Policeman Morrell, who spent many months in his investigation, declared that he never had heard the names of Humphreys or Maddox connected with the actual massacre.

Burke, Goetz and Winkler had been regarded as likely suspects, he said, and, in addition, two other men were mentioned. They are John, the brother of Byron Bolton, and Robert Conroy, who was found dead in a New York flat in 1932.

Question Omission of Conroy.

Conroy, whose real name was Robert Newberry, was sought in 1929 as a member of Burke's gang, and one of the participants in the massacre itself. Policeman Morrell pointed out that if Byron Bolton made a confession, it was extremely likely that Conroy's name would have been mentioned.

As to whether Bolton could be expected to name his own brother, Policeman Morrell would not say, but declared that all the evidence pointed to the fact that John Bolton was the second man in the room across from the garage.

Byron Bolton now is in St. Paul, in federal custody, and was called as a witness before the federal grand jury reported to have voted indictments against three members of the Barker-Karpis gang, charging them with the Bremer abduction.

Harold Nathan, assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the division of investigation of the department of justice, sent vigorous denials from St. Paul that Bolton had made a confession of the massacre. Mr. Hoover sent a similar denial from Washington. In Chicago police officials said that they had not been informed of such a confession.

Named in St. Valentine Massacre

KARPIS HUNTED IN ILLINOIS; ROADS BLOCKED

Gangster Reported Seen; Net Is Drawn.

Moline, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Policemen carrying machine guns and bullet proof shields were guarding roads throughout the Tri-City area tonight in a search for Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, which was hastily launched after the quick shooting public enemies were reported to have sped through the towns of La Salle and Peru.

It is believed the much sought desperadoes were the robbers who held up a bank at Trivoli this afternoon and that they are now heading for the Rock Island, Davenport, and Moline area.

Report Gangsters Are Seen.

Sheriff George Nash received word from authorities at La Salle and Peru that the two gangsters were recognized as they sped through those towns shortly before 6 o'clock tonight. The men were driving a Chevrolet sedan, it was said.

The speeding car was headed toward Cambridge, which is about 40 miles west of where the fugitive gunmen were reported seen.

The alarm immediately was spread throughout the district, state, county and local authorities sending well armed forces out to watch the highways the two public enemies are expected to traverse.

Guard Davenport Bridge.

Police at Davenport, Ia., closely guarded the government bridge between Rock Island and Davenport in the event the gangsters try to cross the river there.

The bandits who held up the Trivoli bank immediately were suspected of being Karpis and Campbell because of the Ohio license plates on the car used by the bank robbers. The widely sought desperadoes were reported fleeing over Ohio yesterday.

The bank robbers had to wait 15 minutes before the time lock on the bank opened the vault, meanwhile holding Cashier Ralph Damars at bay. When the vault opened, the bandits took about $3,000 in cash and speeded toward Peoria.

Seize Illinoisan in Hunt.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—A new figure, James Wilson of Spring Valley, Ill., was being held in the Bremer kdinaping case today. Two others were reported detained for questioning. One had been seized in an automobile carrying four bullet holes in its body and a smashed windshield.

The automobile was seized on a downtown street. Police refused to discuss what possible connection the driver had with the kidnaping, but disclosed that the other man arrested had been questioned once before about the case. In the car they found a registration card made out to Martin Sims, Secor hotel, Toledo. Wilson was reported as among the dozen persons named in secret indictments by a federad grand jury yesterday. It was said he is charged with having aided in the conspiracy to kidnap Edward H. Bremer, St. Paul banker, held for twenty-three days a year ago until he paid $200,000 ransom.

Wilson was one of the mystery witnesses brought here to testify before the grand jury. He is the fifth known to be held here. Others are Arthur [Doc] Barker, alleged principal in the abduction; Byron Bolton, arrested in Chicago; Elmer Farmer, and Harold Alderton, both of Bensenville, Ill., where authorities state Bremer was kept captive.

SPAIN PLANS LAW FOR DRASTIC GAG ON PRESS, RADIO

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A new, drastic communications bill to give the Spanish government full control of the newspapers, radio broadcasts, newsreels and even phonograph records will be discussed at the next meeting of the cabinet, the newspaper Ya said today.

The newspaper said the bill would remove parliamentary immunity in cases where members of congress are publishers.

Although foreign correspondents were not specifically mentioned in the bill, Ya said the legislation provides that "representatives of offending publications are subject to suspension of their civil and political rights."

CONVICT, BARBER SHOP SLAYER, GETS 14 YEARS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Fred Minnick, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Harold Kein, Harold Bruno, William Haywood, Kenneth Stulka, and Albert Young, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Fred N. Walker, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Freddie Cruz and Robert Godfrey, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; James Ford, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Charles C. Lowe.

Sam Bruno, 30 years old, 1371 Sheffield avenue, was convicted of murder by a jury last night in the Criminal court of Judge Hugo M. Friend and his punishment fixed at fourteen years in the penitentiary, the minimum sentence. He was charged with slaying Joseph Adducci, 42 years old, 308 East 117th street, a city employé, as he was being shaved in a barber shop at 11857 South Michigan avenue, on Sept. 15.

Bruno was shot and captured while running from the barber shop by Detective Russell L. Richards. The state charged the murder was a case of mistaken identity, having been unable to determine a motive.

Bruno's defense was that he too was a customer, and ran out of the shop to pursue the slayers. The revolver he dropped in flight Bruno said he had used to fire two shots at the killers. Detective Richards testified Bruno fired at him.

SLAYER CALLED INSANE.

Plan to Take Deity's Name from French Juror's Oath

PARIS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—French jurors no longer will be required to swear "before God" to do their duty, if parliament adopts the recommendation of the chamber of deputies committee on civil and criminal legislation. The committee, which has been studying proposals for reform of court procedure, voted six to three today in favor of elliminating the name of the Deity from the traditional oath. The proposal would permit substitution of the words "on my honor and my conscience" for the present form of the oath.

GRADE CROSSING PERIL SPURRING CHICAGO TO ACT

City Tackles Its Gravest Trafic Problem.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Separation of highway-railway grade crossings on the network of roads leading to Chicago—America's crossroads—is one of the city's major trafic problems. The extent of the work which must be done was stressed in some figures made public yesterday.

In the neighboring states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin are 445,260 miles of rural roads. In state highway systems are 45,012, or about 10 per cent. In Illinois alone are 1,500 places where rails and roads intersect—potential death traps.

In the United States there are 235,827 road-rail grade crossings in a total railway mileage of 256,000 miles. Total mileage of rural roads is 3,036,000. State systems cover 369,537 miles, or 12 per cent.

Experts Study Problem.

Robert H. Ford gave the figures out yesterday as part of his report as chairman of the Association of American Railroads' committee on grade crossing separations. Mr. Ford is assistant chief engineer of the Rock Island lines, and his research group has made a recent country-wide survey. Other expert groups also have been studying the problem as vital to transport.

Among Mr. Ford's findings are the following:

Grade crossings are being created in the United States faster than grade separations are being built.

The situation is growing in hazards through lack of proper planning.

About 60,000 grade crossings might be closed by relocation of roads or proper planning, adding to safety and convenience of travel.

Sees Growing Chaos.

Government has failed to keep pace with new conditions brought by motorized transport and the spread of modern highways and about 200,000 unrelated political subdivisions control the national highway system, meaning chaos.

A national plan for grade separation is needed, and the problem requires concerted national and state action.

Any additional federal road aid should be centered on grade separation before adding to the road building program.

The 235,827 road-rail grade crossings in the United States are roughly classified by Mr. Ford as follows: Separation necessary, 30,000; protection necessary, 100,000; unnecessary crossings, 60,000; minor action only required, 45,827.

Public Growing Impatient.

"Whatever the reason for the increase in railway-highway grade crossings," said Mr. Ford, "the problem of grade separation has become so pressing that the public appears not inclined to wait for long processes.

"In this modern age of motors, it is startling to find that exclusive of city streets, 3,035,986 miles or 88 per cent of the entire highway mileage of the United States is directed and controled in much the same primitive manner as it was in early colonial days. Our political system of highway control for this vast mileage is that of the ox cart and covered wagon days.

"About 26 per cent of the tax dollar goes for highways. On the federal-state system, the federal government has aided to date the states to the extent of $1,450,000,000. The cost of the remaining mileage of the improved state highway systems is unknown.

Past Shows Possibilities.

"But for the eleven years, 1921 to 1932, the construction expenditure was about 15 billion dollars. This includes the federal aid. This splendid system of federal-state or state highways is a striking example of what can be accomplished through unified control.

"A national plan for grade separation is needed, not only in the interest of transportation, but for the country as a whole it should be sponsored by the federal government. It seems clear that it is a matter of public benefit, as all the American people profit from the results. Since all benefit through better transportation on highways and railways, the fairest distribution of the cost of these benefits is to the public as a whole, on the same principle applied on highway grade crossing separations.

"If grade crossings are part of the existing system of highway improvement, they should be put down as part of the uncompleted section of these improvements, and any additional federal aid to the states might well be centralized on separations before material additions are made in the road building program."

Suit Asks $50,000 for 2 Boys Injured in Bonfire

A $50,000 damage suit was filed in the Circuit court by Attorney Murphy O. Tate yesterday in behalf of Robert Trainer Jr., 10 years old, 243 West 55th street, and his brother Raymond, 9, against the Pennsylvania Railroad company and the Miller Amusement Enterprise company. Several weeks ago, the bill says, the two boys found an unmarked can of naphtha on the railroad property at 58th street and Stewart avenue, leased as a storage yard by the amusement company. Thinking the naphtha was water, the boys attempted to put out a bonfire with it, receiving scarring burns.

AUTO EXECUTIVE URGES ELEVATED STREET SYSTEM

Harry Klingler Calls on Staf to Aid Plan.

BY HAL FOUST.

Harry J. Klingler, one of the first of the motor executives to arrive in Chicago for the opening of the automobile show on Saturday, advised a group of his local sales representatives yesterday to give their support to the promotion of an elevated highway system for this city. He is president of the Pontiac Motor company.

"Our industry has a selfish interest as well as moral responsibility to exert its full influence for the betterment of trafic facilities," the Detroiter told a group, including his Chicago dealer, H. A. Wehmeier. "This truth applies equally to all who gain a livelihood from motor cars, every one from the manufacturers to the lads who turn the cranks at gasoline filling stations.

The Results to Be Expected.

"In Chicago, the construction of an elevated highway system would give the same impetus to automobile usage that resulted in rural areas when mud roads were paved with concrete. More cars and more gasoline will be sold.

"The value of an automobile and of a gallon of gasoline in the hands of the ultimate consumer is determined by the opportunity for pleasant and efficient use of these products. The delays and hazards of congested one level streets must be eliminated with the construction of elevated highways for motor transportation to continue to progress."

Several Conferences Take Place.

Mr. Klingler left for Detroit yesterday, but will return for the motor show in the Coliseum next week. His meeting with representatives here was one of several such conferences being held in Chicago by various companies as the industry launches its 1935 sales campaigns.

In the Coliseum decorators are preparing the interior of the exhibition halls for the opening of the doors at 2 p. m. on Saturday for an eight day run. A dedicatory address will be made by C. Wayland Brooks, with a blare of brass and roll of drums by the champion drum and bugle corps of the Mel Tierney American Legion post of Park Ridge.

Government Employes Get Pay Cuts Back in Canada

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 23.—The federal government today partially restored pay cuts to 50,000 public servants in Canada. Increases will go to every one in the government service from the governor general down to the junior office boy, effective April 1.

AVOIDABLE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile accidents are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

ARREST BROKER; CHARGE $50,000 TRUST DIVERSION

Otto C. Kraemer, a broker with an office at 134 North La Salle street, was arrested last night by state's attorney's police on a warant issued by Municipal Judge Hartigan charging Kraemer with diverting $50,000 turned over to him to create a trust fund. Franklin R. Schmidt, 2923 Wilson avenue, one of the four children of the late George A. Schmidt, soap manufacturer, who were to have shared in the trust estate, obtained the warant in the names of all four.

Schmidt told Judge Hartigan that before the death of his mother, Mrs. Louise S. Schmidt, in 1930, Kraemer represented her in the sale of a mortgage for $50,000 and pursuaded her to create the trust fund for her children, Rose, Elizabeth, Mrs. Louise Steiner, and Franklin R. Schmidt.

Last October, Schmidt said, he asked Kraemer to account for the money and was told Kraemer did not have it, but would return it if given time. Publicly Kraemer asserted, "The facts as charged are not true." He is to be arraigned today in Felony court.

Mother of 2 Is Jailed as Auto Accident Sequel

Mrs. Marian Howland, 34 years old, 1652 Melrose street, was sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell by Judge Edgar A. Jonas in the Trafic court yesterday when she was found guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and driving past a red trafic light. She is the mother of two children. Testimony showed that Mrs. Howland was the driver of a car that struck and seriously injured Mrs. Frances Pingrey, 36 years old, 4259 North Ashland avenue, at Montrose and Ashland avenues last Sept. 24.

TRUCK LOADED WITH $200,000 IN COLLISION

Police Lock Up Driver of Other Car.

George D. Carter, 2829 South Michigan avenue, was arrested last night after his automobile struck an armored truck carrying $200,000 and pushed it into the path of a street car at South Clark street and Archer avenue. Neither Carter nor the guards on the truck were injured.

Carter drove his car away after the crash and was unhit by shots fired after him by Fred Danner, 1847 Melrose street, one of the guards. The truck was then towed in to the office of the Chicago Armored Express Service, 216 West Jackson boulevard, and the guards obtained another machine to search the district.

Driver Locked Up.

The damaged coupe was found in front of a restaurant a few blocks away and Carter was inside the place with a woman. He denied being in the accident, but could not explain the damage to his car. He was locked up, charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Four firemen were injured, none seriously, yesterday morning when the combination engine and hook and ladder truck on which they were returning from an alarm, crashed into a laundry truck which the firemen said was driven suddenly into their path at Cicero and Wrightwood avenues. Walter Severinghaus, 49 years old, driver of the laundry truck, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving. He provided bond and was released. His truck, owned by his uncle, A. H. Severinghaus, of the Severinghaus Suds Laundry, 3132 Armitage avenue, bore 1934 license plates No. 14-711-B.

Four Firemen in Hospital.

The injured firemen, who were taken to St. Anne's hospital, are Arthur Weinel, 46 years old, 4246 North Spaulding avenue; William Rose, 40, 2633 North New England avenue; Gordon Ross, 34, 1505 North Kostner avenue; and Henry Riemer, 46, 1635 North Linder avenue.

With no deaths in Cook county for two days the 1935 motor toll yesterday remained at 43. The fatalities for the year within the Chicago city limits totaled 41 and the number of injured in trafic accidents 888.

URGES AUTOISTS TO MAIL LICENSE PLATE REQUESTS

Hughes Sees Jam Here; 'Can't Open New Offices'

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes visited yesterday the only Chicago branch of the state automobile license bureau at 120 South Ashland avenue and found a thousand car owners shivering outdoors in the near zero breezes. The automobile owners were waiting on the sidewalk until the office could serve other motorists who previously had spent their hour outside before they could crowd their way in and get their 1935 license plates. The police deadline on tags is set for tomorrow night.

Faced with the demand that additional temporary license offices be established to eliminate the hardships to motorists, Mr. Hughes set forth a number of reasons why this could not be done. As a remedy for the situation he urged that car owners mail their applications to the Springfield office of the license bureau.

The Secretary's Suggestion.

"The police will not arrest those who can show a money order receipt to prove that they have made applications for their licenses," Mr. Hughes declared. "The best thing that motorists can do now to avoid inconvenience is to send their applications to Springfield.

"There are many car owners who are under the false impression that they cannot do this because of the existence of a Chicago office. This is untrue. The branch office here, the only one in the state, was established two years ago at the suggestion of Mayor Cermak. We are operating it without any additional appropriation from the legislature, but could not afford to set up more such offices without legislative action to finance them."

Reasons for Denying Branches.

The main obstacle to the immediate establishment of temporary offices in the loop and on the north and south sides, he explained, is the fact that it would take at least six weeks to get delivery on special accounting machines necessary for the work. These are, so to speak, "super cash registers," which print license information on applications and cards. The National Cash Register company confirmed Mr. Hughes' statement.

Several weeks of special training would be required before new employés could take up their duties in the proposed temporary offices, he said, and they would also have to be bonded to protect the state against loss.

Cite New York's Procedure.

In New York City, 12 temporary offices have been opened for the convenience of motorists in addition to the regular offices in each of the five boroughs. During the rush periods workers are drafted from other departments of the vehicle bureau there to speed the issuance of plates. When this was pointed out to Mr. Hughes, he replied that the Illinois system of license records differs from that in New York.

Mr. Hughes admitted that to mail applications to Springfield often entails extra expense to the motorist, such as a notary public's fee and cost of a money order. He said he was considering several changes to increase the capacity of the Ashland avenue office, which can now handle only 9,000 applications daily without forcing motorists to wait outside.

3 HELD TO JURY IN ROBBERY.

Joe Saket, 30 years old, 2254 Adams street, Alex Markoya, 17 of 2300 Monroe street, and Fred Lebar, 19 of 1140 17th street, were held to the grand jury on robbery charges yesterday by Judge Lambert K. Hayes in the Boys' court.

"Moist-Throat" Method ended his COUGH in 2 days

"I'm a singer," writes Russell Johns, Chillicothe, O. "2 days before an audition I had a bad cough. Pertussin made it stop quickly!"

WHEN you catch cold, your throat feels dry because thousands of its tiny moisture glands clog. Infected mucus irritates—then you cough. To relieve the coughing, you must "unclog" those glands and so moisten the throat. Pertussin does just that. It helps the throat glands to pour out their natural moisture. Sticky phlegm loosens—Relief. Get a bottle now!

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

PLAN NORTHERLY ISLE EXPOSITION HALL AND PARK

Committee Develops Idea of Great Playground.

Northerly Island, the playground of some 35 million Americans during the two seasons of A Century of Progress Exposition, will become America's permanent playground and convention center under tentative plans made yesterday by the Chicago playland committee.

The committee is headed by Leonard Hicks, and it was appointed by Mayor Kelly to study the possibilities of extending the World's Fair through the summer of 1935. At a meeting yesterday in the office of Vice Chairman Ernest R. Graham the committee decided, instead of extending the Fair, to plan the transformation of Northerly Island into a permanent exposition park.

For exposition purposes, the committee proposed the construction there of the largest exposition hall in the world, which would have a floor space of 300,000 square feet. It would have a railroad spur and would be heated during the winter.

Require New Equipment.

For recreational purposes, the group suggested summer and winter sports, light opera, symphony concerts and other entertainment.

Little, if any, of the World's Fair equipment will be available, as the sewerage, piping and water lines are beyond salvage. Of all the Fair structures, only the administration building, Fort Dearborn and the two lagoon bridges can be used.

Regulations of the South Park board forbid permanent structures on the lake front, but William J. Lynch, a member of the board, said he did not believe the restriction would apply to a playground and a properly constructed exposition hall on the island.

Explains Need of Rail Facilities.

"Chicago, with 60 per cent of the people of the United States within a night's ride of its limits and with every major railroad line converging here, is the logical focal point for trade shows," said Patrick F. Sullivan, the Building Trade council's representative on the committee. "But major trade shows pass Chicago by, because none of its exhibition buildings have nearby railroad trackage.

"Merchandise has to be carted all around the city on its way from the train to the exhibition, and cartage costs are exorbitant. Consequently, we miss the major shows, for they go to Cleveland or Atlantic City. If we had a hall that a train could run through, with a large crane in its center, we could have every trade show in the country here in Chicago."

Advantages of Playground.

Arguing for a playground on Northerly Island, with its waterfront and beach, Vice Chairman Graham commented:

"Chicago has everything in it today except the playground feature. With that we could make Chicago a summer resort equaled nowhere in this country. When merchants come here they want a little vacation, as well as a little buying, and if they have proper pastime they stay two or three days.

All the committee members agreed it was inadvisable to rush into the project. They would like to have some part of it ready for the summer of 1935 but think it too vast an undertaking for immediate completion.

A subcommittee, for planning purposes, will meet today. Charles S. Peterson is chairman.

1,500 CLOTHIERS SEE MART SHOW OF MEN'S WEAR

Some 1,500 retail clothiers thronged the Merchandise Mart last night for the formal opening of the Mart's first semi-annual men's and boys' wear market. The showing will continue through Saturday.

The opening took the form of a floor show and dance, at which the Men's and Boys' Wear club of the Mart was host, but during the course of the evening all of the 200 exhibitors kept open house for the buyers.

In all the advance spring showings for men and boys, color—laid on in flamboyant splashes — was predominant. Shirts, made of rough fabrics, were navy blue, canary yellow, and chocolate brown. Ties were laid out in bold diagonal stripes. Underwear was green, pink, and mottled.

For boys, knickers are discarded for summer wear, and shorts are being made for the first time in sizes as large as 20. The open throated sport shirt has given way to the polo shirt, either with or without zipper effects. Window pane patterns and dishrag effects are much in evidence.

LONG ASSUMES COMPLETE RULE IN BATON ROUGE

Senator Jubilant Over Coup on Enemies.

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Square deal leadership which is sworn to combat the Huey Long dictatorship held its peace today while Long formally assumed control of East Baton Rouge parish and made his plans to build a mimic Washington, D. C., out of the capital city of Louisiana.

Disregarding protest and defiance of the 13 elected police jurors of East Baton Rouge parish, Long had his governor, O. K. Allen, commission an equal number of jurors under one of his dictatorial laws and set up the state capital's city council to administer parish affairs.

Names Coördinator.

Long then had the governor commission Eugene Cazedessus, Baton Rouge banker, as state coördinator to sit as a member of the city commission council to replace Lowers Higginbotham, commissioner of streets and parks, whose job Long abolished with a legislative act.

Long said he was going to widen Church street and make it a "Pennsylvania avenue" of his "little District of Columbia," move the Catholic Brothers school to the old campus of Louisiana State university to make room and cut the street straight through to the statehouse.

Plans Land Sale.

"You see that lake and that land over there?" Long asked pointing to the north to a tract owned by Louisiana State university. "Well, we're going to build a bridge over the lake and develop that land."

That's where the money would come from, said Long, estimating $100,000 to build the Pennsylvania avenue. He estimated that the land could be improved and sold off at a profit of hundreds of thousands of dollars to finance his project.

The Square Deal association, organized in Baton Rouge with spreading military units in adjacent parishes, made no move openly today to block Long's plans with their "shock troops."

Resistance Is Awaited.

Whether Long succeeds in his conquest over hostile members of the local reigning heads of Baton Rouge and the parish will be determined in any resistance offered by members of the elected contingent of police jurors who oppose alliance with him. Support from some of the present elected members will give him a majority to decide all questions in his favor.

The opposing group of officials voted to refuse to recognize Long's appointive police jurors and directed Sheriff Robert L. Pettit, who is politically hostile to Long, to use his deputies to keep the Long-Allen appointees from having anything to do with the parish records and moneys.

BILBO BATTLES SYKES AS CHIEF OF WIRES BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Senator Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi, who calls himself "The Man," today opened his long promised fight to block confirmation of former Judge Eugene O. Sykes as chairman of the federal communications commission. Among other things, Sykes was accused by Bilbo of prostituting his official position to force radio broadcasting companies to give free services to Bilbo's opponent in the Mssissippi primaries.

Appearing before the senate interstate commerce committee at a hearing on Sykes' nomination, Bilbo referred to him as "conspicuously despicable." Not long ago, Bilbo said, Sykes was "an unknown barrister," but "the vicissitudes of politics" cloaked him with the "authority and glamor that goes with a gilded greatness."

After the committee recessed the members, including Chairman Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, indicated that Bilbo's charges, because of their gravity, would be thoroughly investigated before taking any action to report out the nomination.

JURY PONDERS FATE OF KILLER OF FIVE PERSONS

Morrison, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The fate of Fred Blink, 43 year old world war veteran charged with the slaying of five persons at Fulton on Sept. 4, was placed in the hands of a Circuit court jury here this afternoon and at midnight no verdict had been reached.

A dramatic plea that Blink's fate be exacted for the killing of John Hamilton, Blink's former business partner and the last of his five victims, was voiced by State's Attorney L. L. Winn of Whiteside county as the trial moved to a close today.

Admitting the killings, Defense Attorneys M. C. Rogers of Morrison and C. C. McMahon of Fulton, arguing before the jury for nearly two hours, reiterated the defendant's contention that he was poisoned by his victims by a strange liquor which made him unconscious of his movements from the time of the massacre until four days later.

In addition to Hamilton, victims of the multiple slaying were Mrs. Jennie Walters, Hamilton's housekeeper; Harry Menzie, Belvidere; Willoughby Collier, Sterling, and Mrs. Irene Corrick, Des Moines, Ia.

CALLS PRIMARY WITHOUT REAL FIGHT A WASTE

Nash Sees Kelly Winning Mayoralty in a Walk.

BY PARKE BROWN.

"It's a shame the taxpayers can't be spared the cost of the election."

Thus spoke P. A. Nash, head of the Democratic organization, yesterday, the day after the last statutory day for the withdrawal of mayoral nominating petitions. None was withdrawn, and with the resultant list of Democratic and Republican entrants before him, the Democratic national committeeman and county chairman expressed even more forcibly than he had before his absolute certainty of Mayor Kelly's reelection.

There are on file three Democratic petitions in addition to Mayor Kelly's. And there are four Republican petitions, but Chairman Nash described them all lightly by saying they "don't belong to the regulars, they're only volunteers," whose presence in the primaries in the election means nothing more than expense to the taxpayers and waste of the time of the voters.

Cites Basis of Estimate.

He said the exact truth of the situation was that the opposition to Mayor Kelly, whether Democratic, Republican, or newspaper opposition, had fallen flat since the chief executive of the administration obtained a full grasp of the reins of the administration and showed what he could do.

Mr. Nash said that a comparison of the Kelly vote in the primary of Feb. 26 with the votes received by all other candidates combined would demonstrate beyond question the truth of his estimate of the situation.

"We expect to poll at least as many votes as were on the petition filed for the mayor," he said. "That contained the names of 600,000 Democrats. In addition, we later sent out sheets that could be signed by Republicans or members of any other party, and, counting sheets that were not turned in by precinct captains and ward committeemen, there were about 800,000 voters who went on record for Mayor Kelly in four days' time. We are sure his vote will go far beyond the 800 mark in the election of April 2. Who of the other candidates could receive even a substantial fraction of that total?"

Sizes Up the Situation.

He went on to say that he wished not to express severe opinions or even to tell all that he knew about the other candidates, but he sketched in a light way his idea of their standing.

"He pointed out that James Fred Robertson, one of the Democratic petitioners, was a candidate for nomination for congressman-at-large last April and received a total of only 63,204 votes in Cook county, in contrast to 369,938 cast for Michael L. Igoe.

He recalled that Martin Powroznik, another Democratic filer, made an effort to organize a "National Progressive" ticket last year, and as one of its candidates for congressman-at-large Powroznik polled a total of 4,525 votes in Cook county.

He said he had been informed that John P. O'Meara, the third Democratic candidate against Mr. Kelly, had a small milk store on the north side and "might expect a few votes from his customers and nothing more."

"The futile efforts of the Republican organization to find a mayoral candidate are pathetic," said Nash, "and I am rather sorry because it is not a good thing for our own organization to have things all its own way. It should have a good battle now and then to keep in fighting trim and to avoid getting overconfident and lazy."

Calls the Roll of Foes.

He commented that, after the failure of the G. O. P. organization or any of its factions to get behind a strong candidate, the Republican mayoral petitioners consisted of four individuals with no organization strength whatever and with little personal following.

"First came Emil Wetten," he said, "and who has heard of him since the days of Mayor Busse except during the last mayoral election when he was a handy man for a former Republican mayor, who was defeated overwhelmingly by Anton Cermak. Wetten spoke at meetings and pictured that Republican standard bearer as though he were a new Messiah, and the worst of it was, he seemed to believe it.

"Then came a lady. I don't want to say anything about her.

"Just why Sol Goldberg, the hairpin manufacturer, filed a petition is beyond us. We are advised privately that he considers Ed Kelly has been a great mayor and is entitled to a second term.

"The last Republican to file was Mortimer B. Flynn. How many voters ever heard of him except through his court experiences? He ran only after he and old associates had failed to persuade a former Republican mayor to run.

"Flynn knows he can't win, but wishes to make a fight to keep some of the old city hall organization together. He won't be able even to do that."

Italian Island Revolt

ATHENS, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Greek newspapers said today many persons were killed and injured when a revolt of Greek inhabitants of the Italian-owned island of Kalymnos was quelled by aviators and marine detachments. The press gave as a basis of its reports stories allegedly told by those who fled to territory owned by Greece.

Earlier reports from the same sources said Italian warships were en route to Kalymnos, one of the Dodecanese Island group in the Ægean sea.

Denied in Rome.

ROME, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A government spokesman officially denied today Greek reports of disturbances on the island of Kalymnos. He said no naval detachments had been sent there.

TWO QUIT RACE FOR ALDERMAN OF 25TH WARD

Two 25th ward candidates for alderman, Earl McCreedy, 2021 Washburne avenue, and Humbert O. Nelli, 2051 Harrison street, filed withdrawal affidavits with the board of election commissioners yesterday, less than 18 hours after the filing deadline at 5 p. m., Tuesday. The withdrawals leave only two candidates in the 25th ward race, former Ald. James B. Bowler and William J. Baker, 2415 Congress street.

The names of Harry L. Hartman, 4170 Drexel boulevard, candidate in the 4th ward, and Joseph M. Artman, 5732 Harper avenue, running in the 5th ward, were added yesterday to the list of candidates made public by the board of election commissioners. These changes leave the total aldermanic candidates at 286.

ASSESSOR'S PLAN TO 'TAX BILLIONS' HITS TWO SNAGS

Law Guards U. S. Rolls; Warned by Bankers.

Three major developments yesterday followed Assessor John S. Clark's announcement that he hopes to put billions of dollars' worth of intangible personal property on the tax rolls at full value, equalized to 37 per cent, as real estate is now.

1. Bankers, though they would not be quoted directly, were unanimous in declaring that such a move, if successful, would drive most of Chicago's mobile capital to other cities.

2. Inspection of federal statutes disclosed that the information which Mr. Clark can get from federal income tax returns will be much less complete than he hoped.

3. At a conference with Probate Judge John F. O'Connell, other county officials, and bankers, the assessor reiterated his intention of going ahead with assessment of intangibles, such as bank deposits, mortgages, and securities, on a "full valuation" basis.

Few Real Facts Available.

The 1934 federal revenue act, while it provides for public inspection of income tax payment records, restricts such information to that which taxpayers are required to file on a pink slip accompanying their return. These slips will list only gross and net income and tax paid.

The only statute permitting inspection of actual income tax returns by persons other than treasury department employes was passed in 1932 to facilitate collection of state income taxes. It provides that upon written request of the governor of a state returns of corporations may be inspected.

The statute's provisons seem to bar any use of the records by a county assessor. It decrees first that inspections shall be made by state officials, and second that such officials may not name any one else to examine the records for them. The assessor, however, still believes that he can make personal property assessments on the basis of the bare reports of gross and net income open to general public inspection.

Hopes to Force Admissions.

"With that information," said Mr. Clark, "I can make an arbitrary assessment against a man on the theory that if he has an income, say, of $100,000 he must own a large amount of intangible property. If he comes into court to protest that assessment the court can compel him to give an exact statement of his assets."

The bankers present at the conference in the assessor's office were Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank, and R. C. Osgood, vice president of the same bank and spokesman for the trust officers of all loop banks.

The others who attended were Judge O'Connell, Assessor Clark, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Barnet Hodes of the state tax commission, and Hayden N. Bell, head of the civil law department of the state's attorney's office.

Proposes Cleveland Plan.

Mr. Bell asked the assessor if he would be willing to try in Chicago the Cleveland classified assessment plan, under which intangible property is taxed at low rates, provided that ways to accomplish it could be found under the Illinois constitutional provisions that assessments and tax rates must be uniform for all classes of property.

"I told him," said Mr. Clark later, "that if we're going to have debased valuations on intangibles we must also have the coöperation of all persons involved to give the assessor information on concealed personal property."

Meanwhile, the total tax valuation of all Lake county property, both real and personal, is $77,731,615, according to figures released yesterday by Harold D. Kelsey of Waukegan, chairman of the Lake county board of review. This is a drop of $9,041,300 from the total for last year, but is considered largely due to a 10 per cent cut in assessed valuation of real estate, ordered by the board last summer.

Flag Pulley Sticks; House Breaks Capitol Tradition

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The house of representatives broke a tradition today. At noon, as the gavel falls, the United States flag is supposed to be raised above the house chamber. But today as capitol employés began to pull the rope they discovered it wouldn't move. The pulley at the top of the flagstaff was encrusted with snow and sleet.

Important Discoveries Show Way to Fast Relief from Colds

TO RELIEVE A COLD ALMOST INSTANTLY NOTE PICTURES BELOW

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

IF you catch a cold—don't take chances or suffer needlessly.

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and relieve the aches and pains colds bring with them.

It is recognized as a remarkably safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

This is because real BAYER Aspirin Tablets are made to dissolve or disintegrate almost INSTANTLY in the stomach. Hence they start to work almost instantly.

You can relieve nearly any cold you get simply by taking BAYER Aspirin and drinking plenty of water. If throat is sore, gargle with 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets stirred in a third of a glass of water. Sore throat eases this way in 2 or 3 minutes, incredible as this may seem.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin. It works almost at once when you take it and in a gargle disintegrates completely enough to leave no irritating particles. Watch this when you buy. As the prices of BAYER Aspirin have been reduced on all sizes, there is now no point in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

Dear Mr. McMahon:

It is indeed a pleasure to be able to inform you that the response to our advertisement that appeared exclusively in the New Year's edition of the Chicago Tribune far exceeded our fondest hopes.

We felt that when our days sales a year ago showed an increase of 160% over 1933 that we had certainly reached the maximum in results .. but this year the response was so much greater that we exceeded 1934's receipts by 28%.

In our two State Street stores alone we clocked an attendance of over 9,000 people and every one of our neighborhood stores enjoyed an attendance proportionately large .. in fact, the store at 6328 S. Halsted Street was forced to close its door several times during the day to adequately accommodate the crowds.

This proves conclusively that Sally Frocks do have public acceptance, and that the Chicago Tribune is indeed a marvelous medium in which to capitalize on this. Gratifying results like these have prompted our consistent advertising in the Chicago Tribune and I feel that your worthy newspaper will continue to do big things for us in the future.

With best wishes,

Yours very truly,

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

JAPS OPEN NEW DRIVE INTO CHINA; SHELL 3 CITIES

Launch Surprise Attack in Chahar Province.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 24 [Thursday].—The Japanese army, quiet for months since its seizure of Manchuria and parts of northern China, has launched a new offensive with the apparent intention of annexing additional Chinese territory to the vast regions already seized.

Striking suddenly, the Japanese military machine moved upon three points in Chahar province, in northern China. The Japanese shelled three fortified Chinese cities—Kuyuan, Tungchetze, and Tushihkow. No information concerning the number of dead and wounded was received here. The attacks were launched at 6 p. m. Tuesday [4 a. m. Tuesday, Chicago time], and were renewed yesterday.

Bombard Town Several Hours.

In the attack at Tushihkow the Japanese used armored cars and twenty field pieces. They bombarded the city several hours, and resumed the bombardment at 10 a. m. yesterday [8 p. m. Tuesday, Chicago time].

Early yesterday morning Japanese planes bombed Tungchetze and circled over Kuyuan. Later they returned to bomb Kuyuan also.

Chinese reports said the Chinese forces put up strong resistance, but were outnumbered. The Japanese forces, which included also troops of the Japanese controled state of Manchukuo, were said to number 2,000.

Kuyuan is located midway between Kalgan, capital of Chahar province, and Dolon-nor near the border of Jehol province in Manchukuo. Tungchetze is south of Dolon-nor. Tushihkow is the northernmost gateway of the Great Wall a short distance northeast of Kalgan.

Attack Is a Surprise.

The Japanese attack came with startling suddenness, since all indications were that negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the dispute over Chahar province had been nearing a successful conclusion. The dispute was caused by Japanese allegations that Chinese troops in Chahar had invaded Jehol.

Only yesterday Premier Wang Ching-wei reported to the Chinese central political council that the prospects for a peaceful adjustment were bright, while Gen. Sung Chen-yuan, head of the Chahar provincial government, made a similar report to the Peiping military council.

The real objective of the Japanese drive is a mystery. Japanese officials here and in Peiping declined to discuss the matter. The district which the Japanese are occupying is about 150 miles long and at the broadest point is about fifty miles wide. It is said to contain gold mines.

Russians Are Apprehensive.

Soviet Russian representatives here expressed apprehension that the Japanese objective is to cut the overland trail connecting Kalgan with Urga, capital of the soviet controled Outer Mongolia. This, the soviets pointed out, would place the Japanese in a position to establish a base for further operations in Inner Mongolia.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, dictator of China, who is now in Nanking, made no comment on the new Japanese offensive. He said he was preparing to proceed to the upper Yangtze river to continue the drive against red bandits in Szechwan province.

Sergeant Slain, 2 Officers Shot.

TOKIO, Jan. 24.—(AP)—One Japanese army sergeant was killed and two officers wounded by machine gun fire from Chinese forces along the Charhar-Jehol border, Rengo [Japanese] dispatches from Kainking said today.

The casualties occurred, the reports said, as Chinese troops resisted the advance of a Japanese column.

The Japanese were said to have occupied several obscure villages, but the dispatches did not indicate on which side of the border they were located.

JAPAN LAUNCHES NEW CONQUEST

The map shows:

1. Japanese troops advanced from Jehol province, Manchukuo, bombarding three Chinese cities.

2. The Chinese Eastern railway, for which Japan and Manchukuo will pay Russia about $40,000,000 for its half share.

3. Sinkiang province, latest scene of friction between Russia and Japan. Each is protesting the other's efforts to extend its influence to Sinkiang.

BRITAIN TO SETTLE 18,000 FAMILIES OF IDLE ON FARMS

Proposed Plan to Cost $56,000,000.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Eighteen thousand families of idle men are likely to get farms, houses and free lessons in farming this year under the scheme for settling the land, which has been announced by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Final plans await completion by the ministry of agriculture, but it is believed about $40,000,000 may be used for settling land in England and Wales and $16,000,000 more for Scotland.

In addition a scheme to insure 750,000 British agricultural workers against idleness will be introduced in parliament shortly. This will bring farm workers within the scope of unemployment insurance for the first time.

Operate at Small Cost.

The parliamentary committee recommends establishment of a program which will be self-contained as to finance and covering agriculture, forestry and horticulture but excluding family farms, casual workers, and seasonal workers. Contributions will be on a lower scale than the general unemployment insurance and benefits likewise will be small.

Workers will pay a maximum of eight cents weekly, while the employers and the exchequer will contribute a similar amount. Upon losing his employment a farm hand who has made at least twenty contributions will be entitled to relief for himself, his wife, and his family to the maximum amount of $6 weekly.

This year is held to be particularly favorable for settling the land, one of the pet projects of the ministry of agriculture, because there has been in the last twelve months a modest but gratifying rise in farm prices and money is cheap.

From Industrial Area.

The men to benefit by Great Britain's new step in planned economy, in which the socialist influence is strong, will come from the "derelict areas"—industrial towns absolutely or nearly ruined by the depression—and the age limit will be fixed at 45, as men over that age will not be so successful, it is thought, as younger men.

If the present plans are approved by Maj. Walter Elliott, minister of agriculture, and by the cabinet, the men will be settled in groups of 150 or 200 and to each group will be assigned an instructor to teach the men farming, advise them when necessary and to help them market their produce.

This last is of importance, for the whole scheme to settle the land has been retarded by the difficulty of marketing the produce from small groups. The Marketing board now enables small holders to sell their produce cooperatively, as has been done with much success in Denmark.

Farms 3 to 5 Acres.

The plans call for individual farms of from three to five acres. The ministry of agriculture already owns certain areas suitable for group settlement, and local authorities possess ample powers for acquiring lands for small holdings. The sites required are estates of from 500 to 1,000 acres, which means that landlords could sell holdings that cost them dearly in upkeep and taxes and yet are not profitable.

It is proposed that the men to benefit build their own houses after the government has supplied them with the building materials without charge. A house could be built for $750. To this would be added the cost of providing water, erecting fences, purchasing the land, providing materials and live stock and of building barns and chicken houses.

PARAGUAY TAKES FORT NEAR MAJOR BOLIVIAN BASE

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Paraguayan forces today captured Fort Carandayty, important Bolivian position lying 60 kilometers [37 miles] northwest of the major Bolivian army base at Villa Montes, it was officially announced tonight.

The fall of Carandayty left Villa Montes, heavily fortified position, the only major obstacle still in the way of Gen. José Estigarribia's drive at the Bolivian oil fields lying behind it.

Fort Catirenda, connecting link between Villa Montes and Carandayty, fell to the Paraguayans Jan. 5, and the wedge Estigarribia drove into the Bolivian communication line thereafter so endangered Carandayty that its fall had been expected from one day to another.

Senator McAdoo arrived at Rome by airplane after visiting the far east. He left tonight for Genoa to sail for the United States tomorrow.

SOVIET CONGRESS MEETS TO PAT STALIN ON BACK

1,500 Gather Tomorrow; First Session Since 1931

MOSCOW, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The seventh all-union soviet congress—the nominal board of directors of the world's biggest, most complicated industrial apparatus—meets here Friday to review operations of the last four years.

Not since March, 1931, have delegates from the Russian federation, Transcaucasia, the Ukraine, White Russia, Uzbekistan and Turkmenistan, republics included in the union, made their way to Moscow.

In the four intervening years Josef Stalin has settled himself more firmly in the saddle as head of the soviet's proletarian dictatorship, and the second five year plan, aimed at speeding up the vast, intricate mechanism of sovietized industry and agriculture, has got well under way.

Expect 100 Per Cent Approval.

To these things the 1,500 or more delegates—great Russians and little Russians, Turcomans, Georgians, and Tatars; Christians, Jews, and Moslems—are expected to give their 100 per cent approval.

Such is the communist party's power in Russian politics that its small political bureau, dominated by Stalin, virtually controls the government of the soviet union. Nominal authority to pass upon the decisions and policies of the governing party is vested in the all-union congress, but in reality it does little more than give its rubber stamp of approval to the steps previously taken by the Stalin dictatorship.

Progress Claimed.

To illustrate the increase in the economic might of the soviet union during the last four years, V. V. Kuibyshev, vice chairman of the council of people's commissars, cited these eight points in an address before the Moscow provincial congress:

1. The national economy has fulfilled the tasks of the second five year plan, overfilling them in many important branches.

2. Marked successes have been achieved in the technical reequipment of all branches of the national economy.

3. Industry is developing widely on the basis of mastery of new technique.

4. A steady increase in agricultural production has been recorded.

5. Compact groups have been created in all spheres of socialist construction.

6. The plan of commodity circulation has been fulfilled and the card system for bread and breadstuffs abolished.

7. Material and valuta reserves [against the Russian currency] have been strengthened.

8. The defensive capacity of the nation has been strengthened.

12 MORE RUSSIANS SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR MURDER OF KIROV

MOSCOW, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Twelve more Russians were punished today in connection with the murder last Dec. 1 of Sergei Kirov, right hand man of Dictator Stalin, at Leningrad.

F. D. Edved, chief of the Leningrad section of the commissariat of domestic affairs, and eleven of his assistants who were removed from office after the assassination were sentenced to concentration camps for three to ten years each for failure to protect Kirov.

Their sentences brought the total number of punishments of this character in connection with Kirov's murder to 55. Twenty-nine were sent into exile, and 14, including the two former communist leaders, Gregory Zinoviev and Leo Kamenev, were given prison sentences. One hundred and seventeen were shot to death for terroristic action.

SEE ADVANCE OF ITALIAN PLAN TO SEIZE ETHIOPIA

Rome Shows Wrath Over Raid on French.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 23.—Police guards around the Ethiopian legation in Rome were strengthened today, as the plot thickened to make an Italian protectorate out of Ethiopia, mountainous African kingdom.

Observers here saw in the exploitation of yesterday's announcement of the slaying of a French Somaliland colonial administrator, Albert Julien Bernard, 26 years old, and 96 French colonial employés and Somalis, definite advancement of a plan to enable Italy with the consent of France and probably Great Britain, to take over Ethiopia "to restore order."

Great space was given in Italian newspapers to the killing of the Frenchman, with the implication that it parallels the recent Italian troubles with the Ethiopians and proves that they, and not the Italians, have been provoking the recent troubles.

Precedents at Hand.

To seize Ethiopia and make a protectorate of it, Premier Benito Mussolini would not have to look far to find a precedent. He can point to the British in Egypt and the Sudan, the French in Tunis and, more recently, the Japanese in Manchukuo.

Diplomatic circles here remember that Japanese intervention in Manchuria was also to restore order and reduce Chinese banditry. Mussolini will reduce Ethiopian banditry.

French opposition newspapers, it is pointed out, openly hinted that a free hand in Ethiopia was part of the deal between Premier Mussolini and French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval two weeks ago.

That something of this kind is being prepared appears now from recent events as follows:

[1] The series of frontier fights.

[2] The naming of Gen. Emilio de Bono, former minister of colonies, as high commissioner of Italian East Africa.

[3] Mussolini's taking over the ministry of colonies.

[4] The granting by the French to the Italians of a bigger share in the operation of the Djibouti [French Somaliland] and Addis Abbaba [Ethiopia] railway.

[5] The construction of military roads through Italian Somaliland to the Ethiopian frontier.

One can even hear in Rome that a war on Ethiopia was planned for this month, but had to be put off because of the exigencies of other events.

Scouts for Munitions.

It was reported here, anyway, that the Ethiopian emperor, if such he can be called, is fearfully worried and is buying all the arms and munitions he can from Swiss and other European sellers.

Mussolini, it is reported, is proceeding carefully because of the expense and difficulties entailed in mountainous colonial warfare such as would be involved in Ethiopia.

Newspaper comments today dwelled largely on assertions that Ethiopia is incapable of controling the situation on its borders.

The official view, as published in the authoritative Il Messagero, expressed Italy's indignant sympathy with France and said Ethiopia would have a hard time making her "alibi involving lawless tribesmen stick before the world."

Drawing a parallel between the French affair and a previous pitched battle between Ethiopians and Italian troops at Ualual, the paper said the cause of these outbreaks is "born in the devilish and unconfined pride which leads Ethiopian leaders to believe they have arrived at a point of civilization comparable with that of any European state, whereas they are really in a most humble state."

THE PRESIDENT AND THE PUBLIC PURSE.

Democratic bolters in the house of representatives have a bad reason for a good cause. President Roosevelt intends to dictate throughout in the handling of the 4 billion 880 million emergency appropriation. The bolters object, not because they see the danger of this dictatorship, but because they fear that their own projects will not get money. Inasmuch as these projects are as questionable as any that could be promoted, the reasons for bolting are not admirable.

The authority the President claims contains one of the oldest abuses of power. It compels a virtual extinction of the control of public moneys by the representatives to whom it has been delegated. It has been axiomatic in government that the hand that holds the purse is the hand that holds the people. In recognition of this fact the hand has been made the hand of the elected representatives of the people.

The origin of money bills, in the evolution of democratic control of government, was placed in the popular assembly. It was in the house of commons. It is in the house of representatives. Appropriations for public expenditure originate in that house which in its entirety is elected every two years. The only safe procedure is to have these appropriations made for specific purposes, stated in each money bill, with the safeguard that warants drawn against the treasury shall be strictly in accord with the authority granted by congress.

With such protections democratic people have guarded themselves against the use of their own revenues to overthrow their own liberties. Authority seeking to undermine these liberties has often tried to avoid the restrictions by one evasion or another. When George III. was making his determined effort to establish personal government in Great Britain and the American colonies his misuse of appropriations enabled him to bribe parliament and corrupt the rotten constituencies. The misuse of the public funds, diverting money from public use to corrupt purposes, nearly destroyed the British fleet, produced a venal parliament, lost the American colonies, and nearly resulted in the conquest of England by the French and Spanish.

The American people recently passed through an election in which the public money was used without stint to procure a majority for the administration. Government pay checks filled the mails, going to every congressional district in the country for the election of Democratic congressmen who would do precisely what is now being done in Washington, where the President demands the unrestricted power to spend over four billion dollars at his own discretion, without any limitation or specification by the appropriating body. Democratic congressmen thus bought and paid for have yielded and have adopted a gag rule to prevent any interference with the executive program.

It will be argued for the administration position in this audacity that it is unsafe to permit the representatives of the people to declare how the money shall be spent. Contrariwise, it is unsafe to give any man dictatorial powers with a four billion dollar fund in his hands. It doesn't matter what his purposes are or what in the present instance can be said for them. He is a man in political office and within less than two years he will be a candidate to succeed himself upon the record he has made in his administration. He is even now a candidate. In a little over a year his political managers will be at work in every state actively. There will be four billion dollars to say that he cannot be wrong. No man who ever held office in the United States could wisely be given the unlimited power which that amount of money would put in any hands.

If congress is no longer a safe custodian of the revenues of the United States the responsibility must be accepted by the New Deal. This congress is the product of the money expenditures of the Washington government and of the arguments and special pleadings which the New Deal made to the American people. If, as the result of all, congress must abdicate its prerogatives and duties, the downfall of representative government is on the doorstep of the White House. The men elected were elected because the federal government as now constituted not only advised the voters to elect them but paid them to do so.

The Democratic party as at present led is responsible for the men assembled on Capitol hill. It is a political crime to tell the people now that these men are unfit to perform the duties for which they were selected and that the salvation of the country depends upon their abdication and upon the elimination of congress as a part of the country's government. The dictatorship assumed in the spending of the nation's money has no other excuse and that meaning should not be lost upon the people. The New Deal elected congressmen not to serve but to resign. It put in the house of representatives men of such character that the President refuses to allow them to deliberate upon the appropriations.

Infatuation is carrying this country far from its course.

THE COUNTING HOUSE CUPID.

Mrs. Roberta West Nicholson, Indiana lawyer and member of the house of representatives, has introduced a bill which, if enacted into law, will make the state a poor one for love injury collections. "I am convinced," she says, "that most actions for breach of promise and seduction have extortion as their chief motive." Mrs. Nicholson might have added such was the common knowledge, based on general observation, but it would require a woman to dispose of the legal fluff of the broken heart.

A middle aged spinster in Rutland, Vt., at this moment is knitting her way through six months in jail because a jury found her guilty of enticing a young ashman out of his marital fidelity. The wife obtained a verdict of $5,000 damages. The only explanation for this witch hunt is that the men on the jury thought they would be suspected at home if they held that the young man neglected his ash cans at his own risk. A wishful thinking male juror will sacrifice any one to maintain his own self-suspected reputability. If the Rutland jury had not wanted to acquire merit the wife would have been told to knock her husband for a row of his own cans.

The breach of promise, alienation, and separate maintenance gold mines are worked mostly by intriguers, law and lay, aided by legal fictions of the crushed rose, the torn vine, the cold harth, and the weeping willow, all of which, with the magic of dollars and cents, can be revived in the atmosphere of the night clubs and the more frequented summer and winter resorts.

CUBA HEADS FOR THE JUNGLE.

President Mendieta announces the abrupt failure of the conciliation which was to have enabled sugar production to meet the import quota in the United States, in which nearly 2 million tons are assigned to Cuba. The demands of the revolutionists are blamed by the Cuban government for the failure. The ABC, the revolutionary society, insists on the resignation of the president and of Col. Batista, the army head.

Terrorists, against whom repressive laws have been passed, including a suspension of constitutional rights and the imposition of the death penalty for sabotage, are continuing their campaigns with bombs and destruction of mills and sugar.

None of the changes of policy in the American attempt to put the brakes upon a slipping country have availed anything of consequence. The United States has tried control and it has tried advice. It has intervened and it has given up the right to intervene. It succeeded in sanitation and health measures, but none of its efforts produced a democratic morale. It withdrew from the prerogatives and responsibilities of the Platt amendment, but this was an idle surrender. Cuba has changed the personnel of government but finds no one who can preserve order or who will be accepted by opposing factions.

How much the disorder has been aggravated by American manipulations is not known, although Senator Vandenberg in pressing for an investigation of the recent sugar squeeze is trying to find out.

Cuba, to all seeming, is following predecessors in the Caribbean area in sliding back into the semi-barbarism or complete barbarism of jungle society. The United States in changing its attitude from one of interested jurisdiction to one of ostensibly disinterested aloofness has apparently done nothing helpful and in the end may be responsible in part for conditions which cannot be isolated and, therefore, cannot be ignored.

AGRICULTURE A LA RUSSE.

Mr. Wallace's AAA program, indorsed by all planters who had government checks in their pockets at the time of voting, decreases corn planting in the corn belt and increases it in the land of cotton. The corn belt, paid not to produce corn and hogs, seeks an out in the planting of flax or some other substitute for what it naturally would grow.

The effect is to transfer crops from lands best fitted for them to lands to which they are less suited. The program has one consistency. It is a logical part of the general policy of government, which is the transfer of activities from the hands of the citizen who knows how to conduct them to the hands of politicians who do not. The doctrin of the New Deal is to discover the least advantageous way of doing a thing and intrust the doing to the least competent persons. The failure is then absorbed by the federal treasury.

Mr. Wallace substitutes government checks for crops. The soviets have encouraged their farmers by stealing their produce; result, famine. Further encouragement is offered by sending the successful producer into exile as a kulak. The American commissars have a different technique, but they'll accomplish the same purpose.

Editorial of the Day

A SMALL POTATO.

[Detroit Free Press.]

A widely read, although erratic and generally jittery, weekly publication is running a series of articles on "The Menace of Huey Long."

There is no such thing.

The Kingfish is about as much a menace to this country as an ant in the pants of the sultan of Jolo.

A nation that can survive Gen. Coxey, Coin Harvey and William Jennings Bryan can't be pushed off its balance by a mountebank from the muskrat swamps of Louisiana.

The dictatorship he has established down on the gulf is quarantined by a cordon sanitaire of states with common sense, as he recently discovered when he invaded Arkansas.

Senator Long's imperial sway will probably melt in the sun of returning prosperity.

And if it doesn't, a revolt against both Huey Long and a political machine in New Orleans that has financed itself in the past with the proceeds from commercialized vice and crime will sooner or later topple the Kingfish from his bad eminence and restore the Creole state to its proper place in public esteem.

The only way Huey Long can be made dangerous outside his own bailiwick is to feed his egomania with the idea that he is a big bad fellow and that the country is afraid of him.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AND HERE'S A MOVIE QUEEN, Gwill Andre, suing her husband on a strange charge; she says he plays chess all the time. Ladies are frequently suing for divorce because their husbands play bridge or golf, and quite rightly so, for bridge players hit the lady wife with the card table if she trump her husband's ace. And golf players—well, they just rage around something awful and throw a mashie, a driver, the brassie, the lofter, the midiron, the putter, and the caddie at the lady wife if she giggles when they land kerplop in the water hazard. But to claim chess as grounds for divorce seems most absurd. A chess player is the quietest of all mortals; he just sits and stares at the board until the other player thinks he is asleep. All you can hear him say for hours on end is "Ware the queen!" or "Check!" Anybody that would say a chess player was noisy or cruel would have a butterfly that happened to touch his cheek with one of its soft and silky wings arrested for assault and battery.

SHERIFF'S SALE

(Stark County).

Could I recite to you the homestead
Of Merriweather Green,
I would say her parlor windows
Have a bright, unearthly sheen;
That the painted corner cupboards
With the luster teapots told
That little cups to match the set
Had recently been sold,
With the eagle-headed andirons
And the glass-framed wreaths of hair:
All the parlor held that final day
Was one plush rocking chair.

Samuel Smartwood bought the bureau
With the Brothers Adam urn;
Flavel Loomis had outbid him
On the copper-circled churn.
Noah Pierce drove down the west road
With the low-backed rosewood chairs,
And Laurenzy Enos Parsons
Bought the hand-carved walnut stairs.

Merriweather told the buyer
That the cherry trundle bed
Had held Jefferson Davis once
Before his cause was dead;
That the whirling pewter caster
With the amber-handled spoons
Had seen a hundred Maytimes
And a century of Junes.

She sold the woven coverlets—
The canisters for tea,
The Lowestoft plates and compotes . . . and—
A Currier of the sea.
She parted with the wedding lace
Of Claramantha Leeds,
Her grandmother's shirred bonnet—
And a box of zinnia seeds.

Could I recite to you the homestead
Of Merriweather Green,
I would say her parlor windows
Have a bright, unearthly sheen,
For she walks now in the garden
Near the drooping-bucket well,
How many times she has been seen
No citizen will tell.
For Merriweather, in the fall,
A graceful orchid ghost—
Moves cautiously upon a stair
With neither step nor post.

RACHEL MACK WILSON.

AND IF WE PLEASE EUROPE by joining the World Court then Europe ought to reciprocate by joining some of our American institutions—the "Chicago Young Men's Onward and Upward Citizenship Club," the "Eighteenth Ward Republican Fun and Frolic Association," the "South Garfield Park Junior Horseshoers' Club," or the "West Evanston Ladies' Bridge Whist Every Friday Assembly." Turn about is fair play, as has been often remarked, and if Europe wants us to come into their private clubs, such as the World Court, they ought to show a willingness to join ours.

"JUDGE INSTRUCTS JURY in Hauptmann Case to Wear Rubbers to Avoid Colds."—Headline. That jury is being mollycoddled. It's pretty soft for them after all; they don't have to read the stories written down there by the sob sisters, novelists, sports writers, dramatists, poets, movie actors, truck gardeners, plumbers, and miscellaneous word painters. They're not even allowed to. Oh, how nice!

FOR TWO MAY NEVER MEET.

You, who went seeking a song,
Weary of wisdom and truth,
Offered your love for the song.
But songless completed your youth.

I, who went seeking a friend,
Some one to gladden and praise,
Offered my song to the friend,
But friendless I number my days.

PYGMALION.

SECRETARY ICKES says not another cent of easy money from the government does New York City get until it ties a can to Park Commissioner Robert Moses as one of the members of the New York Triborough Bridge authority. Mr. Ickes will make no charges and Mr. Moses seems one of New York's greatest and most useful citizens, so it must be that Mr. Ickes does not like the neckties Mr. Moses wears. Or maybe Mr. Moses eats spinach and Mr. Ickes just can't tolerate any one that eats spinach. There really must be a reason somewhere.

IT'S BEEN MIGHTY COLD in Chicago this winter and we shivered, but when we reflect that the temperature has gone down below the freezing point in southern California and Miami a great feeling of peace and consolation comes over us. HEART CRIPPLES.

It often requires courage to face facts, for facts are sometimes unpleasant. When health is concerned the better informed we are the more able will we be to protect ourselves and our families.

We now recognize that heart disease carries the baton and leads the cohorts of death, and it has been estimated that there are more than five million heart cripples in the United States. Half of these are unable to engage in their regular vocations and the other half pursue their daily tasks at somewhat reduced efficiency. To put it another way, approximately 4 per cent of the population of this country is living under the physical handicap of heart disease. The problem, therefore, is an important one demanding widespread knowledge of prevention as well as "How to live" with a damaged heart.

The foundations of heart disease are, for the most part, laid in early childhood and belong to the rheumatic fever group of infections. Conditions such as tonsilitis, scarlet fever, influenza, common colds, and in fact any acute infection may lead to heart involvement.

Although the patient recovers from an acute infection, slight damage to a heart valve, if it has occurred, may not be discernible for many years. Now and then changes occur slowly but steadily and the individual may find himself in middle life with shortness of breath, swelling of the ankles, and other early signs of heart failure.

The bright side of the picture has been turned to our gaze through a recognition of the importance of removing foci of infection, and this has greatly reduced the number of cases of rheumatic disease. Again the yearly health audit has detected incipient or beginning signs of heart involvement, with the result that proper management has been instituted and the patient protected.

Some years ago it was my privilege to observe the clinical skill of the late Sir James Mackenzie, a distinguished British heart specialist. One afternoon a fine specimen of a man, approximately 50 years old, was seated in his waiting room. He called my attention to the patient with the remark, "That man has so-and-so," naming a fairly serious heart lesion. "He has not missed a day from his work in thirty years." The case was typical of what good management by a skilled physician can accomplish.

We know something about the cause of rheumatic fever, but probably little compared to what we shall know a decade or two hence. We are as yet unable to point the way to the complete elimination of this devastating disease. But research is going forward steadily. Until rheumatic fever is conquered we must do everything possible to prevent its occurrence by giving every child an opportunity for normal, healthy growth and development. This means the elimination of undernourishment, plenty of rest, proper clothing, and the building of body resistance.

Syphilis is an important cause of heart disease, but here public apathy or indifference or a sense of shame has hindered progress. People do not like to talk about syphilis. Although generally a venereal infection, it is not always so. At any rate, in a high percentage of improperly treated cases it damages the heart and the aorta (the large blood vessel leading from the heart). We know the cause of syphilis, how to prevent it, and how to cure it, and with an enlightened public and coöperation between health agencies, physicians, and patients syphilis as a factor in heart disease can be entirely eliminated. While the means lie immediately at hand it is probable that a generation will come and go before an aroused public will demand the extinction of this disease.

Fortunately, with our present day knowledge of the behavior of the heart, of the load that it must carry, and the work that it must do, trained physicians can assist nature whenever heart disease is present. The heart muscle can be strengthened, toxins eliminated, and physical activity so regulated that the heart sufferer more often than not finds himself able to carry on with comfort and safety.

WAX IN EAR.

M. W. W. writes: For several years I have been troubled with an excessive collection of ear wax which, when dry, causes itching and irritation. I remove it with a paper clip. Have you any suggestions to offer?

REPLY.

Excessive secretion of wax must be removed to avoid deafness. An ordinary rubber syringe, using warm water, will suffice. Objects such as paper clips and hairpins may be introduced too far and injure the ear drum. Itching of the ear canal may come from ringworm, eczema, or some other type of skin infection.

EYE STRAIN.

E. C. writes: I had headaches all through elementary school. Whenever the teacher told me to copy what was on the board I had to look sharply and strain my eyes. Then flashes would come before my eyes and a severe headache resulted. I consulted an ophthalmologist who fitted me with glasses. I finished school without a single headache.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Statistics of life insurance companies show that the most dangerous place for any one is at home. More accidents happen there than anywhere else. A person is safer in his auto, on a train, playing sports, at his work or even in an airplane. One of the most dangerous places in which to be in a home is a bathtub, while the safest is a bed. THE LINCOLN LOG CABIN.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 21.—The picture of Thomas Lincoln's log cabin in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 6, and letter of Mildred Sammons Jan. 8, and now the letter of Eleanor Gridley of Jan. 20 attract my interest. It is stated that this is a picture of "the simple log cabin Abraham Lincoln helped his father build."

The record is about as follows: The entire Lincoln family came to Illinois in the early spring of 1830 and settled near the Sangamon river some ten miles west of Decatur. Here they erected a log house, using logs previously prepared by John Hanks. Here they lived during the summer and fall of 1830. Then followed the "winter of the deep snow."

In the early spring Abraham Lincoln left his father's home in Macon county and made his celebrated trip to New Orleans in the flat boat. The party returned to Illinois late in June, 1831. Abraham Lincoln went to his father's new home in Coles county on Goose Neck prairie, where his father had already built himself a new house. This is the house pictured in THE TRIBUNE Jan. 6, 1935.

Lincoln left this home the latter part of July, 1831, to go to New Salem, Ill., to help Denton Offutt open a store there.

On what authority is the statement based that Abraham Lincoln helped his father build the log cabin on Goose Neck prairie? I would like to look it up.

A BREAKER OF COVENANTS.

Eldon, Ia., Jan. 19.—President Roosevelt's economic security program, if it becomes a law, will some time in the future, under a Democratic administration and under the excuse of a Great Emergency, be repudiated the same as they have repudiated the past obligations of the United States. If the government can break its contract with its people in government bonds, how can our people place any confidence that the government will keep its word under the security program? L. L. HINKLEY.

A JOB FOR THE HIGH COMMISSIONER.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Now that Geoffrey G. Knox is free from his work in the Saar, why not invite him over to the U. S. A. to show us how to run a country and pay all officials up to time and yet leave the country without debts?

JOHN M. THOMSON.

BONURA'S CONTRACT.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—It is noted that Zeke Bonura, White Sox first baseman, returned his contract unsigned, and, strange as it may seem, Jimmy Dykes, the manager, is the least concerned over Zeke's action; Dykes plans to take care of the situation by taking Haas, a retired outfielder and friend, and placing him on first base.

We do not know the salary involved. However, Zeke's playing and hustling was outstanding on that team and certainly rates more consideration than just to say "Haas will play first base if Zeke does not sign."

After all these dark years of no color, no fight, no hustling spirit, no ball players, and we, the undersigned, going out to the ball park through sheer loyalty, hoping some day to see a hustling ball club, we finally notice a spark of life [Zeke Bonura] coming back to the team, and our hopes rise only to come tumbling down again because Haas has to be taken care of.

We, the Sox fans, believe the records speak for themselves, Mr. Comiskey, for a change you've found a ball player. Why not try and keep him? Don't chase us away from your park.

REPUBLICAN DOCTRIN.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—May I call attention to the sixth annual message of President Grant as a sample of Republican doctrin which was fully carried out? Space allows a mere sentence, "The good faith of the government cannot be violated toward creditors without national disgrace." This sentence follows the statement that the debts were contracted in good faith and were payable in "gold or its equivalent."

The Republican administration kept its word and paid its debt in gold or its equivalent, including the greenbacks.

ARE RAILS NECESSARY!

Chicago, Jan. 16.—I would like to know why, in this day of modern machinery and supposed progress, rails are essential in the operation of a street car system. Is it because there is too much invested in present equipment, long outmoded, that progress in transportation is prevented?

If this city would junk all of its present street cars, tear up the rails and put in their place large buses, such as are used for feeders, or similar to the new double decked buses operated on the boulevards, we would have justified our celebration of a hundred years of progress.

Every one riding the street cars knows that when one is tied up it delays every street car following. Modern street cars should be able to pass one another just as buses do. Let's get rid of the rails and make boulevards of all of the streets where street cars are operated.

DISINTERMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How long after a body has been consigned to the grave can it be taken up for investigation into the cause of death? 2. Can a body be removed from a grave six months after burial, and [3] can investigation and charges or arrest be made against persons thought to be indirectly responsible for death of person buried six months ago? In this case there was no inquest or post-mortem at time of death.

A. M. S.

1. There is no statutory limit. The likelihood of a court ordering disinterment would depend on the strength of the evidence and upon whether it was of such a nature as to make it seem plausible that worth while information might be obtained.
2. We certainly would not make a definite negative answer.

DICKINSON HITS TVA PROPAGANDA IN THE SCHOOLS

U.S. Does What It Scores in Others, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], disclosed in a speech on the senate floor today that the Tennessee Valley authority, using federal funds is disseminating public ownership propaganda in the public schools. The senator asserted and introduced evidence to show that the TVA has been doing the same thing for which it violently condemns the private utility companies.

"Recently I was astounded to discover the broadcast manner in which TVA's socialistic doctrines are being spread in the very same underhand manner of which public utilities have been accused and which I was among the first to deplore," Senator Dickinson said.

"I refer to an article entitled 'Tennessee Valley Looks to the Future,' which appeared in the Journal of the National Education Association of December, 1934."

Author Paid by TVA.

Senator Dickinson explained that the article was written by one Walter E. Myer, editor of the American Observer. Myer, he said, was paid for writing the article by the TVA, in whose employ he spent several weeks.

"We have this on the admission of Dr. Joy Elmer Morgan, editor of the journal," the senator declared. "Thus it is revealed that an agency of the federal government is engaging in a propaganda trick that amounts to a public fraud—a deception as black as any charged against its public utility opponents.

"The deception lies in the fact that the readers of this article—and it has been reprinted for classroom use, large quantities having been purchased for free distribution by TVA—are forced to assume that the writer has written freely from his own observations. The article is written, of course, purely from the standpoint of those who want to make everything look rosy in the TVA."

50,000 for School Use.

After delivering his speech, Senator Dickinson introduced for the record a reprint of the article. The reprint is entitled "A Learning Unit for Schools." Dr. Morgan, the editor, said that 50,000 copies represented the first printing for classroom distribution and that more would be struck off as needed. The TVA, he said, purchased 25,000 copies "as a starter."

Senator Dickinson quoted from the article as follows:

"They [the utility companies] seek to influence public opinion in so far as it relates to the regulation of utility rates. They carry their influence to the schools and secure the adoption of textbooks which are favorable to utility companies and the elimination from other textbooks of statements they consider harmful."

"This from a piece of propaganda performing the same kind of mendacious dissembling," Senator Dickinson said.

"Toleration Not Enough."

Another quotation from the article, as read by the senator, was:

"It is not enough that the people tolerate the TVA. They must follow its guidance actively if its purposes are to be achieved."

Senator Dickinson also introduced a personal message from Dr. Morgan to the school teachers of the country, urging them to try the Myer article on their classes.

"Perhaps it will help our young to realize that America has a great future, if it wills to have such a future," Dr. Morgan wrote.

FORMER KAISER OBSERVES 76TH BIRTHDAY SUNDAY

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Because Nazis look with small favor upon monarchists, former Kaiser Wilhelm may find letters of congratulation from Germany fewer when he celebrates his 76th birthday Sunday.

Nevertheless, the exiled former German ruler has received one welcome present, in the opinion of the quasi-official house organ of the Hohenzollern family, the modest monthly Der Aufrechte.

"The former kaiser's best present for Sunday's birthday," the little paper said, "is the return of the Saar to Germany."

The former emperor's perfect health and mental agility despite his advanced age the monthly took to be "a visible, not to say desmonstrative act of God's mercy on his gray head." A steady stream of congratulatory letters already has begun to pour into the former kaiser's place of exile here—many of them from overseas, the United States, Latin America, former German colonies in Africa, and the far east.

WILL HAYS.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Better motion pictures are in the offing because of the widening public interest in movies, Will Hays declared yesterday as he arrived in Chicago from his quarterly visit to Hollywood. "We look to 1935 with great optimism in the industry," said Mr. Hays, who is president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America. "Better pictures come with the greater social, public, and religious interest in a higher quality of pictures. The unusual number of pictures based on literary classics has been one of our outstanding advances."

ICKES HOLDS 30 JOBS, BUT KICKS AT TWO BY MOSES

Parallel Is Revealed in New York Dispute.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—There are thirty reasons why President Roosevelt should not have chosen Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes to crack down on Robert W. Moses of New York. It was learned today that Secretary Ickes has 30 jobs and Mr. Moses but two.

Three weeks ago Secretary Ickes issued an order which in effect would deprive Mr. Moses of either his job as New York park commissioner or Triborough bridge authority. The order stated that no person could hold a position on any authority administering PWA funds if he held another official position.

In this promulgation Secretary Ickes was seen as a willing tool of the White House in the settling of a political grudge. Moses incurred Roosevelt enmity when he sided with Al Smith and the White House has a long memory for political feuds. Moses incurred the animosity of Ickes by outspoken criticism of the PWA and the secretary does not forget his critics.

Allied with Al Smith.

Moses' enlistment under the Smith banner in the feud between the two great Democratic chiefs was particularly irritating to Roosevelt because as governor of New York he had given Moses several appointments. Moses discharged these well, but despte this association joined with Smith.

The administration had a further grievance against Moses in the latter's attack on awarding the PWA contracts to the Builders Supply corporation formerly headed by Postmaster General Farley. It was Moses who brought out the fact that Farley left his brother-in-law in control of the company when he resigned to take up his cabinet position. The sole answer of New Deal agents to the charge was that the company received no more contracts than other companies in proportion to its size.

While the Ickes order aims to take away one of the Moses jobs, it was said today at the department of the interior that it could not be interpreted so as to endanger any of the 30 Ickes' jobs. Mr. Ickes is a plural person, it was said, and well entitled to the use of "we" in referring to himself.

Ickes' 30 Jobs.

He is secretary of the interior, PWA administrator, chairman of the special board of public works, PWA housing administrator, petroleum code administrator, chairman of the oil conservation board, chairman of the national resources board, member of the forest reservation commission, member of the migratory bird commission, member of the District of Columbia permanent system of highways and member of the Smithsonian institution.

DOWNSTATERS FARE BEST ON BIG COMMITTEES

Illinois Senate Adopts Prepared Plan.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Political exigencies and pressure were shown to have played a major role in the organization of the senate today. The committee on committees submitted and saw the adoption of its report naming the chairmen and members of the standing committees.

Thirty-four committees were named, six new ones being added to the twenty-nine functioning last session. The one on Chicago's World's Fair was dropped. It so happens that there are thirty-five Democrats in the senate. Thus all but one has a chairmanship to take back to show his constituents. The exception is Richey V. Graham of Cicero, president pro tempore and leader of the Horner administration forces.

Williams Heads Committee.

Senator Graham had been a major contender for the chairmanship of the important executive committee and had the support of Gov. Horner. The post, however, went to Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton], who was chairman of the committee on committees. This committee had a membership of five, three from downstate and two from Chicago.

Being president pro tempore, Graham will preside in the absence of Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan. He also is expected, as at the last session, to carry many of the duties of senate floor leader.

On the executive committee, which handles resolutions and is active in policy making for the upper house, are fifteen Democrats and four Republicans.

Senator Williams, according to reports, refused to accept leadership of the executive committee until word came from the second floor that the governor would abide by the organization committee's report.

Committee chairmen from Chicago are:

CIVIL SERVICE—Thomas E. Kean [Dem.].
CONTINGENT EXPENSE—Frank J. Huekin Jr. [Dem.].
CORPORATIONS AND MUNICIPALITIES—Francis J. Loughran [Dem.].
ELECTIONS—Peter P. Kieliminski [Dem.].
FEES AND SALARIES—Frank McDermott [Dem.].
INDUSTRIAL AFFAIRS—Joseph Mendel [Dem.].
JUDICIARY—Harold G. Ward [Dem.].
LICENSE AND MISCELLANY—Patrick J. Carroll [Dem.].
PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS—William J. Connors [Dem.].
PUBLIC UTILITIES—George Maypole [Dem.].
PUBLIC WELFARE—John M. Lee [Dem.].
RAILROADS—John Broderick [Dem.].
TO VISIT EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS—T. V. Smith [Dem.].

Downstaters in Lead.

Downstaters, committee lists show, have packed the most important committees. Cook county has only eight of the twenty-one members of the executive committee, ten of the twenty-four places on the judiciary committee, and thirteen of the thirty seats on the appropriations committee.

Cook county, however, has a majority on the reapportionment committee in which it has a vital interest. On this committee Cook county has six of the ten members.

Besides approving of its organization, the senate advanced these three bills that have been passed by the house to third reading:

Giving authority to public officials who are custodians of public money in closed banks to enter into the reorganization of the banks.

Providing for a secretary for the Chicago Supreme court district.

Boat Hits Harrison Street Bridge; Damaged $8,000

The lighterage boat, Commerce, owned by the Mechants Lighterage company, 211 East North Water street, crashed into the Harrison street bridge yesterday. Damage to the boat was estimated at $8,000. Paul Le Fevre, pilot of the craft, said his vision was obscured by smoke.

FIX THAT COLD

And Fix It Right—Depend on No Mere Half-way Measures!

A cold neglected may be a cold regretted!

Many a "slight" cold has ended in flu and pneumonia.

Treat a cold quickly and treat it sensibly.

Forego "cure-alls". A cold calls for a cold treatment and not a preparation good for all kinds of ailments.

A cold also calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what you want for a cold. First, it is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds and nothing else.

Secondly, it is internal medication, fourfold in effect.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

These four effects make a real cold treatment and you get them only in Bromo Quinine.

Be prudent, be careful! At the first sign of a cold, go right to your druggist for a package of Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours.

In 24 hours, if taken promptly, Bromo Quinine will have your cold broken up. That's the speed of action you want for safety.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Get these famous cold tablets at any drug store, and insist upon getting what you ask for.

The few pennies' cost may save you a lot of expense and worry.

FORMER POLITICIAN HELD AS TUTOR OF POLICEMAN'S SLAYERS

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Nelson E. Clark, 62, companion and adviser of the four youths held for the killing of Policeman James M. J. Killion on Friday evening while they were robbing a store at 543 Fifth avenue, was accused today as accessory to that murder.

Magistrate Renaud held Clark, who ran for governor of Massachusetts on the Bull Moose ticket and almost was elected, without bail. The charge is receiving stolen goods and violation of the Sullivan anti-gun toting law.

Police Inspector McDermott told the magistrate the four boys—Raymond Orley, accused of firing the shot that killed the policeman; Amerigo Angelini, Thomas Rooney, and Newman Raymand—confessed to him today in the Tombs. McDermott said the boys asserted Clark picked the places to rob, furnished weapons, and disposed of the loot.

According to McDermott, Clark told the boys on Friday to hold up the office of the Owens Coal company on First avenue, but that looked too risky a job so the boys decided to hold up Grooper's Luggage shop in Fifth avenue. That led to the policeman's death.

NAZIS REGIMENT SKILLED LABOR IN MEDIEVAL GUILDS

All Craftsmen Are Placed Under a Dictator.

BERLIN, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The Nazi revolution came to grips with the industrial revolution today as the government moved to recast Germany's 20th century industry in the moulds of the medieval craft guilds.

A new law published in today's official reichs Gesetzblatt, which takes effect immediately, organizes all the nation's skilled labor into so-called craftmanship chambers similar in their three stages—apprentice, journeyman, and master—to the craft guilds of the middle ages.

Adopts "Leadership" Principle.

The legislation, deriving like the national Socialists' Aryanism from the party's emphasis on the virtues of the early Germans, provides for operation of the craftmanship chambers on the "leadership" principle, under the supervision of the minister of economics.

Any one exercising a craft on his own responsibility, it stipulates, must have a certificate called "handwerkskarte" guaranteeing his skill.

To obtain the certificate he must have registered as a master of his particular craft, gone through apprentice and journeyman stage, and reached the age of 24. Certain exceptions are allowed for craftsmen who were established in their trade before Jan. 1, 1932.

Sees "New Era" Ahead.

An official note described the innovation as an historic turning point in German handicraft life, inasmuch as crafts may be conducted only by certified masters whose work may be relied upon as irreproachable.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's economic dictator, in an address to craftsmen, said the new law, based on Nazi ideals, was not easy to frame.

Modern industry, he said, grew from craftsmanship, and the new departure should lead to bringing German craftsmanship to high perfection.

FOUND DEAD OF EXPOSURE.

William Kelly, 60 years old, 205 Alexander street, a beggar who lost both his legs twenty years ago in a train accident, was found dead of exposure yesterday in the hallway of a building at 18th and Federal street.

BUS PROJECT FOR NORTHWEST AREA IN CITY APPROVED

Promise of improved transportation service for the residents in the northwest section of the city was held out yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Attorneys for the Chicago Surface lines and the bondholders obtained the court's permission to spend $150,000 for 16 new gasoline buses to serve the territory. The company's receivership is pending before Judge Wilkerson.

Last Jan. 1 the Illinois Commerce commission ordered the surface lines to install feeder bus service in Higgins road between Milwaukee avenue and Canfield road, and in the Northwest highway from Milwaukee avenue to the Park Ridge city limits. For ten years residents in this section have paid a ten cent fare to the United Motor Coach line to reach the street car line on Milwaukee avenue.

The attorneys yesterday termed the proposed feeder buses "or inestimable benefit to the surface lines," and estimated they would be in service in two months. The only remaining obstacle is the possibility that the United bus line may appeal the commission's order.

FIRE CAUSES $2,500 DAMAGE.

A short circuit in electrical wiring in an apartment building at 907 East 56th street started a fire yesterday that caused damage of $2,500 to the flat of John Galos.

HERE'S BIG NEWS FOR FAT FOLKS

Mrs. Jessie E. Forsyth of Maitland, Fla., writes: "I am a dietitian and I reduced myself from 163 to 133 lbs. by taking only a moderate course of Kruschen Salts. I did not become haggard looking or cadaverous as many do who try those stupid 18-day diets. I also know a woman, 65 years of age, who weighed 240 lbs. By the aid of Kruschen she reduced to 160. Before she couldn't walk, her legs were so swollen. I met her the other day—she had walked from Maitland to Winter Park, a distance of 3 miles."

Reduce safely and sensibly by taking one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen (6 separate salts) in a cup of hot water every morning. In surprisingly short time you'll be overjoyed with your improved health—you'll feel years younger and look it—skin grows clearer—eyes grow brighter with the glorious energetic activity which fills your whole body. A jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a few cents.

Add the juice of half a lemon to make this daily health drink taste better—Kruschen is guaranteed.

THE SECRET IS OUT!

Here Is The Simple Formula For Buying Good Whiskey

Thousands of satisfied users in metropolitan cities have stopped guessing about whiskey. They have chosen W. W. Dant whiskey as their whiskey because it passed the "here to here" test.

Buy Whiskey from "Here to Here"

YOUR NOSE AND YOUR PALATE HAVE NEVER DECEIVED YOU

TODAY AS BEFORE PROHIBITION THERE IS ONE SURE GUIDE TO BUYING WHISKEY WHETHER FROM A DEALER OR BY THE DRINK AND THAT IS THE "HERE TO HERE" METHOD. IF IT HAS THE RICH BOUQUET AND MELLOW TASTE AT A PRICE THAT SATISFIES YOU—THEN THAT'S YOUR WHISKEY. DO NOT BE CONFUSED. BE YOUR OWN EXPERT. A LABEL NEVER MADE A POOR WHISKEY TASTE BETTER TO YOU NOR A GOOD WHISKEY TASTE BAD. JUST GIVE THE "DANT SALUTE" TO ANY DEALER OR TAVERN KEEPER FRANCHISED TO SELL DANT WHISKEY. HE WILL UNDERSTAND WHAT YOU WANT. HE WILL ALSO KNOW THAT YOU KNOW HOW TO BUY WHISKEY.

Before prohibition most of the popular whiskies with national acceptance were blends. Perhaps the most valuable asset of those fine producers was the skill with which they selected and blended whiskies of various characters to create a distinctive, pleasing, palatable drink. These brands were demanded by name. The consumer was assured uniform quality and the bouquet and mellowness which pleased his personal taste.

The ability to so please the greatest number marked the producer's success—built great trade names in the whiskey industry—and was his secret.

Just as in those good old days, we have acquired a method of blending skilfully selected Kentucky whiskies (nothing else) to produce the kind of a drink in distinctive character, rich bouquet and mellow taste, to please the connoisseur.

THE "MARIME" INSIGNIA

SCIENTIFICALLY BLENDED UNDER "MARIME" LICENSE No. 1

Our exclusive secret is the "MARIME" method. Developed through the labors of some of the keenest men in the whiskey industry in co-operation with scientific men from America's best universities.

You need no longer be confused. Just give the "Dant Salute" to a Dant franchised dealer. Look for the "MARIME" emblem of quality, rich bouquet and mellow taste on the carton and bottle.

LAUNCH MICHIGAN MATERNITY HOME DEATHS INQUIRY

Frechette Woman's Baby Died at Institution.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Attorney General Harry S. Toy, today announced the launching of a one man grand jury investigation tomorrow of the Brooks Maternity home near Beulah, Benzie county. The inquiry, Toy said, was based an charges that more than 25 deaths of infants have occurred at the home, with improper reports to state authorities.

Toy said his petition for an investigation has been granted by Judge Fred S. Laml of the Benzie county Circuit court. He said Dr. Edward L. Brooks, the proprietor, formerly operated a similar home on North Clark street in Chicago.

More Than 100 Patients.

More than 100 young women, expectant mothers, have been cared for at the home, Toy said. He said that among the "recent" residents of the home was Evelyn Frechette, sweetheart of the late John Dillinger, whose baby was among those to die at the institution. State police have definite records of this case, however, it was said, including information as to the cause of death. The Frechette woman is now serving a sentence in the federal prison at Milan, Mich., for her part in shielding Dillinger during his long flight from the law.

Toy said he had information that more than a score of infants' bodies are buried on the grounds of the home, although no area there has been formally designated as a cemetery.

Claims Owner Defied State.

He said Brooks has refused to allow department of public safety officers to inspect his "private cemetery" and has defied their efforts to inspect his "hospital."

Other irregularities in conduct of the institution by Brooks, as set up in the attorney general's petition, are:

Failure to make the required annual report to the state welfare department; refusal to permit inspection by welfare agents; failure to keep accurate records of births; acting in the capacity of undertaker without a license; burial of infants without burial certificates; reception of infants not born at the institution; failure to summon a coroner in cases of fatalities which should have been officially investigated, and responsibility for many deaths resulting from "improper care, unsanitary conditions, lack of medical supervision, and carelessness."

Brooks Tell Details.

Beulah, Mich., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Evelyn Frechette became a mother at a maternity home operated in Chicago, but the baby died, Dr. Edward L. Brooks Sr., operator of the establishment, said here today.

Brooks said, however, that "this was several years ago, and only after a government agent brought her to my establishment in Chicago and asked me to do it."

State health department records revealed that a child was born to Evelyn Frechette in Chicago in 1928, but it died here three months later and was buried in the Beulah cemetery. The name of the father was not given.

Charges of Attorney General Harry S. Toy drew a hot denial from Brooks.

FORMER JUDGE S. P. M'CONNELL DIES OUT WEST

Samuel P. McConnell, judge of the Cook county Circuit court from 1889 to 1894, died yesterday in Los Angeles where he made his home for many years, according to word received by relatives in Chicago. Judge McConnell was 86 years old.

He was born in Springfield, was educated at Lombard college and was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1872. For fifteen years he was president of the George A. Fuller company, building contractors, in New York. In recent years Judge McConnell contributed to several national magazines.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee of 39 East Schiller street and Mrs. Ralph P. Truitt, of Baltimore. A son, James, was killed while serving with the Lafayette Escadrille in France. Funeral services and burial will be in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Augusta Hafferman Dies; Born in Germany

Mrs. Augusta Hafferman, 64 years old, 9934 Malta street, for 47 years a resident of Washington Heights, died in her home of a heart ailment yesterday. She was born in Germany and came to Chicago when she was 17 years old. Her first husband, Fred Hagge, whom she married in 1889, died in 1901. Surviving are her second husband, Gustave Hafferman; two sons, and two daughters. Private funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon in the home. Burial will be in Mount Greenwood cemetery.

Lady Cohen Dies; Injured at Iraq Pipe Line Opening

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

JERUSALEM, Jan. 24 (Thursday).—The opening of the oil pipe line from Iraq to the sea ended in tragedy for one of its chief participants early today when Lady Cohen, the wife of Sir Robert Waley Cohen, British oil operator, died of injuries received in a motoring accident near Haifa on Jan. 16. At the time it was thought that Sir Rebert was the more seriously injured.

Florence Kinney, Former Sunday Assistant, Dies

Waterloo, Ia., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Miss Florence Kinney, 55, who for eighteen years toured as an assistant to Billy Sunday, noted evangelist, died following an operation at Allen Memorial hospital here tonight. LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Circumstantial Evidence

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady, has been reëngaged by her sponsors for another full year on W-G-N and NBC. Her NBC network is also to be expanded by seven stations on Feb. 18. The new stations will give her outlets in Washington, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; St. Louis, Kansas City, and several other central western cities. Ireene will round out her fourth year as the Singing Lady on April 6. Incidentally her sponsor has a new show opening on WENR-NBC this evening, "The College Prom," headlining Ruth Etting and Red Nichols' orchestra.

Sigmund Romberg has developed a new angle in the amateur show business. Every Saturday evening he is presenting a handpicked New York debutante as a guest entertainer. Lilla Fisk, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Frelinghuysen, gave such a good account in a drama built around the life of Johann Strauss recently that she has been reëngaged for an appearance next Saturday.

Don Carlos and his marimba orchestra are to launch a new five a week commercial series over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system in a fortnight. Lucia Garcia, Spanish tenor, will be the soloist.

Dr. Gustave Ronfort, the surgeon who doubles as a CBS pianist, has been taking his dip in Lake Michigan every morning this week despite the cold weather. . . . Joe Sanders, motoring from Los Angeles to Chicago to reënter radio, wired friends here that he got stuck in a Kansas snowdrift but expects to arrive today.

Eddie Cantor has decided to hold his dress rehersals before invited audiences in order to test the laugh contents of his gags. If the folks fail to applaud, new jests are to be substituted. But even if toothpaste dealers or their friends should fail to guffaw, radio listeners might like the gags. Or, what is more likely, the studio guests may split their sides laughing (because they're in on passes) at jests that later may leave the invisible audience cold.

Listeners who have difficulty finding music at 10 p. m. on local outlets may be interested in the Jack Randolph show which switches from an afternoon spot to 10 o'clock on WMAQ beginning tonight. The romantic singer will be supported by Mme. Louise.

The new baby daughter in the household of Vincent Pelletier, local free lance announcer, has been named Cheri for Cheri McKay, the southern songstress of NBC's Merry Macs. . . . Henri Gendron's orchestra will take Don Pedro's NBC spots from the Oriental Gardens beginnig tomorrow. . . . And blonde Kay Tolan, who has been singing with Pedro, has joined Maurie Sherman at the College inn with WENR as outlet.

Mrs. Celia Burton Dies in St. Charles; 89 Years Old

Funeral services for Mrs. Celia Burton, 89 years old, lifelong resident of the Fox River valley who died Tuesday, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of a daughter, Mrs. G. L. Crabtree, 615 South Third street, St. Charles. Mrs. Burton was born near Geneva and lived most of her life in Geneva and St. Charles. She would have celebrated her 90th birthday next Tuesday. She was the widow of the late Horace M. Burton, Geneva engineer. In recent years Mrs. Burton had lived with the daughter at whose home she died. Another daughter, Mrs. E. F. Henry of Crystal Lake, also survives.

United Air Lines Elect Crary a Vice President

Harold Crary, publicity director and trafic manager for United Air Lines, Inc., has been elected a vice president of the company, according to an announcement yesterday by W. A. Patterson, president. Mr. Crary is a Chicagoan, residing at 4215 North Paulina street, and he has engaged in commercial air transportation for ten years. In his new post Mr. Crary will continue to direct the company's advertising, public relations, and trafic.

JOHN BLACKHALL DEAD; MANAGER OF N. SHORE LINE

John Robert Blackhall, 65 years old, 961 Bluff road, Glencoe, electrical engineer, died in the Highland Park hospital yesterday after a long illness.

JOHN R. BLACKHALL.

He was manager for the receivers of the North Shore line. He had devoted most of his life to the electrical railroad industry, starting as a lineman for the Woodbridge & Turner Engineering company in New York. In 1896 he became electrical engineer for the Portland [Me.] Railroad company. Mr. Blackhall later became general manager of the Chicago and Joliet Electric Railway company and in 1925 was elected vice president. He joined the North Shore line in 1927 as general manager.

Mr. Blackhall was credited with the invention of a "noiseless" truck for street cars and a lightweight aluminum body for street cars. He was an active member of electric railway organizations.

He is survived by his widow, the former Eva Grove of Miamisburg, O.

STRAUS ESTATE OF MILLION IS DIVIDED IN WILL

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The late Max Straus, wealthy retired furniture dealer of Chicago, who died her Jan. 10 at the age of 73, left a trust fund of $200,000 and other bequests to Miss Ann Dorothy Murphy of Beverly Hills, whom he described as a devoted friend.

The will, filed today in Probate court, disposed of an estate consisting of $300,000 in real property and $700,000 in stocks, bonds, promissory notes and other personal property.

The will set up trust funds of $100,000 each for two sisters, Mrs. Rose Frank of Chicago and Mrs. Rebecca Bechhofer, Baltimore, and one of $50,000 for another sister, Mrs. Philipina Fellheimer, Chicago.

Other relatives, whose addresses were not given, were left outright bequests of $5,000 to $50,000 each, and Maurice Joseph Murphy was given $20,000 outright and $20,000 in trust.

The trustees, who included his brother, Aaron Straus, and Herbert Arnstein of St. Louis, were instructed to use the rest of the estate for charitable purposes, with the suggestion that 30 per cent be used each in Los Angeles, Baltimore and Chicago, and the other 10 in Denver, where Straus had lived.

MAN WHO SOLD BABY BOND IDEA TO U. S. IS DEAD

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The man who sold the U. S. government the idea of baby bonds, which helped to win the world war, died today. He was John Muir, senior partner in the New York stock exchange firm bearing his name, and a broker in Wall street for nearly fifty years. He was in his 88th year.

After the United States entered the war he was drafted into government service as chairman of the baby bond committee of the Liberty Loan organization of the second federal reserve district.

For many years Muir had sponsored the idea of baby bonds in the field of private financing. He also was a pioneer in the odd lot business on the stock exchange.

He engaged in railroading for a number of years before coming to Wall street. He was born in Scarboro, near Toronto, Canada.

Mrs. Catherine Newman Dies; Pneumonia Victim

Mrs. Catherine Newman, 76 years old, widow of Augustus Newman, an official of the Chicago and Alton railroad, died yesterday of pneumonia at the Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore drive. Mrs. Newman took up her residence there after returning from her Michigan summer home. The family residence is at 71 Bellevue place. Mrs. Newman was born near Hamilton, Ont., and moved here when she was 19 years old. Four children survive. Funeral services will be held at the family residence tomorrow afternoon, with interment at Graceland cemetery.

Pioneers in protecting the public against high funeral costs, Lain & Son have always set the standard of service.

Today, Lain holds more services in a month than the average undertaker has in a year. No other Chapel in Chicago holds as many services as Lain's.

Because of this leadership, Lain includes these exclusive features with all services, even those as low as $110:

Conditioned Air

Protects the health of all who attend Lain Chapel services—provides an abundance of air washed and purified and circulated at correct temperature.

Imperial Quartet

Lain was the first Chapel to include with all services—the Imperial Male Quartet, Organist and Organ.

Price Protection

Lain was the first to answer the price question by publishing the cost of 1,000 funerals; showing that more than one-third of Lain services actually cost less than $200. Also, to price-mark all merchandise.

Highest Quality

Lain's prices are lower because of volume. All merchandise is bought on a cash basis from reliable manufacturers only; we never offer "bargains" or "seconds" in merchandise.

Lain's personnel has few changes over the years, and with the most modern of facilities—render a service that cannot be equalled.

To secure this finer type of service, call Lain—no matter where you live in Chicago or Suburbs.

Hold Preview of Clothes for Spring Exhibit

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

For a score of blonde and brunet mannequins, June in January was real yesterday. They wriggled out of fur coats and galoshes in a dozen fitting rooms of Chicago designers, to wriggle into wispy chiffon and frothy lace confections which they will model Monday and Tuesday at the Congress hotel during the Chicago Textile Exhibit and spring fashion review of the Chicago Wholesale Market council. Official inspection of designs for the show was made.

When the glorified girls who parade these original creations of both the free lance and the wholesale designers join in the squeals of delight about them, success is sure. So the critical executives took confidence and encouragement from the chorus that greeted each appearance of the varied types of costumes.

Fabrics—always of primary importance—are richer, more sophisticated than ever. Color combinations have broken away from traditional groupings and have achieved further glamor by such new alliances as magenta with blush pink or burgundy with navy blue.

One of the most effective costumes to be shown in this event features the latter color merger, in a daringly cut dance dress by Paul du Pont. The material is gingham voile, with inch square checks outlined in gold thread. Tiny shoulder straps end at the waistline of the almost completely décolleté back, from which a loose panel falls to form a train.

The pale pink and magenta theme was employed in another formal gown, by Ernest Newman, featuring extravagantly wide sleeves and godets of the deep red velvet set into the skirt at the back.

Bathing suits, millinery and accessories of Chicago inspiration also will be shown in the review to demonstrate the resources of the woman's apparel market for the buyers expected from all parts of the country.

Woolen Plaids Will Fashion Spring Coats

Bright Colors Will Appear in Big Patterns.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Plaid wool coats will be the smartest fashion of the coming season. Wander into any fabrics by the yard department and you'll find huge bolts of the colorful stuff piled high.

And there's nothing demure or quiet about these plaids either. Bright eye blinding color goes with noisy color contrast and very large designs. White and ivory used as a background for bright blue, scarlet and bright green cross plaids are the most exciting of the newest designs. Bright yellow in large squares is ably color crossed with green and black.

Very large plaids, copies of famous gingham plaids, come in these fascinating new woolen plaid materials. While they are rather spectacular in the bolts, you'll be surprised how well they calm down when made into long tailored coats to be worn over thin wool suits or dresses of contrasting or harmonizing tones.

For instance, the gay and cheerful yellow and green plaid get-together over a pale yellow or vivid green dress, or better yet, this same plaid over a tailored black wool or heavy crêpe frock. Red and black and white plaids are perfect over dull red or gray dresses. Later on you'll wear these same brilliant coats over tub cottons as well as thin silks and suits of linen.

These new plaid woolens fashion the smartest of new reefer coats, those very youthful models made with semi-fitted streamlines, patch pockets and smart collars and revers. Or you can use such plaids for the swanky norfolk jackets, short, snappy and made with inverted back pleats and fitted waistline.

The newest of swagger models are best in plaids, those knockout new dashing swagger coats that reach a becoming length just above the knees.

Buy your bright eye-blinding plaid materials now and have them made into any of the new coat models to be ready for use the first week of mild weather!

Dr. Laufer's Oriental Library Is Acquired by Field Museum

The valuable Oriental library of 5,000 volumes of the late Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of the department of anthropology at the Field Museum of Natural History, has been given to the museum under an arrangement made with Dr. Laufer before his death last September, it was announced yesterday by Stephen C. Simms, director.

The books, which were Dr. Laufer's personal library used in his researches on oriental history, literature, and art, are in the Chinese, Tibetan, Mongolian, and various European languages, including English. Added to the Orientalia already owned by the museum, the collection has become one of the most important in the country.

The American Friends of China, Chicago, has given $500 to the museum to catalog and arrange the books.

Leonard Shure Leaves Ranks of Prodigies; Now Mature Artist

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Leonard Shure, who used to classify among the startling youthful talents among pianists and who has been away for some five years since that time, returned to Orchestra hall last night to reveal what has been accomplished during the interval.

There has been a good deal. He retains the eagerness of youth, but he has studied, played, and thought, with the not unexpected result that he has been attaining maturity in performance.

It was by no means a customary program by which he reintroduced himself to Chicago, even though no item on it was far off the beaten path. Numerically there were just three numbers, Schumann's Fantasie in C, Mozart's Sonata in D, and the twenty-four Chopin preludes, and nothing else. These three, however, are of such contrasting nature that they gave him an excellent interpretive test, and he came through it with flying colors.

He has the kind of technical development that makes him a first class Mozart player, and the kind of an imaginative mind that gives him standing in the projection of Schumann and Chopin. The fine tone and accurate rapidity that turned the laces and arabesques of the one was translated into something warm, appealing, and personal in the music of the other two. He is the sort of player who, one imagines, would be more than ordinarily interesting in not a single example but a whole series of recitals.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"The Secret Bride" is political melodrama with Barbara Stanwyck playing a secondary rôle. She is, of course, the bride. But your interest centers in the men of the cast.

Arthur Byron, the vanished president of "The President Vanishes," is, this trip, a suspected governor. Suspected of taking bribes from a man he has pardoned. Warren William, as attorney general, is husband of the secret bride, and their marriage is kept under cover for reasons the picture shall show you.

Things come to a pretty mess! Gun play and police are prominent factors in the working out of the plot, and Grant Mitchell runs about like a rabbit with hounds after it—a simile that is, really, not far fetched at all.

Acting on the part of all is sincere and effective, and, though you may guess the correct solution early in the game, I'm right sure you'll experience a number of surprises.

The production has been neatly directed and considerable suspense is maintained.

See you soon!

Chinese Chairs Are Built for Cold Weather

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

As the result of her illustrated lecture yesterday before the American Friends of China in the drawing room of Mrs. Silas H. Strawn's apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive, Miss Carol Bush might have found any number of enthusiasts for Chinese chairs.

Speaking on Chinese furniture in Peking, Miss Bush described the chairs as especially high and designed with rungs to protect the feet from cold floors. Hustling in out of a cold wave, the members of her audience were ready to try anything to protect themselves from the discomforts of slippery temperatures.

Gowned in a flowered print reminiscent of the spring that doesn't seem to be "just around the corner," Miss Bush was introduced by Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson as the daughter of Mrs. William H. Bush, the founder of the American Friends of China, a former student at both Vassar and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and an experienced traveler both on the European continent and in the orient.

In explanation of her pictures, Miss Bush said that her study of architecture had prompted her interest in furniture. The delicacy of line and proportion of Chinese furniture seems to her applicable to the modern architecture in vogue in this country.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who with Mr. Carpenter leaves in February for China, showed especial interest in the various types of chairs Miss Bush showed in the house of Col. Isaac Newell in Peking. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter will occupy the Newell house during a part of their stay in China. The arrangement of this house, also the temple home of Mrs. William J. Calhoun, as illustrated by Miss Bush, are indicative of the Chinese preference for arranging furniture in straight lines, also a preference for using furniture in pairs.

Henry Monroe, nephew of Mrs. Calhoun and a member of the audience yesterday, had loaned Miss Bush a number of colored slides from his aunt's house to amplify her collection. It was a desk in the Calhoun house that inspired Miss Bush's original collection. Just as a Chinese lady always takes her dressing table with her when traveling, a Chinese gentleman takes his desk, she pointed out.

Mrs. Strawn's apartment was a perfect setting for a meeting of the American Friends of China, for the light walls are decorated with Chinese iron etchings.

French Envoy to Visit City on February 18

France-America Society Will Give Banquet.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AFTER six months of unceasing effort to bring Andre Lefevre de Laboulaye, ambassador of France in Washington, D. C., to Chicago, the France-America society announces this morning that he will be here on Monday, Feb. 18. He will be entertained that evening by the society at one of the most elegant and formal banquets of the winter season in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house.

Orville J. Taylor, president, Robert Hall McCormick, vice president, and Edward H. Bennett, secretary-treasurer of the France-America society, compose the committee in charge of the dinner and they are sparing no time nor effort to make it an outstanding event of international character.

Coming especially for the dinner, the ambassador and Mme. de Laboulaye will be in town only on the 18th. M. de Laboulaye has expressed a desire to visit the Union stockyards so he will be whisked out there as soon as he leaves his train the morning of the 18th to have luncheon at the new Saddle and Sirloin club. Philip L. Reed will be his host at the stockyards visit and luncheon. While the ambassador is studying one of Chicago's chief enterprises, the wives of society members will entertain Mme. de Laboulaye.

Visitor to City During Fair.

M. de Laboulaye visited Chicago during the first year of A Century of Progress to recognize officially the exhibit at the Art institute where ten of the thirty-five galleries were devoted exclusively to French art. He is a good friend of President Roosevelt. He was the first secretary of the legation in Washington when the President was assistant secretary of the navy under President Wilson. During the ambassador's visit in 1933 he decorated Chauncey McCormick with the Legion of Honor. He similarly decorated Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, and Arthur Allais, but it is supposed that he will present no decorations on this trip.

The France-America society was established in 1911, and the Chicago branch was brought into being, chiefly through the efforts of Hayden B. Harris, its first president, in 1931.

Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly have been invited to give speeches welcoming M. de Laboulaye to the state and the city at the banquet. Mr. Taylor will be toastmaster and the ambassador will make an address. Among the members of the France-America society are Sewell Avery, William Burry, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Rufus C. Dawes, Charles S. Dewey, Calvin Fentress, Col. Robert G. Peck, Harold F. McCormick, Frank McNair, Silas H. Strawn, and James Ward Thorne.

Fleury Leonard Will Wed Byron Elting.

At 4:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, in the presence of only immediate relatives, Clifford M. Leonard of New York City and Camden, S. C., will give his eldest daughter, Fleury, in marriage to Byron Elting, son of Mrs. Philip Le Fevre Elting. The service will be read by candle light in the drawing room of the apartment of Miss Leon-

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

The ravages of cold weather on hand skin demand that they be given careful nursing. Using cream or lotion after each scrubbing during the day and devoting five or ten minutes to a generous creaming at night is the best routine to follow.

The dratted cold certainly makes us women sing a song of split hand skin. The rough, red epidermis that is besetting the fingers of some of our best tended hands is adding considerably to the white woman's beauty burden.

Here are some tips that may help: Warm, loose gloves. Getting the hands chilled doesn't help their looks any. We think women's fashions went sensible for a change this season when they approved of woolen gloves. Have you got yours? We found that wearing them instead of kid this winter was a comfort and a great help in keeping our paws presentable.

And when you wash your hands it's sage wisdom to take time out to dry them thoroughly, no matter how rushed you are. Rub them over and over with a dry towel. You've no idea how this little carefulness eases up the winter hand worry.

Then, during the day, after each hand washing use a good cream or lotion that will counteract the ill effects of soap and water immediately. Some of the quickly drying creams are not too effective, we're sorry to report. It's better in the end to fuss a few minutes, massaging the emollient in well beyond the point of stickiness.

Our office mates who've been dipping into our private stock of a lavender lotion report that it is excellent. We think so, too. It doesn't dry in two seconds, but if you use only a little bit and rub that in well there won't be any trace of it in one or two minutes. It's a good product, made by a conscientious manufacturer, and it's delightfully inexpensive.

But it's at night that you must work on your hands in earnest. Using an efficient softener and whitener during the day should be considered just routine; before you tumble into bed you should get down to serious treatments. And if you do it with a rich cream, devoting at least five or ten minutes to the whole operation, you won't have hands that shriek age or neglect.

Public Schools to Graduate Record Class for Midterm

Commencement exercises on Jan. 30 will mark the largest midterm graduation in the history of Chicago public schools, when 24,639 pupils receive their certificates and diplomas. The new school term will begin Feb. 4. The elementary schools will graduate 16,500, whereas 16,268 received diplomas in 1934, and 10,171 and 10,700, respectively, graduated in 1933 and 1932. However, part of the increase in the elementary schools is due to the closing of junior high schools.

FOR BLACKHEADS • OILY SKINS

OVER-OILINESS, LARGE PORES . . . new oatmeal facial absorbs excess oiliness—refines skin texture.

• BLACKHEADS disappeared. Skin looked clear and clean.

Shows woman giving herself Lavena facial. Thousands of cases helped by 2-minute oatmeal facial.

No grease in this oatmeal facial!

That's why it clears up blackheads, combats acne and over-oiliness.

AT last a facial that does what no other facial has ever done before . . . deep-cleans, stimulates, absorbs excess oiliness. Leaves skin soft, clear and velvet-smooth.

If you don't believe Lavena is a miracle facial, then make this simple test. First cleanse your face with soap. Then cleanse it again with cold cream. Then moisten the palms of your hands, blend Lavena to a creamy lotion. Put it on. Wash it off. If your skin doesn't feel softer, more glowing, if it doesn't look cleaner, clearer, than soap or cold cream left it, we'll gladly give your money back.

We guarantee to refund the price of Lavena if it does not perform exactly as we say.

RED STEFAN

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH.

SYNOPSIS.

Stephen Enderby, an Englishman, had lived as a boy on the Russian estate of his stepfather and grew up with the large brood of children of a peasant family. When his mother died he went to live with his guardian in England. After the revolution in Russia, as Stefan Ivanovitch, he became a "secret observer" for England, adopting various peasant rôles to hide his identity. Now Stephen has inherited the fortune of his guardian and wants to quit his hazardous work. He is escaping out of Tronsk when he meets and rescues Elizabeth Radin, the widow of an executed engineer. Though English, her husband was half Russian. She is flying from the advances of Commissar Petroff, who is also after a secret formula of her husband's. Stephen takes her with him and tells her his history. Though he has fallen in love with her he refrains from letting her know. They are overtaken by Petroff and Irina, a beautiful communist, who wanted Stephen herself and resents Elizabeth. Stephen plans to outwit them by denouncing Elizabeth, claiming he never suspected her identity until she began to talk in her sleep. Petroff believes his story, as does Irina. Elizabeth thinks Stephen has turned against her. But he is waiting his chance, which comes, to knock Petroff out. Then Stephen disguises himself and Elizabeth and they slip away, traveling by train to another village where Stephen keeps a horse and sledge in which they continue toward the Polish border. Stephen is known in this vicinity as Nikolai. They stop overnight at a house in a village where the schoolmaster tells them of a broadcast he has heard about two people wanted by the police as enemies of the state. He is suspicious of Stephen and Elizabeth and they are forced to make a hurried getaway.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

ESCAPE.

Stephen was ready. He tucked Elizabeth in and led the horse out of the yard. He jumped in the sledge beside her and took the reins, and they were off—down the long village street, past the dark houses, past one house which was not dark, and out on the open snowy road. There was no tinkling of bells to proclaim their flight. They drove with muffled harness. The snow deadened the sound of the horse's feet. Only when they were clear Stephen broke into a laugh.

"Schoolmasters talk too much," he said. "Did you see the house with the lighted windows? I think Glinka and his friends were there, talking about how they were going to arrest us. Peter's a good lad. We'd have been caught if he hadn't come to warn us. I hope he won't get into trouble."

"Do you think he will?"

"No—he's rather a protégé of Glinka's. He'll be in bed and asleep, and not know anything until he's told. Stasia will do the same, and Ilya really won't know anything, which is much the safest plan."

"Will they come after us?" said Elizabeth.

Stephen laughed a little grimly.

"I don't think so. People hereabouts don't care for traveling at night."

"I wonder why," said Elizabeth vaguely. And then, "Will they come after us in the morning?"

Stephen cracked his whip.

"It won't matter if they do."

"Why?"

"The morning's a long way off, and we shall be a long way off by the morning."

Elizabeth looked to the east. The morning was far away. It was not the sun that was rising now, but the moon. Already the sky above the clouds was transparent and faintly golden. Presently the rim of the moon showed clear. It came up full like a bubble of fire, in color at first an orange red, which changed imperceptibly through orange to gold. It seemed as if the gold were draining away from it into the sky. In a little while it was all quite gone and the moon was white among the stars.

It was at this time that they entered the forest. The trees were very tall. The trunks ran up on either side to a black roof of pine branches. Here and there the moonlight barred their path, here and there it lay like a silver pool in a clearing, once and again it flooded a stretch of the forest road, but for the most part they drove in a shadowy gloom which made everything seem unreal.

Unreal. The word crept into Elizabeth's mind and stayed there. An unreal world, frozen into a semblance of reality. At any moment it might flow away from them, dissolving as ice and mist dissolve. They were past midnight, or it might have vanished at the stroke of twelve. No, midnight was the hour that ushered enchantment in. It was cock-crow which would break the spell. Meanwhile it stayed about them a glamor of frost and night.

When the gold had drained out of the moon the last trace of living color died. Only black and white were left. Black, and white, and all the mysterious gradations through which light lapses into darkness.

Elizabeth began to try and find names for these strange, half luminous shades. Black, and white, and silver. Ink, and snow, and ebony. Gray velvet, and black velvet, and white velvet. Diamond, and pearl. Jet, and crystal. Bone-white, scraped bone—and moon bleached bone. Tears, and ivory, and the black of black, deep water.

"What are you thinking about, Elizabeth?" said Stephen without turning his head.

"I was thinking about all the black and white things in the world," said Elizabeth. "But there aren't enough of them. This is all black and white—a hundred kinds of black, and a hundred kinds of white. I can't get names for them."

"Are you cold?"

"Cold is one of the white things," she said with a little shuddering laugh.

"Why did you shiver?" said Stephen. "Are you afraid?"

"Fear is one of the black things," said Elizabeth. "No, I'm not afraid, Stephen."

That wasn't the way one talked in real life. It was like an answer in a dream.

They went on driving between the black walls of the forest. Its dark rafters stirred above them in a wind which was so high overhead that it never touched the sledge. It moved those high, solemn branches. Sometimes a ghostly snowfall cascaded down, sending out a spray which flew up against their faces like the tangible breath of the frost. The roar of such a fall and the movement overhead were the only sound which came to them from beyond. There was Grischa, the horse, and their two selves, three living beings, moving, alive and sentient through this strange world in which there was no other life, no sound or movement of any other living thing.

Elizabeth did not know how long they had been driving when the first sound came to them. She turned her head and listened until it came again, a thin, high sound, more like the echo of a sound than a sound itself.

Stephen looked over his shoulder and said:

"An owl."

Ahead of them the trees were thinning away. They came out upon a clearing dimly bright with the moon. The snow crisped and glittered under foot. The forest walled the clearing in, and the owls hunted there. They were half across it when Elizabeth turned her head sharply because another sound had reached her—not a sound of the upper air like the owl's cry, but a faint, far off whine or howl. She held her breath a little to listen, and caught the sound again. It was like a dog baying the moon, but a long, long, long way off. And then all at once it was nearer, and nearer again. And it wasn't a dog, but a wolf.

No, it wasn't a wolf. It was Stephen playing a trick on her, trying to frighten her as he had tried to frighten Yuri on the day they drove away from Tronsk in the early morning. How could he be so stupid as to think that the same trick would serve him twice? Perhaps he had imitated the owl's cry, too. No, he hadn't done that, because she had seen the spread of the great soft wings, white and silent as snow in the moonlight—seen them dip and glance, and rise again, and pass shadowlike into the shadows.

A long howling note came from the forest they had left. All at once Elizabeth was angry. She called out:

"Don't do it! Why do you do it? I hate it!"

Stephen nodded without turning round.

"Stupid of me—wasn't it? I'm sorry, Elizabeth."

"You've frightened the horse," she said in an indignant voice.

"He'll get us there all the quicker," said Stephen with half a laugh.

Grischa had reared and started. Stephen made no attempt to hold him in. He called to him by name, spoke to him in Russian terms of endearment, and let him make his own pace.

As they reached the farther side of the clearing, Elizabeth saw the owl again. It swooped, light as thistledown and soundless as air, swooped and rose. It must have missed its aim. Its floating cry had a harsher voice. Suddenly it was gone. She turned and looked back across the empty clearing. The moon was bright upon the snow. The forest road in front of them was dark and deeply shadowed. She looked back into the light.

And very far away, at the far edge of the clearing where the trees ended and the shining snow began, she saw a black moving speck.

Place $2,500 Bet on Success of 'Copperfield'

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 24.—[Special.]—This wager is going to require several months to decide, but when it is decided somebody will get a small fortune.

The bet is between Myron Selznick, actors' agent, and Al Lichtman, in charge of exploitation for United Artists.

Selznick, whose brother is Producer David Selznick of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, is betting Lichtman and a few of the latter's pals $2,500 that the M-G-M film "David Copperfield" will be a more profitable hit than "Clive of India." "Clive of India" is the Ronald Colman-Loretta Young historical adventure romance just completed by Twentieth Century [Darryl Zanuck and Joe Schenck] which is released through United Artists.

Each picture represents a strong Hollywood bid for the favor of the pounds and shillings of the British Isles and dominions.

Neutral observers in Hollywood are convinced that still a third film made with eyes on British audiences will outdraw both "David Copperfield" and "Clive of India," good as these two undeniably are. This third picture, just being released by Paramount, is "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," one of the outstanding adventure pictures in years.

A sleeping extra [male] had a scary awakening and a narrow escape from serious injury when Claudette Colbert and Big Boy Williams, doing a scene in "Private Worlds" at General Service studio, bumped one of the big arc lights and knocked it over. The light struck the extra a glancing blow. He was treated by surgeons.

Doris Advises Girl to Shun Worthless Chap

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Shades of Camille, your spirit still roams the earth in Hetty's tale of today.

Hetty was courted on the quiet by the certain young man. He did not want his dad to know of his heart affiliation. But Hetty was told repeatedly by her suitor that it was she or nobody for him, that the day would soon come when he could defy dad, his and Hetty's new landlord, the butcher, the baker, everybody.

But dad had an ear to the ground. He probably recognized his son's symptoms as a memorable part of his own romantic youth. Like Camille's prospective dad-in-law, he ferreted the lady out. He asked her to dine at his home. He introduced her as his son's future wife.

He flattered Hetty. Then, he proposed because he was an old man [around 50, Hetty reports] and also because he was on the program as the future daddy-in-law, kisses were now in order for him. Hetty responded too gratuitously, it appears, for son was informed that the girl was not the girl for him. She was loose. She was free with her favors. The son believes it. His dad told him and that clinches the argument. His dad wouldn't lie.

Well, that's one way of protecting your male young. A despicable way, if the girl is all right.

Hetty pleads innocence. She kissed the old man, as she calls him, because he seemed so fatherly and kind. She's heartbroken now because of the boy.

Well, with the enemy so heavily armed against her, our advice to Hetty would be to wash up the whole crowd of them with an indignant silence. Let the boy go back home to his daddy and stay there. There are better boys and better dads-in-law extant. You don't have to nurse an aching heart for more than a week, at most, Het, and even that is seven days too much to give over to a cad and his offspring.

France-America Society Will Give Banquet.

ard's mother, Mrs. David R. Forgan, at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Miss Hope Leonard, a debutante of the last season, will be her sister's only attendant. There will be a reception for those who have witnessed the service, and then Mr. Elting and his striking blonde bride will hurry off on a week's honeymoon, the destination of which is unannounced. Upon their return they will make their home in a small apartment on the near north side.

Mr. Leonard arrived from the east yesterday afternoon for a dinner last night at the Forgan home, at which the engagement of Miss Leonard and Mr. Elting was to have been formally announced. News of the betrothal, however, was broken yesterday.

Beauty and personality combine to make Miss Leonard one of the most popular young women in society. A year ago last Dec. 30 she was presented to society at an elaborate ball at the Blackstone.

St. Luke's Board Re-elects Mrs. Gary.

Mrs. John W. Gary was reëlected president of the women's board of St. Luke's hospital at the annual meeting at the hospital yesterday. Most of the officers were reëlected except the third vice president and the corresponding secretary, whose places were filled by Mrs. Edward J. Ryerson Jr. and Miss Harriet Borland, respectively. Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, first vice president; Mrs. A. Watson Armour, second vice president; Mrs. Harold C. Smith, treasurer, and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, corresponding secretary, all were reëlected.

Because she wants to spend the major part of today resting, Mary Garden has declined the kindnesses of friends who want to meet her at 9 o'clock this morning when she arrives from New York. She will hurry off to the Drake where she has taken a suite and stay quietly until late afternoon when she will go to the Arts club for the tea the president and directors are giving for her.

Also in keeping with her desire to be as quiet as possible [she has been ill in New York], she has declined invitations for this evening and tomorrow. After her Debussy concert tomorrow night at the Casino, however, she will be receiving the enthusiastic good wishes of all of her friends who will fill the fashionable little club to hear her sing.

Gorhams Leave Tonight for Florida.

Sidney S. Gorham Jr. will be an absent host tomorrow evening at the buffet dinner the North Side Boys' club is to have at the Racquet club. Mr. Gorham has made all of the arrangements, but he is leaving tonight with Mrs. Gorham and his mother and father, the senior Sidney S. Gorhams, for a Florida holiday.

The Gorhams are going to the Boca Raton club at Boca Raton, Fla., 25 miles south of Palm Beach, where they wintered a year or two ago. In another week or so the Gorhams' younger son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Willett N. Gorham, expect to join them. The senior Gorhams expect to remain south for most of the rest of the winter.

Denis Sullivan to Stay in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr. [Betty Offield] are having such a wonderful time in Miami where they spent their first wedding anniversary last Thursday that they will remain in the south for another two weeks.

Mrs. George F. Getz Jr., will go south Sunday to join her husband on his father's houseboat. She and young Mr. Getz will fish to their heart's content for three weeks.

Mrs. Sullivan's parents, the James R. Offields, are going to Phoenix where they will visit her mother, Mrs. William Wrigley, for a few weeks. Next month Mr. and Mrs. Offield and Mrs. Wrigley will go to Mexico on a tour of exploration. It is possible that young Wrigley Offield will join his parents and grandmother in Mexico for his Easter vacation from prep school.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field and Mr. Field's brother, Norman Field of England, who has been visiting them, have left for the Field estate at Sarasota, Fla. It is uncertain just how much longer Normal Field will remain in this country, but it will be warm weather here before his sister-in-law and brother return to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, the Fields' daughter and son-in-law, will go south later to spend several weeks at Sarasota.

Junior League Changes Theaters.

Because Dennis King has written a new third act for his play current at the Harris theater and is rehersing every morning, the Junior leaguers have moved to Cohan's Grand Opera house. There on Saturday morning they will give their first performance of "Snow White." Mrs. Robert White adds that tickets issued for the Harris will be honored at the opera house.

The Rev. Duncan Browne, the Rev. Herbert Prince and Rev. and Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard will be present at noon today in the Palmer House to hear Father Frederick H. Sill of the Kent school speak on life at the school.

Father Sill, headmaster of the school which is located in Kent, Conn., is a member of the Episcopal Order of the Holy Cross. He is noted for the creation and successful conduct of the unusual self-help and self-government for which Kent is noted. In addition to being a scholar, he is also a sportsman, and coach of the first and second crews.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Shown today is a charming dress that may be made with a deep V neck, the closing ending in a surplice. If you prefer, the dress may be made with a cape collar. This ripples beautifully and is certain to be becoming. The original model was made of a rough crêpe printed in black and white. A dress of this kind will freshen your winter wardrobe and prove a perfect frock for spring.

The pattern, No. 2654, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measure.

The Stage

Shaindel Kalish, the young Chicago actress whose performance in "Girls in Uniform," was highly praised last spring, will have the leading rôle in "Sixteen," a comedy which Charles K. Freeman will produce in the Blackstone theater, beginning Feb. 17. The play is of English authorship, and has had a long run in London.

Others in the cast will be Regina Wallace, last seen here in "Counsellor-at-Law"; Noel Tearle, who has played leading rôles with Ethel Barrymore; Constance Pelissier, an English character actress of prominence; Wallace Widdecombe and Judith Lowry.

"Merrily We Roll Along," an outstanding hit of the dramatic season in New York, will begin a month's engagement at the Grand Opera house on March 18. George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart are the authors. The play will end its Broadway run of four months on Feb. 9, and then will start on tour with the original company.

"Judgment Day," a drama by Elmer Rice telling a story that parallels incidents of the Berlin Reichstag fire and subsequent trial of arson suspects, will be staged by the Little Theater company at the Jewish People's institute next month. Performances will be given on Feb. 14, 16, and every night during the following two weeks except Fridays. C. C.

Church Federation to Hold Annual Meeting Monday

The annual meeting of the Chicago Church federation, the coöperative agency of 19 Protestant denominations and 850 churches, will be held next Monday morning in the ballroom of the Hotel La Salle. Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, former national moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, who is now secretary of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church will be the principal speaker.

A NURSE TAUGHT HER HOW

One has confidence in nurses, and more than one woman has originally been introduced to Midol through a nurse's recommendation. "It is such a real comfort, I have no more dread of periodic pain—and I used to have a bad time," is what one woman says of Midol tablets. They always bring relief from regular pain, make it easier to "be yourself."

Why not have this comfort from Midol? It acts fast, is effective for several hours, but it's not a narcotic. It is a special medicine, for this special purpose, and specialists can tell you how well it works! You'll see it on the druggist's counter, or just ask the clerk for Midol.

Quilt Shares in Current Favor of Daffodil Blossom

Daffodils.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Daffodils are appearing not only on our best and most smartly appointed tables, but in our loveliest patchwork quilts, as well. The soft yellow and light and dark green colors, appliqued on a white ground, create a gay and cheerful atmosphere for any room on even the darkest of days. The completed quilt requires twenty-eight applique and twenty-eight plain blocks.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

BY MARY MEADE.

There's a standing argument out our way as to whether we eat golden bodied, green tufted carrots because or in spite of the fact that they're good for us. Personally I'm betting on No. 2 as the reason, for there's a streak of cussedness in most mortals which gets up its Irish when that healthy chorus of "so good for you" breaks out. We want to munch our carrots because we like 'em, not because they'll curl our hair or turn us into hard swatting ball players.

So let's slant a tolerant eye at the quantities of vitamins and minerals glowing healthily from carrots and trot them out to the folks because they're grand things in color, flavor, and crunchiness—and because there's just no limit to the number of smart new dresses they can find to wear at the table.

What—you've never heard of mixing grated crisp raw carrot with French dressing or mayonnaise for a vegetable or fish salad? Tut! Wangle the thought into a meal soon before it gets lost. And soup making girls have likewise discovered that raw carrot, grated over the top of cream soup, makes a gay color and texture contrast.

Even the most sophisticated cocktail parties are airing raw carrots these days. They come in long, cool strips sprinkled with salt and laid cordwood fashion on a plate ringed with nippy hot toasted cheese canapes.

Or cook up your carrots, dice them daintily, and add them to hot mashed potatoes. Sink a pat of butter in the top and pile it all into a piping serving dish. If it's to be oven cooked potatoes for today scoop out the fluffy insides of the uncapped baked potatoes, blend with a little hot milk, butter, and diced cooked carrots, and pile back into the potato shells. Brown in the oven and serve.

All sorts of surprising things can happen to carrots at supper or lunch. Scallop them with white sauce and a sprinkling of cheese—or serve up sliced cooked carrots topped with poached eggs. If they're medium or large ones leave the scrubbed skins on and bake them around a roast. Cooked and riced carrots with lots of salt, pepper, and butter turn up as most pleasant substitutes for potatoes.

Apples seem to have a suppressed desire to step out with carrots. Had you noticed it? This following casserole affair will thank you to serve it with rolypoly fried sausages or ground pork cakes:

Carrot and Apple Casserole.

2 cups sliced cooked carrots
1 cup raw sliced apples
1 teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter

Arrange the carrot and apple slices in alternate layers in a buttered casserole, sprinkling each layer with portions of the salt and sugar. Over the top scatter the grated lemon rind and the lemon juice. Dot with the butter and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) until the apples are tender—about thirty minutes.

One day what you humorously call your better half will call half an hour before dinner to suggest that the boss would like a good meal and could you——! Reply sweetly that you could—and hustle this topping-off course into the oven. No boss ever drew breath who won't capitulate at the sight of a perfect dessert:

Whole Wheat Carrot Pudding.

1 cup milk
4 slices whole wheat bread
1½ cups ground raw carrots
1 cup raisins
¼ cup sugar
1 egg, separated
¾ teaspoon salt
2 cups whole wheat cereal flakes
1 tablespoon butter

Break up the bread and soak in the milk. Add the carrots, raisins, sugar, beaten egg yolk, salt, and cereal flakes. Beat the egg white until stiff and fold it in. Melt the butter in a baking dish, pour in the pudding, and bake in a moderately hot oven (380 degrees F.) for 35 to 40 minutes. Serve with the following Golden Sauce:

Golden Sauce.

¼ cup flour
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups boiling water
3 tablespoons finely grated raw carrot
2 tablespoons orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup butter

Combine the flour, sugar, salt, and boiling water in the top of a double boiler, stirring over boiling water until thick and clear. Add the remaining ingredients and continue cooking gently until ready to serve.

This New "Rub" is Safe for Baby

(A WELCOME DISCOVERY)

A new and powerful "rub" that begins its work in ten seconds!

Its vapor is volatile, and spreads rapidly through the cold area, even down into the bronchial tubes.

Yet so perfectly harmless you may use it on the baby.

This new penetrant will often relieve head colds in a few moments. A chest cold overnight. Or ease an irritated throat like no spray or gargle you ever tried. Pine Balm gives you an entirely new weapon for fighting colds. It is not a mere surface rub that brings a temporary sensation of warmth. It is not another ointment whose vapors merely clear the head. This volatile rub reaches the air passages; penetrates to the spots where colds settle.

TO PARENTS:

Give your children the advantage of this new and more effective way of treating colds.

Pine Balm is a real discovery and is regarded a distinct step forward in the treatment of colds. Reports of its efficacy in many cases are most gratifying. It is getting amazing results for adults, with colds of various types. It is especially useful in treating the child whose stomach is easily affected by internal medicines. Because children are so frequently upset by dosing, none should be without this new and more effective cold relief.

Local druggists have been supplied. Get the name right, and get the right preparation: ask for Dr. Caldwell Pine Balm.

Pine Balm is a real discovery.

"Speeding Up" Child's Routine a Bad Practice

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Are you having trouble with your baby's or little boy's or girl's eating habits? Is his or her sleeping schedule, for night or nap, shot to pieces? Does his toileting seem to be a total failure. Do you feel, on the whole, a sense of inadequacy in the way you are handling his routines? Does it seem that you are getting no results?

Or, worse, does it seem as though you are getting bad results—such as crying, and resisting, and stubbornness for all your effort at training?

Naturally there are various reasons why you may be unsuccessful, but just now there are two that I know you would do well to consider.

The first is the matter of praise and blame, and pleasantness and unpleasantness. The baby's and the little child's happiness depend greatly upon you—your praise and pleasantness are something they love and try to win. If their sleep, their eating, and their toileting are associated with pleasantness, if their efforts are rewarded with praise, you are on the road to success. Blame and disapproval are disconcerting and discouraging to them, and are often the chief obstacle to success.

The other reason for your lack of results in training may be because these routines are for the baby associated with rush and hurry, and the impatience which follows in their train. The sense of ease and repose that comes with a leisurely, quiet handling of routines paves the way for success and for actual pleasure in the doing. And this applies to all the routines—to eating, to bathing, to getting ready for nap, and night sleep, to dressing, and to toileting. "Hurry!" is a devastating word to use to a young child.

Try out these two suggestions and see if they don't help a lot.

With New Daytime Skirts Shorter, Ankles Must Be Trim

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Skirt lengths: Ten to eleven inches off the floor for daytime wear. Evening frocks show a front shortening with a considerable glimpse of ankle.

This is the latest hemline news, which means a lot to us in this other branch of pictorial appeal, leg and ankle interviews, just to see what shape the nether limbs have been assuming behind the longer skirt. Ten and eleven inches from the ground is quite an uplift, providing quite a peep-show area for 'em as peeps at ankles, as who doesn't? And the signs all point to an appreciable further uptrend of the hemline.

So our business is to be ready with the slender leg and ankle when the moment arrives. The truth is that the moment is always with us for a good leg and ankle showing. Long skirt or not, when one sits the picture is marred or beautified by the ankle trend.

Incidentally, in the interests of sitting prettier and making the legs more pictorial, when you cross your knees, which you'll do even though Dame Grundy argues nice little girls do not do it, don't cross them below the knees. Cross them, instead, well above the knee. It makes a great deal of difference in the way the skirt drapes and allows for the down slant of the leg.

It also keeps your under knee from bulging the calf of the other leg forward and making it look thicker than it actually may be. The idea is to let both legs drop down easily in the same direction. Not, as so often happens, letting one leg fly out wide in an ungainly criss-cross. Better not cross the ankles. It makes them look thicker.

Thinning legs and ankles is no easy job. It takes much more time than thinning a waist or hipline. But here's an exercise I happen to know worked wonders on a thickish pair of legs and ankles: Take an erect position; raise the right leg extended to the front knee high, arms to the front. Rotate the right leg to the rear, moving the arms to the sides horizontally, palms up. Recover and repeat with the other leg. Do fifty times a day, twenty-five at a time.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

IS THIS A TRAGEDY OR A FARCE?

For today's hand we must again thank Mr. Robert Neville; I cut it out from his daily feature, "The Bridge Table," in the New York Herald-Tribune. I reproduce it with the letter which also appeared in the Tribune. I must express my admiration for "T. D. W.'s" good humor and sense of humor in converting this quite unnecessary catastrophe into a source of entertainment and instruction for the rest of us.

Counteracting "Largish" Scores.

Dear Mr. Neville—If unusual hands interest you, have a look at this one, which nearly gave me, sitting South, acute appendicitis two nights ago. The situation was aggravated because the hand came at the end of a hard fought rubber, both sides vulnerable, with my partner and I needing a slam to counteract some largish scores above the line. My partner bid in a rosy haze, staring hypnotized at her hand, and I with a sense of impending doom:

NORTH
♥ A-K-Q-5
♦ A

WEST
♠ Q-10-7-4
♥ 2
♣ Q-J-9

EAST
♠ J-9-6-3
♥ J-10-9-6-3
♦ Q

SOUTH
♠ 2
♥ 8-7-4
♦ 10-9-8-5-3-2
♣ 10-7-2

The bidding:

West—
Pass.	Pass.	Double.
Pass.	Pass.	Double.
North—
2 hearts.	4 no trump.	Pass.
3 spades.	6 no trump.	Pass.
East—
Pass.	Pass.	Pass.
Pass.	Pass.
South—
2 no trump.	5 diamonds.	7 diamonds.
4 diamonds.	Pass.	Pass.

If I had had so much as a queen, no-trump would have been all right. But whatever I bid my partner was determined on slam. What a tragedy!

Sincerely, T. D. W.

The Good Old Two-No-trump Strain-taker.

Here again Sims players would make an "abnormal" two-no-trump bid, despite their singleton ace in the North position. The hand has five definite losers. If your partner has a queen and a jack or their equivalent, you wish to play at three-no-trumps. If he has not even these feeble values, the hand is a bad game speculation. If he can bid any suit except diamonds, you will slam in his suit. The actual bidding would go: Two no-trumps, three diamonds [only because it is a six-card suit], three hearts, three no-trumps, pass. When North does not rebid to slam or prepare a slam development by bidding four diamonds to coax some constructive response, South knows that his diamond suit has not hit the spot at all and that North is signing off at the game level. He has made one further move—a plea for a raise in hearts in case South has four of them. Failing that, South has no justification for rebidding diamonds and thereby driving the bidding beyond three no trumps. Game in no trumps is made only because one suit is evenly split—clubs. Rather a lucky hand in three no trumps. Had South had one less diamond he would have had to pass. There would then be a far greater risk of the opposition running four diamond tricks after knocking out the ace. Give South J 10 x x x in diamonds and he will respond to two no trumps, and the risk in the diamond suit will no longer exist. Change North's queen of hearts to a smaller card, and one club would be a good opening bid to coax a one-over-one response. The hand will then need a purely natural response for game purposes.

THEATER STRIKE LOOMS IN LONDON ON CLOSED SHOP

Managers Declare Fight on Equity to Finish.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—A fight to the finish, carrying the possibility of a theater strike in London, was declared today in the sharp conflict over the closed shop.

Eleven managers, representing twenty theaters, announced their support of H. M. Tennent, manager of the famed Drury Lane theater, and Ivor Novello, whose new play, "Glamorous Nights" is going to be given there soon. On the other hand, the British Equity association, or actors' union, got support from the American Equity association in a telegram from Frank Gillmore, president of the American Equity.

Boycott of Drury Lane.

Gillmore said the American Equity will support its British colleagues to the limit, and has instructed American actors and actresses not to play in Drury Lane until the dispute is settled.

The theatrical managers' determination to have it out with the Equity was shown by a telegram to Tennent from Sir John Martin-Harvey, actor manager, which said:

"No surrender, I hope. I fought the actors' association when they allied themselves to the trade unions and beat them hollow. The country will be with you."

Equity Meets Today.

Eleven managers are ready to back Drury Lane in whatever action it intends to take, and a special meeting of the Equity chiefs has been called for tomorrow to consider the next step in the fight.

The struggle started when Novello refused to include a closed shop clause demanded by Equity in the contracts for his new play. The real difficulty is a technical one—whether the managers or Equity shall insist on the inclusion of the closed shop clause.

A strike now would mean a heavy loss to London theaters as attendance is at present increasing.

Grandchild of Hanna Gets Decree

MRS. CHARLOTTE HANNA HUME MERRITT.
[Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Charges Cruelty

Mrs. Charlotte Hanna Hume Merritt, 24 years old, 23 Bellevue place, granddaughter of Mark Hanna, was divorced on Tuesday from John W. Merritt of Washington, D. C., it was learned yesterday. Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort granted the decree.

Under questioning of Attorney John F. Cusack she testified she was married on Jan. 16, 1933, in Chevy Chase, Md., and was separated from her husband last Sept. 15. She charged he struck her last May 15 and on subsequent occasions. She waived allmony. Merritt was absent, but was represented by Attorney Robert Iniger.

Corroborative witnesses for Mrs. Merritt included Robert E. Cook, 446 Fullerton avenue, and Betty Baldwin, 229 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Merritt is the daughter of Mrs. Stuart Hanna and the late Daniel Rhodes Hanna. She eloped in 1927 with Richard Hume of Washington, but divorced him in 1932 on grounds of cruelty.

ISSUE NEW CREED OF SOCIAL ACTION FOR CHRISTIANS

Congregational Stand Stresses Individual.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A new social action creed was promulgated last night for 1,250,000 members of the Congregational Christian churches of the United States. It was presented to the national executive conference of the denomination by Prof. Arthur E. Holt, of the Chicago Theological seminary and chairman of the newly organized council of social action of his denomination. Sessions of the conference are being held in the First Congregational church, Evanston.

The new social action creed follows:

"I believe that a church which can stand over against the state and look the state in the face and criticize it in the name of the highest good is worthy fighting for.

Against Fascist Concept.

"I believe that democracy which trusts the people to cooperate in self government is worth fighting for. I have no desire to be a member of a totalitarian state.

"I believe that education which reverences individual judgment and does not turn a university into a group of 'yes men' is worth fighting for.

"I believe that a God whose will is superior to every race, class or nation, provides the highest good to all good social action.

Goal of Western Idealism.

"I believe that western idealism can divest itself of those evils of which it has been too tolerant and that it can solve the problem of a just economic order.

"I believe Western idealism can temper the irritation of the races conscious of their unity as well as diversity and do away with war.

"I believe western idealism can solve the problem of an inadequate life for the man on the farm, in the forest and the mine."

Evanston Bank Clerk Held in $22,500 Embezzlement

E. J. Heinze, 28 years old, 2018 Farragut avenue, clerk for the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston, was booked yesterday on a charge of embezzlement of $22,500 from the bank. Judge Harry H. Porter of the Evanston Municipal court fixed bonds at $20,000 and set the hearing for tomorrow. Heinze was arrested Saturday, two days after bank auditors discovered the shortage. He has a wife, Helen, but no children. The bank is insured against his shortage.

HELD TO JURY AS ROBBER.

Joseph Lynch, 23 years old, 2811 Monroe street, was held to the grand jury on a robbery charge yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan of the Felony court.

RULES 6 WHITES ARE NOT HEIRS OF COLORED WOMAN

Six white claimants to the $100,000 estate of Mrs. Maria Turner, colored, received a setback yesterday in Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude's court when he reversed a recent Probate court ruling in favor of the six on the ground they had not proved heirship.

The six claimants are Mrs. Mary Fletcher Brammer, Mrs. Flavinia Fletcher Coffey, and Mrs. Flora Fletcher Grow, sisters, and the heirs of a fourth sister, the late Lucy Fletcher Hill. These heirs are Mrs. Hill's nieces, the Misses Virginia, Wanda, and Jeannette Hill.

All six contended that Mrs. Turner was the daughter of the first wife of Lucien Fletcher, a colored woman whom he married in Toronto in 1859. Fletcher later married the mother of the claimant sisters, according to their testimony in the Probate court before Judge Harold J. Taylor, who upheld their heirship. Three colored claimants appealed Judge Taylor's decision to the Circuit court.

14 GET MEDALS FROM CARNEGIE HEROISM GROUP

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The Carnegie hero fund commission today awarded 14 bronze medals, four of them posthumously, in recognition of acts of heroism.

Among those rewarded was Mrs. Bellie Patterson, 55, of Lofton, W. Va., who climbed down an 18 foot well to save a child.

Another recognized was a 12 year old girl, Suzanne E. Deel, who saved an older girl from drowning near Arcola, W. Va.

Two of the heroes who lost their lives were machinists—William O. Sullivan of Norfolk, Va., and Max R. Yerkes of Horseheads, N. Y. Sullivan descended into a leaking tank filled with deadly gas, boosted up a colored laborer who was overcome, and lost his own life. Yerkes, unable to swim, tried to save a girl who fell from a bridge. Both drowned.

SEEKS TO LIMIT MAINTENANCE OF SEPARATED WIFE

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Evils of the separate maintenance racket would be abolished to some degree by passage of a bill introduced in the senate today by R. V. Graham of Cicero, president pro tempore and Horner administration leader in the upper house of the legislature. In response to the judgment of divorce court jurists and lawyers who practice before them, Senator Graham presented a bill limiting the payment of separate maintenance to the same spouse to two years' after which either party could obtain a divorce.

GIRL, 16, SIGNALS TRAIN, RESCUES BOY, 7, ON TRACK

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 23.—(AP)—All 16 year old Dorothy Barton had for a flag was a tiny handkerchief. She waved that and stopped a train just in front of Bobby Dabrick, 7, who was crossing the tracks near his home in Elizabeth yesterday when he fell and caught a foot.

Dorothy had shouted at him: "Hurry."

"I can't," he had called, "I'm caught."

The girl ran back and signaled a freight train.

Dorothy ran to Bobby and freed his foot as the locomotive stopped not more than 10 feet away.

Transfer School Teacher After Harshness Hearing

Charges of harshness in discipline and incompetence on the part of Paul M. Appel, 52 years old, a teacher of German at the Lake View High school, were withdrawn yesterday at the board meeting, bringing to an end the first trial of a school teacher by the board of education in eight years. Superintendent William J. Bogan recommended that Mr. Appel be transferred to another school and that the salary during the period of suspension be withheld.

Kills His Dog and Self; Feared It Would Grieve

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Leo C. Hodson, 50, was found shot dead today by his own hand in his beach cottage, the body of his police dog "Chief" at his side. A note read:

"I hated to kill the dog, but I loved him and he loved me. I did not want him to grieve over the loss of an old man."

FORMER WARSHIP BUILDER ASKED TO WAIVE RIGHTS

Senators Would Obtain "Incriminating" Story.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—(AP)—C. L. Bardo, former president of a major shipbuilding company, was asked today at the senate munitions committee hearing to waive his constitutional right to refuse to give "self-incriminating" testimony.

Bardo had been president of the New York Shipbuilding company, whose present officers have been questioned at length as to profits made on shipbuilding both during the world war and since.

Gets 24 Hours to Decide.

The former shipbuilding official was given 24 hours to decide whether he would sign the waiver. Should he sign, his testimony could be used in subsequent criminal proceedings.

"This is the first time I have been asked to do this," Bardo told the senate committee after its request. "I have no apprehensions."

The committee, learning that E. L. Cord, aviation and shipbuilding magnate, was on a world cruise, took under advisement whether to ask him to return to give testimony. Cord, it was said, obtained control of the New York Shipbuilding company in 1933.

Belgrano Hits War Profits.

The house military affairs committee was told today by Frank Belgrano Jr., national commander of the Legion, that if there had been legislation in 1917 to take the profit out of war "there would be no demand for the bonus now."

The committee has before it a bill to take the profits out of war.

Belgrano said, "If the profit is taken out of war we won't have war."

TITLE COMPANY IS REMOVED AS HOTEL RECEIVER

Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis removed the Chicago Title and Trust company as receiver for the Knickerbocker hotel, 163 East Walton place, yesterday and appointed Oscar Weiner receiver.

The removal, Judge Lewis explained, was based on the trust company's report from the time of its appointment Dec. 23, 1929, until Dec. 18, 1934. He said he acted because the title concern had not produced sufficient income from the property to pay taxes and other expenses, and because the hotel's affairs were not administered to the best interest of all concerned.

Weiner, the new receiver, was ordered to post a $100,000 bond. The trust company was given twenty days to make a final accounting.

$35,000 FIRE IN MICHIGAN.

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Fire today destroyed the Sellwood block, with an estimated loss of from $35,000 to $40,000.

End Bad Cough Quickly, at One Fourth the Cost

Home-Mixed! No Cooking! Easy!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

COLD WAVE POSTPONES ROSS-KLICK FIGHT

HAWKS ATTEMPT TO HALT RANGER MARCH TONIGHT

Battle New Yorkers on Garden Ice.

GAMES TONIGHT.

Chicago at Rangers.
Canadiens at Maroons.
Americans at St. Louis.

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Manager Clem Loughlin had the world's champion Chicago Blackhawks on the ice at Madison Square Garden for a full hour's practice today in preparation for the Hawks' second clash of the year in New York against the Rangers tomorrow night. The first game went to the Hawks by a 4 to 1 score. The Hawks also won the teams' only other encounter of the season, at Chicago, by a 4 to 0 score.

These two victories over Lester Patrick's men cannot be considered a gauge as to what will happen at the Garden tomorrow night.

Rangers' Stock Booms.

In the last month the Rangers have been the most consistent winners and the highest scorers in the league and right now, after occupying the cellar position in their division for more than two months, they are only a half game behind the third place Red Wings of Detroit.

The New Yorkers have waged a magnificent uphill battle and those who looked for the Rangers to fail to qualify for the Stanley cup finals for the first time since entering the league nine years ago, are now entitled to another guess.

Frank Boucher, center of the Cook-Boucher-Cook line, the most famous scoring combination in pro hocky history, made three goals against the Canadiens last night, which sent him into a tie with Cooney Wieland of Detroit for the top of the United States division scoring list. It also placed him in a tie with Johnny Gottselig of the Hawks for the section's highest goal total. Both have scored 12 times.

Rangers Lead Scoring.

The Rangers, with 68 goals, are leading the division. They have not lost a game in the last seven played and have rung up a total of 25 goals to their opponents' eight since starting their winning streak.

Lorne Chabot, with 48 goals scored against him, is practically leading the leagues' goal tenders. Although Connell of the Montreal Maroons has had two less scored on him the Hawks' net minder has participated in two more games and is leading in shutouts with six.

Tomorrow night's lineup:

CHICAGO BLACKHAWKS.		NEW YORK RANGERS.
Chabot	Goal	Kerr
Coulter	D. D.	Seibert
Wiebe	R. D.	Johnson
Morenz	C	Boucher
Gottselig	L. W.	F. Cook

GOPHER PLAYER FAILS IN HISTORY; APPEAL TO DEAN

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Ineligibility today threatened to remove Glen Barnum from the University of Minnesota basketball team. Barnum, a guard, was unsuccessful in an effort to make up a failure in a history course in a special examination, but an appeal is being taken to Dean Guy Stanton Ford, head of the history department, in an effort to allow him a second opportunity in the examination on grounds the athlete wrote the previous one under disturbing conditions.

If Perry Remains Amateur, British May Thank Czechs

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Because Roderick Menzel of Czechoslovakia is a big fellow who combs his hair between games and would look very handsome in the movies, a blow has been struck for amateur tennis which has developed world reverberations.

But for the fact that Menzel, the Davis cup star, aspired to make a little pocket money by appearing in a series of action films, Czechoslovakia's Tennis association never would have started a movement to have the rule banning such activity rescinded.

And if the Czechs hadn't made the first move in that direction, the powerful British Lawn Tennis association probably never would have started it, much as its members might have yearned to do so. Somebody might have accused them of acting through selfish motives—making an obvious effort to keep their most valuable star, Fred Perry, from turning professional—and that would never have done.

Perry Makes Pictures.

Perry, they knew [although it was supposed to have been kept a secret], had made a series of action films here before leaving on his tour of America and Australia. Bill Tilden, the most errant of the pros, had given a running commentary on Perry's footwork, etc. If that film ever were released, they realized, Fred would from that moment belong to the money clan and cease to be a valuable asset of the B. L. T. A. and Wimbledon, Inc.

It is not difficult, then, to picture the joy of the British association when it received a letter from the Czechs, saying that at the next general meeting of the international federation at Paris in March they would introduce a resolution to rescind that section of rule 23 which prohibits amateur tennis players, and particularly Menzel, from making movies.

Sir Samuel Hoare, president of the British association, promptly called a meeting. He was greeted by a full house, the word having got around that the Czechs needed moral support.

Vote to Support Czechs.

H. Roper Barrett, captain of England's Davis cup team and chairman of the meeting, paused only to hang up his hat before proposing that England's delegation to the Paris meeting support their dear colleagues, the Czechs. Present day views on the question of amateur status, he urged, are not those of the time when the rules were formulated.

There was no need for a second to the motion. Fifty-seven out of the 61 members present were on their feet before Barrett could sit down.

Carl Knowles Knocks Out Roberts in Second Round

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Carl Knowles, Savannah, Ga., scored a knockout in the second round of a scheduled ten round fight tonight over Steve Roberts of Chicago. He weighed 166 pounds and Roberts 163.

DECISION ON DUCK HUNTING HINGES ON U. S. SURVEY

Open Season Forecast as Game Meeting Ends.

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 23. — Unless the waterfowl of the United States and Canada have an extremely unfavorable nesting season next spring and summer, the 1935-'36 shooting season is not likely to be closed. This was the opinion of delegates to the American game conference as the three day session closed this afternoon.

The conference still was seething with discussions of the waterfowl crisis although the program today called for attention to fisheries management, pollution, stream and lake improvement and other topics of interest to the salt and fresh water angler.

The resolutions committee relayed the duck problem to the biological survey in Washington by concurring in a resolution that expressed complete confidence in the ability of the survey and a decision to abide by the bureau in regulations for the 1935-'36 shooting season. This was interpreted as a vote of support to J. N. Darling's announced plan of hunting regulations based on waterfowl facts which will be gathered during the next six months.

Still Fight for Closed Season.

Although Illinois and midwest waterfowl hunters may look forward to some kind of an open season next year, judging by the developments at the conference, proponents of a one year closed season are not through campaigning for their cause.

Representative William M. Berlin of Pennsylvania has introduced a bill in congress calling for a closed season on ducks and geese for the 1935-'36 season. The National Association of Audubon Societies went on record at this conference as being in favor of a one year's closed season to permit the waterfowl to stage a comeback. What these and other backers of a closed season will do during the next six months is a matter of conjecture, those close to the controversy point out.

Charles F. Thompson, director of conservation for the state of Illinois, and Senator Martin B. Lohmann, head of the game and fish committee of the Illinois senate, left for Washington this evening to continue their fight for Illinois' position in the waterfowl question. They are to confer with the chief of the biological survey tomorrow.

Discuss Zoning Illinois.

One of the subjects to be discussed with Darling is that of zoning Illinois so that shooters in the northern section of the state will have an early waterfowl season and those in the south may continue to hunt during a later season.

The sport of fishing made a bid for recognition in the closing hours of the conference when a number of authorities on the subject addressed the meetings.

Aldo Leopold, professor of game management of the University of Wisconsin, was elected chairman of the conference for 1935-'36, succeeding Hoyes Lloyd, supervisor of wild life protection in Canada.

WARD, INJURED MONTREAL STAR, WILL RECOVER

Boston, Mass., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—An X-ray examination today revealed that Jimmy Ward, star right wing of the Maroons, who was injured in a hocky spill here last night, had not suffered a fracture of the skull, as was at first feared. Dr. Martin J. Crotty, attending physician, said that the Montreal player probably would be sufficiently recovered to be discharged from the hospital within a day or so. Jimmy's friends said they expected to see him back in the game within a week or ten days.

Jap Envoy Finds Solution to World Strife: Babe Ruth

Athens, Ga., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Japanese Ambassador Hirosi Saito, here for an address, today referred to Babe Ruth, who recently completed a baseball barnstorming tour of Japan, as a "splendid ambassador of good 'will." "I think it would be a good thing," Saito said, "to scrap all our warships and let our baseball teams cross the ocean and fight out difficulties."

THEIR TITLE BATTLE POSTPONED

Barney Ross of Chicago, world's lightweight and junior welterweight champion, will defend the latter title Monday at Miami, Fla., against Frankie Klick.

Frankie Klick of San Francisco will make his second attempt to lift Ross' junior crown. They drew in a coast title bout last March.

CURBING THE PROS?

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 23.—Pacific coast colleges are following a course of hostility toward professional football somewhat similar to that of the Big Ten. Their conference recently issued an edict that officials working in pro games would not remain eligible for the amateur contests.

More annoying pressure, however, has been applied by another means. In the present lease of Los Angeles stadium by colleges for a term of two years is a clause prohibiting rental for pro football. This structure has the largest seating capacity in this section. Rose Bowl, second in capacity, also derives its principal revenue from a percentage of receipts from college games, so it also is possible to throw down the gauntlet there.

That leaves available to the pros Gilmore stadium with a maximum capacity of about 22,500. Sponsors bemoaned this fact before Cardinals and Bears met, expecting a sellout. Attendance was about 15,000. It now is feared Gilmore stadium will be too small for those wishing to see the Bears and New York Giants a week from Sunday.

If eastern pro elevens continue to come here each year after the close of their regular season and crowds continue to grow, retaliatory tactics may be adopted. Two courses are open. One is enlargement of Gilmore stadium. The other is political pressure on the Los Angeles city council when colleges come to renew their lease of the stadium.

Pro games are conducted under auspices of the politically powerful American Legion, which maintains a department for promotion of sports events. Profits last year were about $40,000. Before the depression they went as high as $200,000. These profits go to maintain Legion charitable activities. Hence backfire against the colleges is possible if it comes to a cat-and-dog fight, which Legion officials hardly anticipate.

Roads.

Roads arouse my interest
And I'm eager to explore
Their vanishing silver ribbons,
But paths intrigue me more.

A winding little lane
Where wild birds choose to nest
In the shelter of a thicket
Somehow suits me best.

Along its tranquil way
Red rambler roses twine,
And at every sylvan bend
Some new delight I find.

Great roads built by man
With power and people teem,
But lanes are left for those
Who seek a place to dream.

Warburton as Pro.

Cotton Warburton, sensational performer of the University of Southern California back field for the last three years, is listening to the siren financial lure of pro football. He has received tentative offers despite the fact his light poundage might prove a handicap on the pro circuit.

George Halas of the Chicago Bears is among those considering Warburton. Paul Schissler of the Cardinals is another. The diminutive towhead hopes for spirited bidding. Under league rules pros are not permitted to close contracts before Feb. 1. Then a flock of announcements may be expected.

Dixie Howell of Alabama, sensation of the Rose Bowl fray, may not join the pros if he makes good in big time baseball. Management of the Detroit Tigers, with whom he will receive a trial, oppose football because of the danger of injuries.

Schroeder Is Invited to Skate for World Title

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—An invitation to compete in the world skating championship meet at Oslo, Norway, Feb. 14 and 15 was extended to Eddie Schroeder, Chicago, and Kit Klein, Buffalo, N. Giants' Coach Calls Bears Lucky Team

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—Vocal preliminaries to the football game between the Chicago Bears and the New York Giants took a turn for the warmer today.

Steve Owen, coach for the pro football league champions, said, "Those fellows from Chicago have been saying it was a fluke when we beat them 30 to 13 for the league championship. Thirty to thirteen is seventeen points to the good. How many points does it take for a victory to be a victory and not a fluke? The Bears would have had to score three more touchdowns to nose us out in the New York game. Let 'em try to score 3 touchdowns on us.

Calls Bears Lucky.

"The Bears have been the lucky team of the league for two years. When they beat us 10 to 9 during the league season, it was a lucky break in the last few minutes that won for them. The only thing the matter with the Bears is that their lucky streak stopped and as a consequence they now are losing games."

The Giants drilled yesterday and today in Gilmore stadium, in Hollywood, which will be the scene of Sunday's return game between the two big pro league clubs from the east. All the New York Giants are in good physical shape, and this means the two clubs will start on even terms Sunday, for the Bears went through their morning workout with all regulars, except Bill Hewitt, who is due in from Chicago by plane later today, doing a convincing job of formation drill.

Rival Players Fraternize.

Red Grange, Link Lyman, Luke Johnsos and Manager George Halas of the Bears fraternized with four of the Giants as guests of honor at a luncheon by the combined Elks club and American Legion posts at Santa Ana, Cal., last night. Halas arranged a conference at which the choice of officials for Sunday's game will be taken up.

Only about 3,000 tickets for the game remain unsold, and the county council of American Legion, which is sponsoring the game, and which is using its share of the profits for relief of disabled veterans, today held a meeting at which ways and means were discussed for expanding the seating capacity of the wooden grand stands at the corner of Third street and Fairfax avenue, Hollywood.

MIAMI SHIVERS IN 40S; TITLE BOUT MONDAY

Baer Brothers on Card.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 24 [Thursday].—(AP)—A cold wave rolled into Miami early today, forcing postponement of the Barney Ross-Frankie Klick encounter for Ross' junior welterweight title from tonight until next Monday.

W. S. Farnsworth of New York, one of the promoters, made the announcement as the mercury slumped to the lower 40s.

It will be their second meeting. Last March 5 the champion was held to a ten round draw by Klick at San Francisco. Many who saw that battle thought Klick deserved the decision.

On the strength of that showing Klick earned a bout with Tony Canzoneri three months later, but he was stopped in the ninth round by the former lightweight champion. After beating Harry Dublinsky at New York last November, Klick strengthened his belief that he can whip Ross.

Wins, Loses Welter Title.

Since their last meeting Ross fought Kid Moro, Bobby Pacho, and Jimmy McLarnin. He defeated Moro in a welterweight contest at Oakland, Cal., and successfully defended the 140 pound crown in two matches with Pacho, the first at Los Angeles and the other at Cleveland last December. He met McLarnin for the welterweight championship twice. He dethroned McLarnin in their first meeting at New York May 28, 1934, but in a return engagement Jimmy regained the crown by winning a fifteen round decision in the e.st a few months later.

Klick and Ross demonstrated they were in superb physical condition while doing light loosening up exercises this afternoon. In their previous meeting Ross weighed 137½ pounds, two and one-half pounds more than the lightweight limit, and Klick scaled 133.

Rematch in Prospect.

In the event Klick wins or holds Ross to a draw again the Chicagoan probably will defend his lightweight title against Klick this summer. Chicago has first call if such a match materializes, with San Francisco and New York having an outside chance.

Ross has been made an 8 to 5 choice to defeat Klick. Despite these odds Klick is supremely confident of beating the champion. Apparently fans hold the same belief, for Mike Jacobs, who is presenting the affair under the auspices of the Miami post of the American Legion, announced the attendance will be 12,000 and gross gate receipts $50,000.

Baer Brothers on Card.

Joe Knight of Cairo, Ga., recognized as light heavyweight champion by several states, and Tony Shucco, Boston, will meet in the ten round semi-final.

Max Baer, heavyweight champion, and his young brother, Buddy Baer, will appear in two of the supporting matches. The champion will box a four round exhibition with Jimmy Maloney, former Boston heavyweight contender, who now is a traffic policeman here. Buddy will oppose Tommy Davenport, Hot Springs, Ark., for six rounds or less.

NEW YORK LISTS RACE DATES; O.K.'S CLAIMING RULE

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Racing dates for New York, submitted by the Jocky club, were ratified formally today by the state racing commission.

The commission also gave its approval to the claiming rule recently adopted by the National Association of State Racing Commissioners at Miami after the measure had been favorably acted upon at a meeting of the Jocky club earlier in the day.

Racing will open at Jamaica on April 20 and close at Empire City on Oct. 30, giving the Metropolitan tracks and Saratoga a total of 166 racing days, three more than last year. The action of the commission included approval of the change in rotation of autumn meetings by which Aqueduct will come after Saratoga, followed by Jamaica, with Belmont Park holding the closing session on Long Island.

The schedule of dates follows:
Jamaica—April 20 to May 14.
Belmont Park—May 15 to June 8.
Aqueduct—June 10 to July 4.
Empire City—July 5 to July 27.
Saratoga—July 29 to Aug. 31.
Aqueduct—Sept. 2 to Sept. 14.
Jamaica—Sept. 16 to Sept. 28.
Belmont Park—Sept. 30 to Oct. 12.
Empire City—Oct. 14 to Oct. 30.

202d Coast Artillery Five Defeats Medical Team, 33-25

The 202d Coast Artillery beat the 108th Medical Regiment, 33 to 25, last night in an Illinois National Guard Basketball league game at the Broadway armory. In preliminary games, St. Matthias whipped the Neylon Boys' club, 39 to 34, and Edgewater Second Battalion defeated the 202d Cubs, 21 to 19.

Snow Halts U. S. Driver in Monte Carlo Auto Race

MONTE CARLO, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Lieut. Joel W. Thorne, the only American driver in the annual Bucharest-Monte Carlo motor rally, with nine others was forced to abandon the trip today because snow made the roads impassable. Thorne started from Athens.

KRANZ, SYKES TO MEET MONDAY IN MARIGOLD RING

Wolfram, Rightmire Battle at Midway

Windup bouts to be presented at Marigold Gardens and Midway arena Monday were closed yesterday. Art Sykes, Elmira, N. Y., and Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., will meet in a heavyweight contest at eight rounds at Marigold. The feature match at the Midway will be a ten round bout between Frank Wolfram, Winnipeg, Man., featherweight, now residing in Barberton, O., and Everett [Young] Rightmire.

The meeting with Kranz will be Syke's first appearance since his defeat by Adolph Wiater at Arcadia gardens Nov. 27. He blamed his showing in that battle on ill health, so he returned to his home and had his tonsils removed and then rested. Art says the operation and vacation have put him back into condition. He has high hopes of resuming the winning streak which was halted last Sept. 20 when King Levinsky defeated him in ten rounds.

Kranz, member of the 1933 intercity Golden Gloves team, will be making his first start since Nov. 23, when he engaged in an unsuccessful eight round bout with Tony Souza of Los Angeles, Cal., at the Stadium, Nov. 23. Prior to his loss to Joe Louis in eight rounds at Marigold Gardens, Aug. 13, Kranz had scored twelve consecutive triumphs. The Gary boxer and Sykes opened sparring drills yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium. Kranz went several rounds with Joe Jorden and Art boxed with Al Kuratis, Englewood High school football player, who plans to enter this year's Golden Gloves meet.

The forthcoming Rightmire-Wolfram tussle at the Midway was deferred from last Monday because of cold weather. Promoter Johnny Coulon was uncertain until yesterday whether or not Rightmire would be available Monday because of a proposed match between Everett and Jackie Sharkey at Minneapolis on that day. Supporting contests at the Midway will pair Earl Mason and Jimmy Cummings at five rounds, Nestor Bruggman and Spud Kelly, five; Eddie Chinski and Fred Dolph, five, and Joe Savage and Georgie Trapp, four rounds.

The Johnny Phagan-Georgie Black main event at Milwaukee, Wis., scheduled for Feb. 1, has been set back to Feb. 4 to allow Black to fight Kid Leonard at Peoria, Ill., Monday. . . . Le Roy [Sailor] Born and Phil Pernice are booked to meet in the semi-final at Peoria. . . . John Henry Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz., light heavyweight, is likely to appear on the Young Stuhley-Al Diamond card at Pittsburgh Tuesday. . . . Stuhley will go to Pittsburgh Sunday.

Eddie Vik, Seattle, Wash., welterweight, has returned to the loop after an absence of several months. . . . He may fight on the program headed by the Frank Sagilio-Young Joe Firpo engagement at Cicero stadium Feb. 8. . . . Tony Canzoneri, who was expected yesterday to open drills for his approaching adventure with Leo Rodak, will arrive tomorrow instead.

Dave Barry, Springfield, Ill., and Georgie Goodman of Chicago will be opponents in the six round topline bout at the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street, tonight. Jack Elvirillo will oppose Phil McQuillen in the five round semi-final at 145 pounds. Matchmaker Johnny Broderick has arranged the following preliminary events:

Bob La Monte vs. Bobby Hull [4].
John Mirabal vs. Augie Mandell [4].
Rudy Hoffman vs. Jack Mason [wrestling].

The Catholic Youth organization plans to enter 25 in the annual Illinois Athletic club amateur boxing tournament to be offered at the I. A. C. Tuesday and Wednesday. F. M.

OAKWYN PLAYS DEMONS.

The Oakwyn Big Five will meet the unbeaten Chicago Deaf and Dumb Demons at the Jefferson gymnasium, 16th street and Wisconsin avenue, Berwyn, tonight.

C. Y. O. BOXERS IN SEMI-FINAL FIGHTS TONIGHT

The semifinal bouts of the class B boxing tournament conducted by the Catholic Youth organization will be held tonight at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock.

The featherweight division appears to be dominated by Walter Maka, a curly haired Polish lad from St. Bruno's parish. Maka's claim to the 126 pound title, however, will be disputed by Joe Dupont, a Mexican youngster from the C. Y. O. Working Boys' home.

In the heavier ranks, the laurels so far have fallen to Matt Egan, a hard hitting middleweight from St. Ignatius parish, and Tom Piasecki, Mary Queen of Heaven, Cicero, who has established himself as a favorite for the light heavyweight title.

The 32 boys who will fight tonight are the survivors of an original entry list of 415 candidates. Finals will be held Feb. 1.

EDELWEISS AND MONARCHS HIGH IN CLASSIC GAMES

The Edelweiss and Monarch Beers took the honors last night in the Classic Bowling league at the Logan Square alleys. The Monarchs set a new record for the league and also for all Chicago this year with an 1,181 game, while the Edelweiss bowled the second highest series in the league this season, 3,218. The Budweisers remained in first place by winning two games from the Baby Ruths.

Illinois College Basket Player Scores 32 Points

Jacksonville, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Louis Lasiter of the Illinois college basketball team smashed scoring records of the Little 19 conference tonight when he tossed 14 baskets and four free throws for a total of 32 points to help defeat Eureka college 60 to 24.

Second Golden Gloves Group to Be Examined Tomorrow

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The second of the series of physical examinations for contestants in the Chicago sectionals of the Golden Gloves boxing tournament will be held tomorrow at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. More than 600 boys received letters this week directing them to report at the gymnasium between 6 p. m. and 8 p. m.

Any contestant who failed to keep his appointment last Friday night is eligible to appear for examination tomorrow night. The only requirement is that the parental consent card, which is inclosed in all letters, must be brought to the gym properly signed before the doctors will examine the contestant.

Team Entries Awaited.

More than 1,500 letters have been received from amateur boxers so far and this does not include many of the larger teams nor the list of representatives from the Catholic Youth organization. Thus the number of boxers should exceed all Chicago sectional records.

In the next two days the Catholic Youth boxers will receive their instructions to report next Wednesday at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street, for their examinations.

Among the teams entering is one of 16 boxers from the Skokie valley CCC camp. These boys will be chosen after a camp tournament involving 250 contestants and will report at the Loyola university Golden Gloves tournament Feb. 19 for their qualifying trials. Lieut. W. D. Fuestedt, athletic officer for the Skokie camp of 3,500, the largest CCC camp in the United States, is in charge of the tournament.

St. Alphonsus Boxing club, under the direction of Johnny Corbett, has entered 20 boys in the Golden Gloves sectionals. The St. Alphonsus boxers will report tomorrow night for their physical examinations. Ernest Beck has entered 12 boxers from Altgeld park.

From Calumet City, Ill., Danny Marco, a novice featherweight, has sent in the names of five boys who wish to compete in the Novice tournament at White City.

Duncan "Y" Represented.

Louis A. Orr, commercial instructor at the Grant Community High school, Ingleside, Ill., has filed his entry to compete in the north side tournament. Orr made an excellent showing last year in the Open division and hopes to go through to a championship. Orr is a middleweight. He will be accompanied by Bill Sharpe, a 202 pound novice heavyweight, and Edward Seavey, welterweight, captain of the Grant High school boxing team.

C. B. Redman, physical director of the Duncan Y. M. C. A., 1515 Monroe street, has entered a team of five boys in the Open division of the west side tournament, and seven boys in the Novice class. These boys are scheduled for their physical examinations tomorrow night.

Among the many individual entries is that of Andrew Gusack, a lightweight who helped to train the Polish champions last May when they fought the Chicago champions in the International tournament.

From Ted Bogan, president of the Polish Youth organization, 4633 South Ashland avenue, comes the information that the Polish team is training diligently for the tournament and hopes to qualify a large enough number of boxers for the Tournament of Champions at the Stadium Feb. 25, 26, and 27 and win the team trophy offered for the Chicago squad scoring the most points in the semi-finals.

Entries May Close Feb. 1.

The date for closing the entries for the Chicago sectionals probably will be Feb. 1. This will allow just enough time to hold a final physical examination, assign the boys to sections and mail them personal instructions before the South Side tournament opens on Feb. 11. It is important that all entries be mailed as soon as possible.

The list of dates for the Chicago sectionals follows:

SOUTH SIDE—White City, Feb. 11, 12, 13, 21, and 22.
WEST SIDE—Community Recreation center, Feb. 13, 14, 15, 20, and 21.
NORTH SIDE—Loyola university, Feb. 19, 20, and 21.

RECORDS IN MICHIGAN

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Golden Gloves attendance in Michigan is setting new records, first returns from the nine city tournament sponsored by the Grand Rapids Press showed today. Only one of the nine tournaments is completed, five are under way and three have not yet begun, but attendance has exceeded the 21,000 mark. At this rate between 60,000 and 70,000 will have paid to see the boys who will represent the Press in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Tournament of Champions.

Although the lists have not been closed for all the tournaments, more than 1,000 contestants have signed blanks.

The Pontiac Daily Press tournament ran three nights with a sellout each night. Ann Arbor opened yesterday with a sellout and Muskegon Chronicle packed in 4,500 for its first two nights and has two more nights to go. The Flint Daily Journal tournament, with the finals coming up Friday night, has shown its contestants before 6,400.

The winners in the nine city tournaments will come together in Grand Rapids under Press auspices on Feb. 14 and 15 and the eight that emerge victorious will form the team that will appear in the Chicago Stadium.

INJURY TO KEEP LORBER OUT OF NEXT POLO GAME

An injury to Herb Lorber of the Ramblers polo team will force Maj. R. G. Hunter, captain of the trio, either to find a replacement before Saturday night or to substitute a Metropolitan Polo league game scheduled for later in the season. The Ramblers had been billed to play the 124th Field Artillery at the latter's armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

A shift in schedule, according to Maj. Hunter, is the more likely possibility. Definite announcement on this feature game of the evening's program will be made today, he said.

Ribs Are Broken.

Lorber's mishap, it was learned yesterday, came during a game at Cleveland last Saturday night when he collided with an opposing player. After taking time out he resumed hostilities and scored five goals.

On the return trip to Chicago Lorber complained of his side, and an X-ray yesterday revealed the two broken ribs, which will keep him out of action for at least three weeks.

Shamrocks Face Kansas City.

The injury is the latest of a series in which Lorber has been the victim. Several weeks ago his mallet thumb was put out of service, and last spring at the armory he was incapacitated for five weeks with a broken collar bone and dislocated shoulder. He returned to action in the national tournament, in which he starred with the Chicago Riding club team.

The Chicago Shamrocks will clash with Kansas City in Saturday night's opener.

Former K. of C. Stars Will Meet in Game Tonight

Former stars of the north and west divisions of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league will meet at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 Madison street, as an added feature to the four league games tonight. Players who will be present for the game include:

North division — Duke Dunne, Elmer Hooker, Wilfrid Smith, Al Krause, Al De Caluwe, Ed Fallon, Frank Parenti, Johnny Mancuso, Ed Hughes, Souily Angelo, Len McGraw, Dick Kraft, John Rouzan, and Frank Kronin.

West division—Chick Rintelman, Jim Russell, Joe McAllister, Jack Tierney, Grover Clark, Tom Cunningham, Jim Salvino, Tom Fleming, Ed Whelan, Roy Bedore, Hank Baude, Mike Cunningham, Harvey Moore, Dom Gentile, John Winterhalter, Bill Moorhead, and Bob Kenney.

Lou Mehalek, Setters star, will share the officiating with former Judge Herb Immenhausen. St. Cyr vs. Hennepin and Barry vs. Hughes feature the schedule of regular games.

BROWN LEADS INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE PITCHERS

New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Final International league pitching averages compiled today stamp Walter Brown, right handed star of the Newark Bears the league's leading pitcher for 1934.

Brown not only set the pace with the lowest average of earned runs—2.56 per nine innings—but he pitched the most complete games, 21; worked more innings, 239; won the most games, 20; pitched the most shutouts, 6, and had the highest won and lost percentage, .769. He lost six games.

Second in effectiveness was another Bear pitcher, Vitautis Tamulis, a southpaw, who yielded an average of only 2.74 earned runs although he ranked fifth in the percentage column, winning 13 and losing 7.

GEORGE LOTT TO SHOW HIS BEST TENNIS SATURDAY

Young Pro to Encounter Bill Tilden.

George Lott will give his home town friends an idea what he can do against a first class opponent when he meets Big Bill Tilden in the exhibitions of the Tilden troupe Saturday night at 108th Engineers' armory, 34th and Wentworth.

This will be Lott's first performance as a professional in Chicago. In his appearances here as an amateur he was seldom matched against high ranking players, except in his occasional encounters with Frank Parker. Most of his big matches were played in the east or in Europe.

Began Play Early.

A survey of Lott's career shows that he was Chicago boy champion when 14 years old, city men's champion at 16, and national junior champion a year later. He received a No. 9 national ranking at 18 and remained for the rest of his amateur career in the upper strata while he was giving brilliant Davis cup and Wimbledon performances.

He has been national doubles champion four times and Wimbledon doubles champion twice.

Doubles Match Scheduled.

His partner in the second triumph was Lester Stoefen who, in addition to playing a singles match with Ellsworth Vines this Saturday, will team with Lott against the Vines-Tilden combination.

Star Field to Seek National Skate Titles

Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Jimmy Webster's reign as national speed skating champion will be endangered when the United States championships are decided on Fowler lake Friday and Saturday. The St. Paul boy surprised by winning the title in 1932, succeeded Frank Stack of Chicago. In 1933 Webster failed to score a point and watched his laurels slip into the hands of Mel Johnson of Detroit. Last year, however, Webster again was in top form and beat back the threat of Eddie Schroeder of Chicago.

One of his foremost rivals this year is Marvin Swanson, Minneapolis, who defeated him recently for the Minnesota state championship. Swanson is especially good in the half mile and up to five miles.

Other stars are Eddie Wedge, former Olympic team member, and Storms Arnold, both of Detroit; Lamar Ottsen and Truman Connell of St. Louis; Eddie Stundl, Wilbur Marks, and Al Kucera, all of Chicago.

Wedge, Arnold, Ottsen, Connell, and John Bretz, another St. Louis skater, are on the scene of the competition, along with Bernie Cannatta, Chicago, and Tommy Smith, Utica, N. Y., intermediates, and Ken Kisselberg, Chicago junior star.

In the women's division Kit Klein, Buffalo, N. Y., ranks as a slight favorite to unseat Dorothy Franey of St. Paul. Miss Klein is present North American champion and was runner-up to Miss Franey last year.

OSHKOSH TO PLAY FLORALS.

The Oshkosh [Wis.] Pros and the Duffy Florals basketball teams will meet at De La Salle gymnasium, 35th street and Michigan avenue, Sunday night.

MOSTLY about DOGS

By Bob Becker

Questions They Ask

I would like to know just how you can tell if a puppy has distemper as I was unfortunate in buying a chow puppy with this disease. The puppy died after being sick several weeks. I will appreciate it if you will send me the name of kennels where I can buy another.

MRS. E. B.
East 50th street, Chicago.

I am mailing you suggestions on kennels where you can purchase chow puppies. If a puppy is developing a case of distemper it will appear listless and have little or no appetite. The eyes will lose their sparkle and may water. The dog is apt to cough just as a human does who has a cold on the lungs. There is a discharge from the nose and a fever develops. These are some of the more noticeable symptoms. There are others more serious, too. The last dog I nursed through a case of distemper had a very bad cough when I got to him and had him given medical treatment. If a puppy you are considering shows any of these symptoms, or generally is very listless and sick looking, better not take a chance. A healthy puppy [8 weeks or more] should be full of life and animation. Of course it is well to keep this point in mind: you might purchase a puppy which has contracted distemper and not enough time has elapsed for the disease to develop. That might happen and the seller would sell the dog in good faith, not knowing that the pup was about to have distemper.

We have two cocker spaniels about 18 months old and they are pedigreed dogs. We would like to know what sort of a feeding schedule you recommend. Should they be fed both morning and evening, also would you please give us suggested diet.

H. C. Blanchard
Peoria, Ill.

Here is a list of approved foods for your dogs. From this list you can prepare a balanced and varied diet. Meats: beef, cooked and raw; liver, cooked and raw [occasionally]; canned dog food [of high quality]; large, raw bone to chew on. Besides meat you can feed some cereals as, for example, bran or whole wheat bread toast, oatmeal, dog biscuits, cream of wheat, shredded wheat, etc. Vegetables are good for a dog [in small portions and mixed with other foods] because they furnish vitamins, minerals and roughage. Among them are spinach, cabbage, tomatoes or tomato juice and asparagus. Vegetables, as a rule, should be cooked and mashed. The main thing to remember is that a dog is not herbivorous, so don't try to feed him too many vegetables.

I would feed the cockers a very light meal in the morning, the heavy one coming at night. In the morning a biscuit or two, a piece of toast or some cereal with milk will suffice. One night give the dogs cooked meat, a few biscuits, milk or other combination. The next night possibly a little raw meat, or some canned dog food of high quality, cereal, or other foods in combination.

Foods that I never feed any of my dogs include pork, either raw or cooked, chicken or other fowl bones,

Parker High school's lightweight basketball team battled to a 25 to 25 overtime tie with Hirsch yesterday in a south section game of the Chicago Public High School league on Parker's court. It was Parker's second tie during the league season, the quintet having played a tie with Fenger two weeks ago.

Parker led, 24 to 22, in the closing minutes of the regulation game, but Pistello, Hirsch forward, sank a short shot to tie the score.

Make Two Free Throws.

In the extra period Moore of Hirsch made good on a free throw attempt. A few minutes later Archibold, Parker forward, sank a free toss and the score was deadlocked.

Manley, seeking its third cosecutive league victory, was defeated by Marshall in another lightweight contest. The score was 21 to 18. They were tied, 10 to 10, at the end of the first half. Rodnick, guard, starred for Marsball, contributing four field goals and one free throw.

Steinmetz Beats Tuley.

Steinmetz, led by Reid and Tilly, triumphed over Tuley in a west division heavyweight game, 37 to 26. Reid scored five baskets and four free throws, while Tilly accounted for four field goals and two free tosses. Steinmetz led at the intermission, 16 to 15. Lineups:

ChicagoanLoses inAmateur Pocket Billiard Tournament

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 23.—(AP)—J. Howard Shoemaker, defending champion, and Herbert Courtney, both of New York, tonight won their matches in the national amateur pocket billiard tournament. Shoemaker defeated Lewis Matthews, Chicago, 125 to 55, in 24 innings, and Courtney beat Al Broder, Philadelphia, 125 to 120, in 16 innings.

Flush Poisons from Kidneys and Stop Getting Up Nights

When you can get for 35 cents a supremely efficient and harmless stimulant and diuretic that will flush from your kidneys the waste matter, poisons and acid that are now doing you harm, why continue to break your restful sleep by getting up thru the night? Just ask your druggist for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—but be sure and get GOLD MEDAL—right from Haarlem in Holland. Other symptoms of weak kidneys and irritated bladder are backache, puffy eyes, leg cramps, moist palms, burning or scanty passage.

MOON MULLINS—FOUND—ONE BABY

HEY! LORD PLUSHBOTTOM! COME UP HERE QUICK ROOM 1045!!
OH, THIS IS WONDERFUL! HE HAS LOCATED MY WIFE AND DEAR CHILDREN AT LAST!
HELLO, YER LORDSHIP, MEET MISS ER-UH-AH--- I DIDN'T GET THE NAME AND KINDLY EXPLAIN THAT I AM NOT A BURGLAR BUT A PRIVATE DETECTIVE.
THAT IS WHAT I AM PAYING HIM FOR. BUT SO FAR HE IS A TERRIBLE DUD AS A DETECTIVE.
I WOULDN'T SAY THAT LORD PLUSHBOTTOM- I DISCOVERED THE MOST GORGEOUS AND BEAUTIFUL BLONDE IN THE BUILDING IN ONLY FIVE MINUTES.
WELL, WELL, WELL! MY WORD!

Campbell and Bluebird Sail for New York

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell loaded his new racing Bluebird aboard the Aquitania today and sailed for the United States and a new series of assaults on automobile speed records.

In a few weeks the British speed king hopes to send his remodeled, streamline juggernaut roaring down the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla., at 300 miles per hour, or almost 28 miles faster than on his last attempt—Feb. 23, 1933—when he hung up a new record by traveling a measured mile at 272.108 miles per hour.

Carries Extra Engine.

Sir Malcolm saw the Bluebird safely stored in the liner's hold and then announced he also is taking extensive supplies to Florida, including an extra engine, 36 tires and numerous spare parts.

Accompanied by his wife and their daughter, Jean, 11, who is making her first visit to the United States, the racer will hurry on to Florida as soon as possible after arriving at New York. He said he is eager to assemble the Bluebird and begin preparations for the trials.

New Air Brakes Help.

Sir Malcolm is proud of his new machine, faster and more rakish than ever. He is particularly keen on the air brakes and other new gadgets which enable him to travel faster than he was able to do in any of his previous models.

One of the latter is an air intake shutter across the front which he closes by shoving down a plunger with his right hand, thus making it possible for him to coax another 15 miles per hour from the speeding Bluebird, which already may be traveling at 300 miles per hour.

PATTERSON WINS DECISION OVER WENDELL WHITE

Verne Patterson, Central A. A. U. flyweight champion, and Kenny Lottman, Northwest gymnasium bantamweight, were victorious in five round matches which headed the Mastro boxing club amateur card last night at Community recreation center. Patterson whipped Wendell White and Lottman won from Jesse Robinson, A Century of Progress and Illinois athletic club champion. Other results:

Jack Janus knocked out James Scott [1].
Sam Girshbein beat Tom Walker [3].
Al Van Derbosch beat Tony Catalano [3].
Jeff Burke stopped George Victory [1].
George Kulk stopped Bob Cooper [1].

Frankie Pytlak First Indian to Sign Contract

Cleveland, O., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Frankie Pytlak, diminutive catcher, was the first of 34 players on the roster of the Cleveland baseball club to sign and return his 1935 contract.

Iowa Wrestlers Defeat State Teachers, 21 to 13

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 23.—(AP)—With the aid of three falls, the University of Iowa wrestling team opened the 1935 season with a 21 to 13 victory over State Teachers college here tonight.

150 Golfers Meet Today at San Francisco

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Led by such notables as Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen, 150 of the country's outstanding golfers will tee off here tomorrow for the first half of 36 hole qualifying tests of the annual San Francisco match play open tournament.

Of the huge list of professional and amateur stars on hand only three are exempt from a tilt with par 72 of the tricky Presidio club course. They are Lawson Little, British and American amateur champion; Olin Dutra, national open title holder, and Paul Runyan, Professional Golfers' association champion.

Tom Creavy, who won the San Francisco tournament last year, also qualifies automatically. He is not expected to play, however.

Tomorrow's hundred low scorers will play another 18 Friday for the 29 of 32 qualifying places open. Match play rounds of 18 holes will start Saturday, with 36 hole finals next Monday.

Sixty-two amateurs, mostly from this section, filed entries. The professionals will battle for a purse of $4,000, with the winner taking $1,250.

Favorites, in addition to Dutra, Sarazen, Hagen, Little, and Runyan, include Harold McSpaden of Kansas City, winner of the recent Pasadena and Sacramento open tournaments; Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., and Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, who divided top money in the Los Angeles open; Mark Fry of Oakland; the Zimmerman brothers, Emory and Al, of Portland, Ky Laffoon of Chicago, Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., and Jim Demaret of Galveston.

Twelve Bowlers Remain in Match Game Elimination

The Chicago district match game bowling eliminations will be continued Saturday and Sunday with the twelve remaining men fighting for four qualifying positions. Six games will be rolled Saturday night at the Stack & Ryan alleys and six more Sunday afternoon at the Monte Cristo Recreation.

The field now includes:

W. Goldammer, E. Maricich, A. Romrska, M. Anderson, H. Kaad, E. Laskey, W. Flesch, D. Devito, W. Marshall, P. Krumske, B. Krause, and E. Kraft.

The women's elimination will be resumed Saturday and Sunday, with twenty-four competing and half that number to be cast off. North Center and Pioneer Arcade will house the Saturday night competition, while the Cheltenham and Del-Clark alleys will be the scene of the Sunday afternoon bombardment.

NORTH CENTRAL, ELMHURST FIVES TO MEET TONIGHT

Tied for first place in the Little Nineteen conference race with three victories and no losses, North Central college basketball team will play Elmhurst tonight at Naperville.

Len Yuknis, high scorer and veteran forward, is definitly out of the North Central lineup for the remainder of the season with a broken foot, while Burns, a freshman, also is suffering from a foot injury. Capt. Bob Young and Hippo Spiegler will be at guard, Jim Thumley at center, and Ade Dillon at one of the forwards. The other North Central forward position probably will be shared by Shiffler and Heilman, freshmen.

OakPark,Postl Hocky Clubs Battle Tonight

The Oak Park Hocky club and the Postl six will endeavor to break the tie for third place in the Stadium division of the Chicago Hocky league tonight when they meet on Stadium ice in the feature of a twin bill. The Jones and Baumruckers will meet the Whiting Macs in the opener, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Oak Park-Postl game should be a very close battle, as both clubs have shown about equal strength in their games with the leaders.

The winner of this game will move a step closer to the league leading Baby Ruths and a place in the finals. The first three clubs will play for the title at the end of the regular schedule of games.

Jones and Baumrucker, who won the title last year, find themselves in second place in the Metropolitan division and should win tonight to close the gap between them and the leaders, the Vodrazka Hornets.

TESTING "BOTTOMS-UP" FOR MELLOWNESS GREAT IDEA

Say Whisky Drinkers

IS it a hit? Already "BOTTOMS UP," Kentucky straight whisky, is demanded from coast to coast by thousands. Altho it wasn't placed on the market until a short time ago, it is already a best seller. The reason? No "BOTTOMS UP" Whisky is bottled until it passes the "Ester Test." It's the new scientific way to insure a definite degree of mellowness. Other factors responsible for the quick success of "BOTTOMS UP" are—a formula famous in Kentucky for 65 years—the high percentage of expensive small grains to give a unique, superior flavor—a minimum of one year aging in warehouses kept at summer temperature and humidity the year round. (Present bottling is distillation of December, 1933.) Yet the price is so low it will surprise you. Ask for a bottle of "BOTTOMS UP" at any good dealer's.

Most men look older than they are

HERE'S HOW TO LOOK YOUNGER THAN YOU ARE

Look in the mirror. See how those wrinkles and age lines are etching themselves in your face.

If you lived in the tropics there might be some excuse for premature old age showing on your face.

The broiling sun soon dries up the natural skin oils and makes men and women look old before their time.

Shaving with alkaline soaps dries out the skin in much the same way as a tropical sun or a frigid winter wind.

That's why you see so many wizened-up young old men everywhere about you.

If you want to keep looking young and fit, throw away the old shaving brush and buy a tube of Barbasol.

Start shaving tomorrow with this modern latherless Barbasol that makes a pleasure out of the daily chore of removing whiskers.

No ingrown hairs when you use Barbasol. It holds each whisker steady to the cutting edge so that there is a clean cut at the base.

And finally, the bland oils in Barbasol leave your face in the pink of condition. It's so soothing that many people use it for sunburn, windburn and chapping.

You'll look younger if you shave with Barbasol.

Tune in Edwin C. Hill every Wednesday evening over the Columbia Broadcasting System coast-to-coast (see your newspaper for local time) and Singin' Sam—the Barbasol Man—every Friday evening at 9:45 P.M., WOR New York; WLW Cincinnati; 8:45 P.M., WGN Chicago

For Modern Shaving:
No Brush • No Lather
No Rub-in

TWENTY GRAND, MATE PREPARE TO RENEW FEUD

Rivals Meet Tomorrow in Santa Anita Sprint.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Two leading turf rivals of almost four years ago, Twenty Grand and Mate, were sent through paces at Santa Anita Park today designed to point them for a renewal of their feud here Friday afternoon.

Nominated for a special $1,200 event over seven furlongs, the veteran thoroughbreds went six and seven furlongs, respectively. Twenty Grand, 7 year old Kentucky Derby winner of 1931, which has gained reputation hereabouts as a rain maker because showers four times delayed his comeback debut, stepped the six furlongs in 1:13.

Mate Is Good, Too.

He turned the first quarter in 23 second and was clocked at 47 1-5 for the half mile. Mate, which won the Preakness in 1931, showing his heels to Twenty Grand, was sent through the seven furlongs in 1:27.

While there was some talk of Statesman, English horse, and Equipoise going in Friday's special, weather permitting, there was no definite indication from their trainers that they would.

Warm Up for Handicap.

A field of ten is expected, with High Glee, Sarada, Teralice, Frank Ormont, Polish Archer, and Wacoche named.

The event will serve as a prepping race for a majority of the starters in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap of Feb. 23, for which Twenty Grand, Mate, Statesman, Head Play, Equipoise, Cavalcade, and sixty-odd others were nominated last month.

BROWN WISDOM REPAYS AUCTION PRICE; WINS AGAIN

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Brown Wisdom, 10 year old gelding bid in by his owner, Percy M. Pike, at $1,000 at a public auction ten days ago after other buyers passed him by, had more than restored the investment tonight.

One of the oldest thoroughbreds quartered at the Santa Anita track, Brown Wisdom won $625 by coming home a nose in front of Eisenberg in a six furlong claiming event today. His time was 1:12 2-5. Swifty was third by a neck.

The purse added to another of $625 the aging runner won the afternoon of the sale. Brown Wisdom has earned more than $150,000 in his long career.

It was a good day for the aged, with Gerald, another 10 year old gelding, winning the third race.

BEHRENS LEADS NORTH PARK TO 47 TO 45 VICTORY

AGUA CALIENTE POSTPONES START OF RACE MEETING

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Lou Anger, general manager of the race track at Agua Caliente, said today the Mexican track probably would not open its regular meeting on Feb. 24, but that "even more racing" was projected for the future.

The announcement came in the wake of a decision by the California horse racing board extending the meeting at Santa Anita, the new course here, until March 9 and ordering Bay Meadows, near San Francisco, to open within a week from that time.

The conflict of racing here with the Agua Caliente program was proclaimed by friends of the Mexican track as a severe blow to the below the border plant.

Talaber Campaigns for 175 Pound Mat Title

SLAPDASH BEATS LARRANAGA BY A NOSE AT HIALEAH

Winner's Backers Collect $27.50 in Mutuels.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The Wheatley Stable's Slapdash outgamed the Anall Stable's Larranaga in a driving finish to triumph by a nose in the featured $1,500 Vero Beach handicap at Hialeah Park today.

Third place in the 6 furlong dash went to E. R. Bradley's Bold Lover, which was a length behind Larranaga. A field of seven started.

The first eight race program of the meeting attracted a large crowd and the track's share of the mutuel handle in the second race was turned over to charity, according to a custom of several years' standing here.

Watson Rides Three Winners.

Jocky Bobby Watson gained the first triple of the session and became the day's riding star when he booted home Quickly in the second race, Golden Fate in the third, and the 20 to 1 shot Bushman in the eighth. That Watson brothers accounted for half the program, since George augmented Robert's achievement by winning the fifth race with J. W. Parrish's Howard.

In the Vero Beach handicap Slapdash showed surprising speed and stamina, although earlier in the season the 4 year old filly was a winner at Tropical Park. Today she broke slowly, while Ladfield led during the early stages.

Brannon Takes Lead.

Ladfield never gained much of an advantage, however, for Mrs. Charles S. Bromley's Brannon stayed close to the pace and went into the lead after half a mile. Around the turn and at the head of the stretch Brannon was in front, but he tired suddenly in the final furlong.

Slapdash returned $27.50 straight, having been overlooked while Larranaga drew the heaviest play. The time of the race was 1:12 2-5. Brannon, which was purchased by Mrs. Bromley shortly before the race, finished fourth, with Ladfield, Sabula and Kawagoe trailing in that order.

HEAVY DEMAND SENDS STEEL OUTPUT HIGHER

Production Rises 2.5 Points to 51.5%.

Steel ingot output last week rose 2½ points to 52½ per cent of theoretical capacity, according to Iron Age. The rise was due to greater automobile production, which is rapidly nearing 1930 levels, and miscellaneous demands for iron and steel.

A setback in scrap prices has introduced a note of caution, the journal says, although further gains in operations are apparently assured. Scrap prices in most market centers have lost much of their buoyancy, declines being initiated in Chicago last week.

"It is too early for scrap to portend a leveling off of steel production," the review states. "Growing diversification of steel demand, which is particularly marked in the Chicago district, is ascribed not only to increased production of miscellaneous finished products but to a resumption of delayed plant maintenance work."

Automotive Activity Heavy.

Mill deliveries on cold finished sheets for motor car bodies, the journal continues, have been extended for five or six weeks. Leading automobile manufacturers are virtually sold out until April 1, while passenger car sales this month are double those of last January.

Output in the first quarter is now estimated at more than a million cars, compared with 749,532 in the first quarter of 1933 and 1,046,689 in 1930, the last year in which the rate was above a million cars a quarter.

Railroad buying continues conservative, says the review, although certain roads are apprehensive lest a further rise in car loadings will find them with a shortage of serviceable equipment. The Baltimore and Ohio railroad is in the market for 50 to 150 hopper cars.

Another eastern road has bought five lightweight, high tensile steel hopper cars, while the Chilean State railways are asking for figures on twenty-one passenger cars. The New York Central has secured a PWA loan to finance the purchase of 20,000 tons of rails and 9,000 tons of track fastenings.

Detail Regional Changes.

Operations during the week rose 4 points to 36 per cent at Pittsburgh, 2 to 59 at Chicago, 6 to 35 in the Philadelphia district, 3 to 63 in the valleys, and 5 to 95 in the Wheeling area. There was a decline of 2 points to 67 per cent at Cleveland and 4 points to 24 per cent in the south.

Structural steel awards during the week totaled 12,660 tons, compared with 9,750 tons in the preceding week. New projects aggregate 16,650 tons, against 19,700.

The Iron Age composite price for heavy melting steel is unchanged at $12.33 a ton, and the composite price for pig iron and finished steel are unchanged at $17.90 a ton and 2.124 cents a pound respectively.

Republic's Bookings Rise.

During the first 17 days of January, Republic Steel corporation booked 55.7 per cent more orders for steel than during the first 17 days of December, T. M. Girdler, chairman of the corporation announced yesterday. December orders aggregated 38.3 per cent more than booking in November, which, in turn, ran 22.6 per cent ahead of October, he added.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube company announced it is preparing to make steel in open harth furnaces at the Brier Hill works, idle for four years. Preparations also were being made to blow in a blast furnace there. Carnegie Steel company will resume melting Friday in an idle blast furnace at its Ohio works.

TREASURY RULE OF SPENDING BY RFC IS REJECTED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Refusing to give the director of the budget and the secretary of the treasury authority over RFC expenditures, the senate banking committee today struck this proposed power from the bill extending the corporation's life for two years and enlarging its powers in certain respects. The bill was reported to the senate.

The provision had been regarded as a plank in the Roosevelt platform for a central control of expenditures by the various government lending agencies, a plank opposed by many members of congress.

The bill reported today permits the RFC to buy railroad obligations in reorganization proceedings with the approval of the I. C. C., to buy stock in mortgage loan companies and similar financial institutions, to buy assets of closed banks under some conditions, to increase authorized investments in preferred stock and capital notes of insurance companies and to continue the Commodity Credit corporation and the Export-Import bank.

In reporting the bill, the committee decided to restrict loans to mortgage loan and similar companies to $100,000,000.

Doubt U. S. Steel Will Boost Preferred Dividend

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Well informed circles expect the directors of the United States Steel corporation to vote a dividend of 50 cents a share on preferred stock when they meet Tuesday. Despite rumors there would be an increase in the payment, the company's earnings for 1934 would not justify such a move, it is believed.

Court Praises Illinois Life Receivership

Commendation of the administration of the Illinois Life Insurance company under receivership and sharp condemnation of management policies and practices prior to receivership were contained in two decisions handed down yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The court upheld the validity and propriety of the receivership and the reinsurance contract which was entered into with the Central Life Assurance Society of Iowa.

The decisions were both written by Presiding Judge Evan A. Evans and concurred in by Judges Samuel Alschuler and Will M. Sparks. The conduct of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson and Gen. Abel Davis, receiver, in the case were indorsed by the appellate court.

Appellants Fined $200.

One of the appeals was brought by twenty dissenting policy holders who charged the reinsurance contract was fraudulent. The appellants were assessed $250 damages in addition to ordinary costs on the ground that their appeal was "frivolous."

The charge is roundly condemned in Judge Evans' opinion. "The appellants' charge that the reinsurance contract is a fraud on the policy holders and is unfair to them is unsupported by a shred of evidence," Judge Evans said. "Equally unsubstantiated is the assertion that the Central Life Assurance society is financially embarrassed. The evidence completely and conclusively established the contrary." The decision then points out that only 20 of the 70,000 policy holders of the company appealed Judge Wilkerson's approval of the reinsurance contract.

Commend Handling of Firm.

"In conclusion," Judge Evans added, "it may be observed that we have at times criticized equity receiverships which have been unduly prolonged and expensively conducted without satisfactory results. Prompted by the same motive, we approve and commend receiverships which have been efficiently conducted with vigor and satisfactory results. The present case is of the latter class."

The second opinion deals with the justification for the receivership and management policies. The lower court, the receiver, and the federal master in chancery, Jacob I. Grossman, are upheld in this decision, which was also written by Judge Evans.

"The Chicago real estate bonds and the stock and bonds, etc. [of the Illinois Life Insurance company] were not only bad investments but they represented loans of the Illinois Life's funds to enterprises owned by the officers of Illinois Life," the court stated.

Former Officers Criticized.

"These enterprises were in desperate financial straits, and so, in addition to bad judgment, there was added gross stupidity on the part of the officers, both of which were reflected in the character and value of the loans made and securities acquired."

The company, at one time the largest life company in Illinois, failed in 1932. Ernest J. Stevens, one of the officers, was convicted in the state courts on the charge of embezzlement. The conviction was set aside by the higher court. His brother, Raymond W. Stevens, committed suicide before coming to trial.

40,000 RUBBER WORKERS TO GET WAGE INCREASE

Akron, O., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Nearly 40,000 workers in three rubber factories here will share in wage increases amounting to an estimated $2,000,000 a year, officials disclosed late today.

The pay increases, effective next week, will be made by the Goodyear, Firestone, and Goodrich companies which for more than a year have been opposing attempts by American Federation of Labor unions to get wage boosts and recognition for collective bargaining. Both Firestone and Goodrich, in formal statements, said the higher wages were granted as a result of negotiations with employé groups which are commonly described as "company unions."

Officials said the increases will range from three to six cents an hour for factory workers, and that salaried employés at Goodyear and Goodrich who have been earning incomes comparable to the other workers, will in most cases receive a 5 per cent boost. It was not immediately disclosed whether salaried employés at Firestone will be affected.

Rails to Need 200,000 New Freight Cars

Cleveland, O., Jan. 23. — (AP) — In sharp contrast to the fanfare marking the development of stream lined trains, a construction program 40 times as large is being quietly planned by America's railroads. Freight cars, instead of passenger equipment, are involved in this project, and $550,000,000 is the estimated cost.

It is not merely a "talked about" project, this freight car program; it is a matter rapidly becoming an actual necessity, railroad men say. The situation arises, they assert, from the fact that for several years the carriers have not been building half enough cars to replace those worn out. In normal times the replacement requirements are about 80,000 cars a year.

May Need 200,000 Cars.

About 25,000 new cars costing between $2,000 and $3,000 each already are contemplated for 1935 construction, but officials of the carriers privately admit an additional 175,000 are going to be needed soon, possibly before the year is out.

If freight trafic gets back to normal, they say, it will be necessary to build additional blocks of 200,000 cars annually for three or four years instead of the 80,000 normally required.

Usually the railroads keep approximately 2,000,000 cars in active service, but because a fewer number were needed in the depression and because of a desire to defer capital expenditures then the number of cars worn out or needing major repairs, now on side tracks, is the greatest in history.

Present Trafic Warants Estimate.

In anticipating that 200,000 new cars must soon be built, railroad officials are not compelled to base their plans on the possibility of further increases from the depression's low trafic volume. Only a reversal of the present upward trend, they say, would be sufficient to reduce the size of the program.

The expected need of additional blocks of 200,000 cars annually for three or four succeeding years, however, is dependent on the belief that trafic volume is headed back toward prosperity levels.

In this connection the equipment departments point out that 1934's freight volume was greater than either 1933 or 1932. Total loadings in 1934 amounted to 30,785,494 cars, an increase of 5.4 per cent over 1933 and 9.2 per cent over 1932.

WESTINGHOUSE GIVEN A $900,000 ORDER FROM TVA

Pittsburgh, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company announced today receipt of a $900,000 contract from the Tennessee Valley authority for two waterwheel generators and auxiliary equipment.

The generators, each of 56,000 KVA capacity, will be placed in the Norris dam power plant on the Clinch river in Tennessee.

About 500,000 man hours of work will be needed for the contract and delivery will be made at the end of the year.

U. S. TAX COLLECTIONS JUMP 18 PER CENT IN LAST SIX MONTHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—Federal internal revenue tax collections jumped 18 per cent during the last six months of 1934, the treasury department announced today. Collections during the last half of the year aggregated $1,537,000,000, compared with $1,215,000,000 during the corresponding period of 1933, an increase of 322 millions.

Almost all of the increase was due to new taxation imposed by the New Deal. Processing and liquor taxes, both imposed since President Roosevelt's inauguration, accounted for the bulk of the gain.

Income tax collections also have increased because of the revising of the rates. Income tax collections during the last six months were 421 million dollars, compared with 317 millions in 1933, a gain of 104 millions. A part of the increase was due to better earnings.

Processing taxes jumped from 140 millions in the last half of 1933 to 269 million dollars in 1934. Liquor taxes, the bulk of which came from beer, jumped from 98 millions to 214 millions.

DOLLAR CLIMBS AGAIN DESPITE GOLD PURCHASES

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—The dollar rose against European gold bloc currencies today despite the fact $30,000,000 more gold was purchased for shipment to the United States. Only pound sterling showed any strength against the dollar.

French francs lost another point to close 6.56¾ cents, with the dollar worth $1.01 against francs, compared with $1.0085 yesterday. The gold value of the dollar was 59.66 cents, based on the old par of the franc, against 59.56 cents yesterday and par of 59.06 cents.

Belgas dipped 3 points to 23¼ cents, while Swiss francs were down 4 points at 32¼ cents, and guilders 8 points lower at 67.30 cents. Scandinavian currencies were 2 points higher, and German marks eased 2 points at 40.03 cents. Canadian dollars returned to parity after showing a premium of 3⅛ points yesterday.

Bullion brokers in London raised the price of gold ½ penny to 142 shillings 1½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.70, based on the opening of sterling at $4.88¼.

The latest gold purchases brought to $339,000,000 the total of gold shipments here or en route since Nov. 5 and made the total engagements since Jan. 15, when anxiety over the gold clause cases before the Supreme court temporarily halted shipments, $112,000,000. No gold imports were received today, but the federal reserve bank of New York reported the arrival as of Tuesday of $26,819,900 gold, of which $21,584,900 came from England and $5,235,000 from India.

N.Y. SUGAR MART SUSPENDS DYER OVER 'SQUEEZE'

13 Others Censured for Part in Deal.

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—As a result of an investigation into the December sugar squeeze on the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange, when shorts failed to deliver sugar in consummation of their contracts, the board of managers today suspended B. W. Dyer of B. W. Dyer & Co. from trading on the exchange for eighteen months.

In addition to suspending the Dyer firm the board censured six other firms, but took no further disciplinary action against them. The firms censured were J. Aron & Co., Hayden, Stone & Co., Lamborn, Hutchings & Co., Little & Christmas, Lobo & Co., and Thomson & McKinnon. The board found that those firms had failed "to coöperate with the board in the best interests of the exchange."

Several Others Admonished.

Seven other firms were "admonished" that in the future the board will expect their every action to be taken with a full sense of their responsibility to further the best interests of the exchange, but finds that the circumstances in their cases were "mitigating." The firms admonished are Abbott, Proctor & Paine, Eastman, Dillon & Co., Farr & Co., Lehman Brothers, Frank C. Lowry & Co., E. M. Richards & Co., and Shields & Co.

The situation leading up to today's action developed in the middle of December when it was found necessary to suspend dealings in the December future because of the emergency arising from the possible shortage of sugar available in December, 1934. The short interest at that time was reported to be about 25,000 tons, against which no sugar was available for purchase or delivery. At two cents a pound, or $40 a ton, the short interest, therefore, stood at about $1,000,000.

Delivery Pact Responsible.

The official explanation for the situation was that it had arisen from an agreement entered into some months ago between the Cuban Sugar institute and American refiners, under which neither party could deliver any sugar on this market. Shorts, therefore, found themselves unable to acquire actual sugar they had expected to deliver.

The "squeeze" was aggravated by the AAA in decreeing that Cuba's 1934 sugar quota had been filled, an announcement which caused interested observers to point out that speculators with an advance knowledge of "happenings at the capital" had been in position to profit immensely.

RFC Tighter in Making Loans than Banks Prof. Viner Reports

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Stung by congressional criticism of its strict lending requirements the Reconstruction Finance corporation now proposes to open the doors wider to permit easier access to its money trough.

On Monday its chairman, Jesse H. Jones, who has loudly criticised bankers for their failure to lend more readily, on his appearance before the banking committee of the house of representatives was criticised by members of the committee for not dealing out RFC funds more liberally. Jones replied that if congress wanted him to "give" the money away he could do it.

* *

Yesterday the proposal to "give" it away advanced a notch when Stanley Reed, counsel for the RFC, appeared before the committee and offered an amendment to the RFC extension bill under which the provision requiring industries to supply "adequate security" would be changed to provide "reasonable assurance" that the loans would be repaid.

Thus the RFC moves in the direction of fulfilling the predictions of those who predicted when the government went into the lending business that political expediency would ultimately result in dealing out taxpayers' funds without regard to security of the loans merely to satisfy political appetites for votes.

* *

Chief thorn in the side of the RFC just now is the much talked about "Viner" report. This report is the fruit of a survey on bank credit in the Chicago district compiled by Prof. Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago and a group of collegians [at $11.40 per diem] as special investigators for the treasury department. It was supposed to show that bankers were holding up business recovery by refusing to make good loans.

The survey was made last summer, and then was smothered for months by the treasury, finally being released in a sublimated summary two months ago. The complete report, few copies of which were printed, came to hand yesterday and is a highly interesting document.

* *

Chief points made in the report are:

1. The federal reserve banks have been more liberal in granting direct loans to industry than has been the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

2. Commercial banks are doing a good job and making loans where loans are justified.

3. The RFC, as indicated by a study of its Chicago office, is all bound up in red tape and ordinary borrowers have less chance of getting loans from that agency than from ordinary banks.

In as much as this is exactly the opposite of what New Deal leaders had charged, it is believed the complete report was purposely buried from the light by the treasury department.

Despite the fact that the RFC is found to be an unwieldy and slow moving lending agency the Viner investigators specifically warned against legislation liberalizing its lending powers for fear that the result would be the lending of money that couldn't be collected. Thus, the action of the RFC yesterday in asking that the bars be let down is exactly the opposite of the recommendation of the treasury investigators.

"We do not recommend a change in the law in this regard," says the Viner report, "since the difficulties of collection are likely to be greater with a governmental agency than with a private commercial bank."

Illustrating the clumsiness and ineptitude of a government agency attempting to do the work of commercial banks is the following paragraph from the Viner report, referring to RFC direct loans to industry:

"What it comes down to, in a very large proportion of cases, is that though the loans are specifically for working capital purposes, they cannot be granted on the security of the kinds of working assets which the businesses carry. A mortgage on fixed plant and equipment is necessary. But the plant and equipment are frequently already mortgaged for fixed capital, and subordination must therefore be secured. Refusal to lend on the security of unpledged current assets and character rating is probably the most important source of widespread complaint that the standards of the Reconstruction Finance corporation are more strict than those of commercial banks."

* *

In other words, the Viner report takes the position that the RFC's red tape regulations hamstring its lending functions but the regulations cannot be eased without opening the doors wide to poor loans that cannot be repaid.

"Apparently the Chicago agency of the Reconstruction Finance corporation is more rigid than is the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago," says the report. "In both institutions the attitude of the loan committee is conservative, but the initial presumption against lending seems to be somewhat stronger at the Reconstruction Finance corporation than at the Federal Reserve bank. The proportion of cases in which the judgment of our investigators differed from that of the RFC's lending officials is considerably higher than it was in the case of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago."

* *

The report says there have been many complaints about the "red tape" involved in making applications for loans at the Chicago office of the RFC.

"Our investigators," it continues, "have been told of numerous cases in which the applicants lost interest in loans as soon as they saw the application blanks. In many other cases applicants complained of the expense and trouble of preparing applications which were finally rejected on grounds that could have been made just as apparent without the elaborate exhibits.

"A Michigan concern claimed that it spent more than $1,200 on appraisals and audits over a period of nearly a year and then was refused a loan. A Wisconsin firm alleged that it spent $10,000 in connection with its application. A Milwaukee investigator reported that disappointed applicants mentioned total expenses ranging from $50 to $3,000.

* *

"A chamber of commerce secretary in Michigan reported that most attempts by small establishments to obtain RFC money were given up after they discovered the requirements, red tape and time involved."

POWER OUTPUT RISES SHARPLY; NEAR RECORD

Production 9.4 Pct. Ahead of 1934.

New York, Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Production of electrical energy during the week ended Jan. 19 was greater than for any other comparable week, except the third week in January, 1930, the Edison Electric institute reported today. Output, which rose to 1,778,273,000 kilowatt hours, was only 38,034,000 kilowatt hours, or 2.1 per cent, behind the all time record for the week.

Volume last week was 9.4 per cent ahead of production last year, compared with a gain of 7.7 per cent the previous week, and was 19.9 per cent ahead of the total for the corresponding week in 1933.

Chicago Area 9.2% Over 1934.

In the Chicago area production was 1.7 per cent above the preceding week and 9.2 per cent over the corresponding week of 1934 with a total of 110,864,000 kilowatt hours, the Commonwealth Edison company announced.

With the exception of two weeks ago the output was the largest recorded so far this season and the percentage of increase over a year ago was highest since the week ended May 19, 1934.

This improvement was attributed to a return of normal weather conditions this year, compared with bright and relatively warm weather last year. Output and percentage of comparisons with last year for the Chicago district follow:

Week ended	1935.	1934.	% inc.
Jan. 19	110,864,000	101,527,000	9.2
Jan. 12	109,007,000	103,994,000	4.8
Jan. 5	102,700,000	99,950,000	2.8
Dec. 29	104,207,000	101,659,000	2.5

The principal acceleration came from steel and automobile industries in the central industrial area, where production was 11.9 per cent ahead of 1934 output. This section showed a gain over last year of 8.7 per cent in the previous week.

Middle Atlantic Rise 7.1%.

The middle Atlantic area, in which the heaviest lighting load is carried due to the density of population, and in which the largest volume of current is consumed, also showed a substantial gain over last year, the increase for the week being 7.1 per cent, compared with 5.4 per cent in the previous week.

New England production declined, being 6.4 per cent over 1934 last week against a gain of 7.7 per cent the week before. In contrast other areas showed uniform advances last week in percentages of increase over 1934 in comparison with the previous week. Southern states moved up from 8.7 per cent to 11.9 per cent, the west central area rose from 4.1 per cent to 6.8 per cent, the Rocky mountain area crept from 11.7 per cent to 12 per cent, and the Pacific coast increased from 5.8 per cent to 6 per cent.

Fort Dearborn Mortgage Company

This company makes loans on income producing real estate. For the past two and one-half years it has been advancing funds made available by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

This company is prepared to make loans in accordance with Reconstruction Finance Corporation Circular No. 18 which provides a more liberal policy with respect to the application of proceeds of its loans to real estate mortgage companies. This permits the making of mortgage loans not only to pay reorganization expenses of committees representing real estate bonds, but also permits a cash distribution to bondholders by committees.

HEAD OF DAVEGA STORES OWNS 4% OF TOTAL STOCK

SEC Reveals Other Large Private Holdings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—[Special.]—Nathan L. Cohn, Chicago, chairman of the board of Davega Stores corporation, reported to the federal securities exchange commission today he owns directly less than five per cent of the company's stock.

Cohn, who complied with the section of the securities act requiring directors to report their stock holdings, gave his holdings of Davega common stock as 10,837 shares. This stock, on the bases of yesterday's closing price, was valued at $86,696.

Since the Davega corporation has reported previously to the SEC that it has 256,500 shares of common stock outstanding, Cohn's 10,837 shares give him an interest of slightly more than 4 per cent.

Tells of Transfers.

Cohn reported also that during December he had sold 5,100 shares of Davega Stores corporation common, now worth $40,800, to the Retail Stores corporation, of which he is a director and shareholder. In addition, Cohn said that in December he bought from Mrs. N. L. Cohn 300 shares of Davega common.

Most valuable stockholding reported to the SEC today was that of Bemon S. Prentice, New York, director of the National Supply company. His 6,190 shares of preferred stock in that company have a market value, on the basis of yesterday's prices, of $274,681.

Among well known names included in today's reports was that of Parry D. Saylor, New York, president of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc. Mr. Saylor told the SEC he owns 13,344 shares of the company's stock, with a current market value of approximately $203,500. Although he is president of the company, his stockholdings in it represent only 2.62 per cent of the 512,631 shares of common stock which Canada Dry has outstanding.

Holdings 34 Per Cent of Total.

A. H. Bryant, Bloomfield, N. J., president of the International Safety Razor corporation, reported he holds 60,314 shares of the corporation's class B stock. This makes him the owner of 34 per cent of the stock, since the issue amounts to only 173,973 shares.

Irwin H. Cornell, New York, vice president and trustee of the St. Joseph Lead company, reported 5,177 shares of the company's capital stock, having a market value of $81,538.

CATTLE STEADY, HOGS AND LAMBS SHARPLY LOWER

Irregularity marked live stock trading yesterday. Best grades of steers and some top corn fed butcher stock maintained their high position, but hogs and lambs declined sharply. Extremely cold weather stimulated demand for meats, resulting in the best clearance for a midweek session in some time.

Many grades rallied from early lows and erased about half the full decline. This was particularly true of hogs, which opened 15 to 25 cents lower and closed about 10 cents over the opening quotations. All big local houses were aggressive buyers. Armour, Swift, and Wilson handled a combined total of 16,000 hogs, about 55 per cent of fresh receipts for the day.

Top grade hogs sank to $10.15, processing tax included, while the average dropped to $10, equaling the lowest since last Wednesday. The hog price range continued to narrow, with 200 to 300 pound averages selling at a 10 cent difference.

Big packers were active in cattle also, but showed a marked preference for the smaller number of well finished steers. Swift paid $13, the top for medium weight steers, equaling the previous high mark. This price has not been exceeded since January, 1931.

An effort to equalize values in the cattle department was in evidence as the price range for steers reached the widest point in four years. Beef steers sold within a range of $6 to $13, compared with a range of $3.50 to $7.35 a year ago and $3.50 to $7.25 two years ago.

Lambs sank 25 cents at the opening yesterday, but came back later and recovered about half of the loss. City butchers paid as high as $9.25, while packers and shippers paid $9.10.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 23.—Heavy buying of United States government bonds yesterday sent eleven of the twenty-two treasury and government guaranteed issues to the highest levels since issuance on the stock exchange today. The gains for the day in the government group ranged from 1-32d to 14-32d's point with most of the issues closing at or near the day's highs.

Treasury 3¾s Buoyant.

The best record established today was in treasury 3¾s due 1956, which, with the maximum gain of 14-32d's point, exceeded the previous peak recorded in 1928. Other issues which scored new record highs were the three issues of treasury 3¾s, the 3¼s, due 1946; the 3¼s due 1941, the 3¼s due 1949, the 3s due 1955, the 3s due 1947, the 2¾s due 1952, and the Home Owners' Loan corporation 2¾s due 1949.

Municipal bonds followed the higher trend of governments with dealers marking up prices of many high grade state and municipal issues. Domestic corporation bonds moved irregularly lower, many of the more speculative issues losing a point or more. However, the list was not without a few strong spots, notably in the public utility group, a few of which made new 1934-'35 highs.

Foreign Loans Drift Lower.

Foreign loans drifted lower in quiet trading. German loans were mildly reactionary following strength earlier in the week. Strength of the dollar had an unsettling effect on foreign prices. Japanese government 6½s dropped a point and the 5½s eased ¾ of a point, with other Japanese loans showing minor irregularities. Latin-American bonds were inclined to be slightly easier.

Bucyrus-Erie.

Investors Guide: Will you kindly furnish me with what information you can concerning Bucyrus-Erie?—W. E. H.

Answer: Bucyrus-Erie company manufactures a complete line of excavating machinery. Its products are used in all kinds of contracting, public works, dredging, irrigation, mining, and levee building. Distribution is world-wide.

Higher metal prices, especially gold, have stimulated mining activities, which has increased the demand from that source for this company's products. The company has been benefited by public works projects. On Oct. 15, 1934, for instance, it received a contract to supply materials for the Columbia river dam, at a reported figure of $200,000.

As a result operations for the first half of 1934, although still in the red, were the best since the first half of 1931. Net loss was $71,000, against loss of $508,000 for the first six months of 1933.

These factors, coupled with the elimination of extraordinary charges which figured in 1932 results, enabled the company to cut its 1933 loss to $991,000 from $1,841,000 in 1932. Net income in 1931 was $824,000, or 22 cents per common share, against $2,439,000, or $1.63 per common share, for 1930.

On June 30, 1934, cash and equivalent totaled $2,752,000 and current liabilities were $979,000.

Capitalization consists of 68,300 7 per cent cumulative preferred shares, par $100, 419,112 shares of $5 par noncumulative preference stock, and 560,000 shares of $10 par common. The preference stock is convertible into common on a share for share basis.

Preferred dividends have been paid regularly, although recently they have been on a reduced basis. They are currently being paid at the rate of 50 cents a quarter, which rate has been in effect since April 1, 1933. Dividends of $1 were paid in each of the two preceding quarters, prior to which time they were paid at the stipulated rate.

The preferred is medium grade. The preference stock is speculative and the common more so.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Miscellaneous.

DO YOU WANT A CHANCE TO CREATE A REAL JOB FOR YOURSELF?

How many men do you suppose there are today who are waiting for their old jobs to come back, or one just like it to blossom around the corner? There's about as much chance of getting that old place back under old conditions as there was for thousands of buck privates who returned from the war, after the hooray was dead, only to find fresher, younger men holding their old places—and not a possibility in the world to get into the old position! The same condition exists today! We have been through another war—and millions of promises were made when things looked up the same as when the boys went to the front in the world war. You can't cash in on these delayed hopes, but you have every right to be successful, and you can succeed if you will turn your thoughts in a new and different direction!

Now, positively, we don't want a man who is not willing to make a job for himself and underwrite his own growing income with his efforts. The fact is, that our electrical service, equipment and unit corporation has abundant cash—pays its way—has done so all during the depression; pays its men promptly, and regularly, with cashable full commission checks. We train you. We select a place on the North or Northwest Side, or in some adjacent suburb, convenient to your residence, where you can build your business. Under our plan, you have a good-will area that equals the trade area of about 75 grocery stores, or 10 hardware stores. You control the good will in this area. You build yourself on a basis so strong and sound that inside a few weeks your income will grow from a modest beginning, to good fat checks—and inside 6 months, if you do no better than many who have come into the business in the past, you should be making far more than any one of the merchants in that trade territory—without their being in competition with you in any sense!

We don't want your money. No man with us could invest in this business if he wanted to. We do expect him to invest time and energy and exclude all other industrial interests and work. We do expect him to have character, courtesy, neatness and vigor, and a man living in these parts of Chicago and not a floater. This is not incidental or experimental, and therefore we must have men who can concentrate on one business and build up to its vast possibilities. Are YOU that type of man? Are you desirous of making a place for yourself that nobody can ever take from? Do you want to place your family on a basis of safety and plenty? We spare no time, expense, and effort to make you succeed, and all we ask and must have—is like co-operation and interest on your part. We are on the dead-level in inviting you, and expect you to come in the same spirit of sincerity. Therefore, we invite you to call at Suite 215-226 at 1046 Wilson-av., just east of Broadway, at 2:00 p. m. Thursday, Jan. 24—no other time!

A Man Making $75 a Week Is Happy and Lucky!

Hundreds of our men are making from $50 to as high as $250 a week cash comms. with an invention that has everybody amazed in the specialty field.

Priced to sell today for as low as fifteen cents a day, this electrical unit is being accepted by public buildings, stores, homes, theaters, is passed by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, installed by Government Buildings throughout the U. S., in the White House and comes as near to selling itself as any product you will ever see.

You don't have to be a salesman, because we will discount sales experience in favor of a genuine desire to learn and work hard. A new man just starting can expect to earn from $38 to $70 his first week.

We will interview men between 10 and 12 noon Thursday. No other time. Suite 404.

BREVOORT HOTEL
